Senate Censure Debate Ends

India, West Bog Down On Korea Plans

UN Group Wants To Begin Debate On Issues Today

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—The Western Big Three and India were reported bogged down today in their week-long attempt to agree on a joint course of action in the Korean deadlock.

The U. N. Assembly's Political Committee hoped to begin debate on Korea tomorrow. Some delegates said the West and India have not agreed at this stage but that they would continue talks. They appeared pessimistic, however.

The United States took an exceptionally stiff attitude on any proposals for negotiations with the Red Chinese, diplomats said, because of the sentencing by Peiping of 13 Americans who were taken prisoner during the Korean War and who now are branded by the Reds as spies.

Can't Understand Reds

One Asian diplomat said he could not understand the purpose of the Chinese Reds in taking this action at this time. There was yet no sign that the Americans were bringing up a separate item in the Assembly on this issue but some diplomats said the case almost certainly would figure in the debate.

On the eve of the debate, here, in brief, is the situation:

1. The United States circulated a proposed resolution to some delegates. It would have the 60-nation Assembly accept the report on the Geneva conference as submitted by the 15 U.N. members who fought for the U. N. in Korea. It would have the Assembly reaffirm that the objective of the U. N. remains the achievement by peaceful means of a unified, independent and democratic Korea under a representative form of government and the full restoration of international peace and security in the area.

Works On Resolution

2. V. K. Krishna Menon, India's chief delegate, worked on a resolution stating that some method should be left open for negotiations between the West and the Communists. Menon was reported not definitely decided on what method to propose. The United States was said to be firm against Menon's idea of asking the three chairmen of the Geneva conference to assume the task of starting new negotiations whenever the time was ripe.

3. The Russian bloc, reported to desire a resumption of the Korean conference in Geneva, remained silent.

Japan Fliers Graduate Here

CAMP MATSUSHIMA, Japan, Wednesday, Dec. 1 (AP) — Thirteen Japanese World War II pilots, including one who was in on the Pearl Harbor attack, were graduated yesterday into the new U. S.-style air force.

Japanese and U. S. officials disclosed at the air school's graduation ceremonies that Japan's new air force next June will activate three 25-plane squadrons of Sabrejets supplied by the United States.

Among the graduates of the five-months refresher course was Lt. Col. Masanobu Ibuski, who flew a navy plane in the attack on Pearl Harbor. It was conceivable he also flew in combat against one of his U. S. Air Force tutors over New Guinea in 1944.

Records showed that Maj. Donald P. Voss, Edgerton, Ohio, chief flight training instructor, and Ibuski were flying over the same area of New Guinea on the same day.

Off-Duty Accidents Posing Serious Threat To Military

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Increasing numbers of automobile and other off-duty accidents which kill or injure servicemen are "posing a serious threat" to the overall effectiveness of the military forces, an Air Force doctor reported today.

Addressing the 61st annual convention of the Assn. of Military Surgeons of the United States, Col. T. C. Bedwell Jr. of the Air Force surgeon general's office declared:

"Service personnel have one of the worst accident records of any group in the nation. Automobiles driven by young servicemen are 'an undesirable insurance risk.'

"Military personnel are involved in about one out of every 30 fatal accidents in the United States. Yet servicemen and women don't add up to nearly 1-30th of the total population, nor do they drive even one out of each 30 miles driven in the nation."

Some of the injuries occur during duty, he said, but "off-duty accidents are the most important accident problem facing the armed forces"—with motor vehicle accidents the most serious.

During 195" alone, he reported, 3,657 members of the armed services died from accidental injuries and 84,134 suffered nonfatal injuries.

Cost to the government to care for the injured and the survivors of the dead was $68,903,000 for the Air Force and Army alone. The other two services do not compute accident costs to the government.

Train Backs Up So Woman Can Recover Bonnet

MINEOLA, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—Breathes there a railroad with soul so dead that it wouldn't back up the 9:22 to put a lady's new hat back on her head?

Not the Long Island Railroad, anyway.

Mrs. Mary Jo Hasson of Manhattan gave an anguished cry this morning as she arrived on the platform at Mineola. The wind had whipped off her brand new $12.50 bonnet and deposited it under the second car of the train.

Conductor J. F. Ryan Sr. heard Mrs. Hasson's wail. He trotted up to the engine and conferred with engineer Walter Stephenson. The engineer nodded.

Slowly the 9:22 backed up two car lengths. Mrs. Hasson's hat emerged to view, its two nine-inch feathers intact.

Two Iowa Girls Win Top Awards At Exposition

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 (AP)—Two teenage Iowa farm girls completed a history-marking sweep today, beating out more than 800 adult competitors to win the International Livestock Exposition's most coveted awards.

Tiny Janice Hullinger, 16, of Manly, won the steer grand championship—high point of the show—with "Shorty," a 1,080 pound Aberdeen-Angus summer yearling. The reserve grand champion, a summer yearling shorthorn, was shown by Barbara Clause, 15, of Spencer.

Selection of the two girls for top cattle honors set a precedent of the national. It was the first time in the 55-year history of the show that girls had won the steer championship and reserve championship of the junior feeding contest and then went on to share grand championship honors.

Janice and Barbara, Both 4-H Club workers, defeated some 350 other youngsters Saturday in the junior show before entering the open classes yesterday.

This was the first year of competition at the big Chicago show for both girls.

Janice, a 5 foot, 110 pound youngster who stood hardly a foot above her sleek black calf, broke into sobs when the steer judge, A. D. Weber of Kansas State College, gave her steer a slap on the rump that signified it was the winner.

Asked what she would do with the money realized from sale of the steer at auction Thursday, Janice repeated what she said Saturday after winning the junior steer championship.

"I'm going to use it for inside plumbing at our home."

A sophomore at Manly High School, Janice lives on a 320-acre farm near Manly with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Hullinger, two sisters and three brothers.

Janice's victory will pay off in cash Thursday when the steer is auctioned. Last year's grand champion, a Hereford shown by Sue White, 19, of Big Spring, Texas, sold for $20,100 or 120 a pound.

Barbara, a pretty, slim blond, is a sophomore at Spencer High School. She said she hopes to start a herd of shorthorns with money she gets from the sale of her steer.

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Nov. 30 (AP)—A freezing North Atlantic snow storm that developed off the Nova Scotia coast slammed into Southern Newfoundland late today. Winds of 98 miles an hour were reported.

New York Gets Church Council Headquarters

BOSTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—A long simmering dispute over locating headquarters of the National Council of Churches in New York City—or the Midwest—boiled over today, with the nod going to New York.

But a new showdown was predicted later.

Dr. Arthur C. McGiffert, a Chicago Congregationalist, said the plan to establish the headquarters in New York "caused a shiver of dismay and apprehension among the Christian people who live west of the Alleghanies."

"The decision suffers from a kind of nearsightedness," he said.

Peppery debate broke out on the floor of the council's biennial General Assembly when a special committee reported on action of the council's interim General Board in picking the New York location.

Site of the huge permanent center, embracing a network of 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 35½ million members throughout the country, has been a seething issue in the council for several years.

The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, of Greenwich, Conn., presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, supported the New York location. He said a "key point" was to keep the center near main offices of member denominations.

The council—as an organization of denominations and not of local parishes—has "an absolute necessity of being in the neighborhood of the greater number of denominational headquarters and boards," he said.

Of the council's 30 denominations, headquarters of 15 are in a near radius of New York, nine in the city itself, five in Philadelphia and one in Pittsburgh. No other American city has more than three denominational headquarters.

French Assembly Changes Constitution

PARIS, Nov. 30 (AP)—The French National Assembly tonight voted to change the Constitution so new premiers can be voted into office more easily during the nation's frequent cabinet crises.

The deputies agreed to abolish the provision that a majority of all members of the Assembly must approve a new premier. Under the new constitutional provision, a simple plurality will be necessary.

Woman Has Third Set Of Twin Babies

CARTHAGE, Mo., Nov. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Luther Lee, 32, of Larussell, Mo., gave birth to her third set of twins in four years at a Carthage hospital last night.

The latest additions to the Lee family — Nos. 10 and 11 — are sons Dickie Tim, 7 pounds 9 ounces, and Rickey Kim, 6 pounds 6 ounces. They were born 12 minutes apart.

British Storm Sinks Another Ship, 15 Dead

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The great storm sweeping Britain sank a 7,373-ton ship today and spread new floods and damage across the country.

Rescue ships plucked three bodies and 19 survivors from the boiling Irish Sea after the British freighter Tresillian foundered at dawn. Coastguards reported 12 other bodies were sighted in the area and six more crewmen were missing and believed lost.

That brought the death toll in five days of shipping disasters to 43. Two other ships are feared lost.

Winds up to 100 miles an hour brought torrential rain and rising floods to more than 20 counties. People in several south coast towns were flooded out for the second time in four days.

South Africans Name Minister

PRETORIA, South Africa, Nov. 30 (AP)—South Africa's governing Nationalist party today picked as new prime minister a man whose goal is to make the country a republic. He also wants the government to make an even sterner policy on racial segregation then it has now and to abandon use of the English language.

A party caucus named Lands Minister Johannes Gerhardus Strijdom, 61, who uses only the Afrikaans tongue in public and is known as the "Lion of the Transvaal," to succeed retiring Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan as Nationalist leader.

With the resignation of Malan effective at midnight, Gov. Gen. E. G. Jansen called on Strijdom to form a new government.

Strijdom has never yet said whether he wants to make South Africa a republic within the British commonwealth of nations or take it out of the commonwealth.

The new prime minister favors even stronger measures than Malan to implement the Nationalists' uncompromising policy of racial segregation and white supremacy.

Pope's Condition Remains Unchanged

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 30 (AP)—The condition of Pope Pius XII, beset by a recurrence of gastritis and hiccups that sapped his strength last winter, was described as little changed today.

A source close to the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church said the pontiff passed "a fairly tranquil night."

Since his return here Saturday from his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, the Pope has been confined to bed in his Vatican apartment except for brief periods. He has been placed on a strict diet by his private physician.

Wife's Blood On Sheppard's Wrist Watch

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30 (AP)—A blue-eyed woman who is a test tube wizard testified today that blood like Marilyn Sheppard's was caked on her husband's wrist watch after her murder.

But the expert, Mary Cowan, for nearly 16 years a medical technician in the county coroner's office, said there were no fingerprints to be found on the watch or other articles of Dr. Samuel Sheppard's personal jewelry—a signet ring and a key chain.

Testifying at Sheppard's first degree murder trial, Miss Cowan also said a green cloth bag in which the articles were later found in the osteopath's front yard bore no bloodstains.

Thus, she left the implication that the watch, ring and chain were placed in the bag after the blood had time to dry—a matter of 15 to 20 minutes.

Sheppard's defense includes a claim that a prowler stole the jewelry during a murderous foray into his home July 4, then abandoned it as the handsome osteopath pursued him from the house.

Sheppard, 30, claims this bushy haired marauder killed his pregnant, 31-year-old wife in her bed.

Through Miss Cowan, the state attempted to demonstrate that such a prowler took the jewelry without leaving his fingerprints on it, then dallied around the murder scene long enough for the blood to dry before he stuffed the watch into the green bag.

Miss Cowan testified on the delicately intricate tests she made for blood. To guide her, she had a sample of Marilyn's blood—type O-M.

She said she tested blood on the watch and was unable to type it in one direction. However, she added, a second test showed it contained the M factor.

Famed German Conductor Dies

BADEN BADEN, Germany, Nov. 30 (AP)—Wilhelm Furwaengler, 68, noted German orchestra conductor whose independence caused him trouble with both the Nazis and anti-Nazis, died of pneumonia tonight.

Death came as plans were pending to send him and his 110-member Berlin Symphony Orchestra next year to the United States, a country where he had not always been welcome because of the honors the Nazis heaped on him.

Ike Opposes Red China's Blockade

Fails To Back Knowland Proposal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Senate's Republican leader called again today for a blockade of Red China to force the release of American prisoners there, but the White House said President Eisenhower feels this would be "war action."

Eisenhower thus lined up solidly with Secretary of State Dulles against the proposal of Sen. Knowland of California.

In a major speech at Chicago last night, Dulles said the United States had agreed under the United Nations charter to try to settle international disputes in a manner which would not endanger world peace.

"Therefore," Dulles said, "our first duty is to exhaust peaceful means of sustaining our international rights and those of our citizens, rather than now resorting to war action such as a naval and air blockade of Red China."

Protest Is Rejected

A strong American protest against the imprisonment of 11 U. S. airmen and two civilians as "spies" has just been rejected by Red Chinese representatives in Geneva, Switzerland, the only point of direct diplomatic contact with the Peiping regime.

Knowland said there may be some other "effective alternative" to the blockade he advocates.

"If it is effective, it will have my full support," he added. "But personally, I don't believe either the Congress or the country will remain complacent month in and month out while Americans are in Communist jails."

Interviewed on a television program — (NBC's Dave Garroway show)—the Senate leader argued that a blockade of the Chinese coast would make things "so expensive" for the Communists that they would be forced to release the 13 Americans, whose prison sentences were announced last week, and a number of other U. S. citizens also being held.

The White House view of the situation was reported by James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary. Newsmen asked him whether the President agreed with Dulles that a blockade would amount to war action.

"Yes," Hagerty replied. He went on to say that Eisenhower "approved completely" of the secretary of state's speech.

Dulles had said "our nation will react, and react vigorously, but without allowing ourselves to be provoked into action which would be a violation of our international obligations."

Waiting To Hear

Knowland was asked by reporters whether he knew what Dulles had in mind when he spoke of "vigorous" reaction.

"I'm frankly waiting to hear," the senator said.

He expressed doubt that another diplomatic note to the Red Chinese would do any good and said he didn't think U. N. intervention would be effective if it "merely backed up our note."

Churchill Fails To Give Hint On Retirement Plan

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 80th birthday today with a tear and a smile — and nary a hint that he has any immediate intention of retiring. He said, in fact, "I hope I still have some services to render."

A surge of emotion swept Britain in tributes to the Prime Minister — even overshadowing the royal pageantry accompanying Queen Elizabeth's opening of a new session of Parliament which, by coincidence, fell on the same day.

And friends overseas, even some East of the Iron Curtain, poured in money for a birthday fund which officials said may well top two million dollars. Presented a check for 150,000 pounds ($420,000) as "a token on account," he announced the money will be used to found the "Winston Churchill Birthday Trust" for museum and charitable purposes.

Direction of the trust "will be an enduring pleasure in the months or years that remain to me," he said.

For the Old Man, who has gained many of the world's greatest honors, the day was "the most memorable occasion of my public life."

Everywhere Churchill went on his birthday rounds he was greeted by cheering crowds of various political feelings — many as visibly moved as himself.

At times the Churchill of the glib tongue was so overcome as to be almost speechless. Then he acknowledged well wishes only with a warm "thank you, thank you, thank you."

Among his colleagues in Parliament, where he has served 52 years, Churchill confessed "I am overwhelmed by two emotions—pride and humility — and I can't tell which dominates."

And as political friend and foe rose to wish him health and many more years, the old Conservative leader filled up and made one of his rare references to his age.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said with tears glistening in his blue eyes, "I am now nearing the end of my journey. I hope I still have some services to render. However that may be and whatever may befall, I am sure I shall never forget the emotion of this day."

Former Swim Star Succumbs

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (AP)—Former swimming champion Virginia Hopkins Watson, 32, died last night of peritonitis that followed an abortion, police reported today.

Officers quoted her husband, Arthur Watson, Hollywood, as saying she told him she was afraid that having a baby would interfere with her chance to break into the movies. Watson was quoted as saying he did not know his wife was pregnant until, just before she died, she told him about the operation.

Detective Sgt. Herman Zander said Watson told him: "I always wanted a family, but Virginia didn't. She was going to have a swimming part in a picture in two or three weeks and thought it was her big chance to get into the movies."

Detectives said they were looking for the doctor who performed the operation.

Miss Hopkins, her twin sister Marion, Eleanor Chamberlain and Esther Williams, who has since become a movie star, set a new national 400-meter relay record in the senior women's national AAU swimming meet at Des Moines, Iowa, July 28, 1939. Their time of 4 minutes, 46 seconds beat the previous mark by 8.8 seconds.

Abandon Rescue

ST. CLAIR, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP)—Rescue workers today abandoned hope of reaching a trapped coal miner alive.

Vote To Begin Today In Bitter M'Carthy Fight

Jenners And Flanders Clash; Talks Made To Near Empty Chamber

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The last full day of debate in the McCarthy censure row ended tonight with impassioned appeals and counterappeals in an all but empty Senate chamber.

Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) rang down the curtain with a declaration that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) must be rebuked because "the tactics he has used are destructive of the very institutions of free government."

Lehman spoke after Sen. Mundt (R-SD), taking the opposite side, declared it would be a great day for the world-wide Communist propaganda mill if censure is voted for McCarthy. He said a censure vote would be viewed as a retreat in this country's fight against subversion.

More Speeches Due

There'll be a few more speeches tomorrow. Then, by unanimous consent, this special session of the Senate will start voting late in the afternoon on the question of whether or not to reprimand the junior senator from Wisconsin on charges of unbecoming conduct and contempt of the Senate.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said he expected the whole censure issue to be settled Thursday night. The extraordinary session then can end, he said, apart for possible later action on a few non-controversial nominations or other matters.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) drew today's biggest audience of senators and spectators with a speech accusing McCarthy of starting a "prairie fire" of fear and hatred which, he said, not even McCarthy may be able to put out.

He read aloud from a stack of letters from McCarthy supporters —reflecting, he said, race and religious bitterness, "unadulterated hatred, vituperation and abuse."

Calls For Rejection

Mundt then called for rejection of the McCarthy censure resolution, asking the Senate instead to change its rules and adopt a code of personal conduct ruling out such behavior as McCarthy's foes are complaining.

Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) took the floor briefly in defense of his amendment which would censure McCarthy for attacks on the Watkins Committee—the body which originally recommended censure on two other grounds.

Bennett urged that McCarthy—who spent only a half-hour in the chamber, during the late afternoon —take the floor and make an "affirmative case" for himself on the censure question. He said that so far the McCarthy camp seemed to be relying largely on putting questions to senators favoring censure.

Lehman, winding up the debate, declared the Senate itself—not McCarthy—is on trial "at the bar of public opinion in our own country and of world opinion, too."

Fulbright took after McCarthy in much the same vein.

"The junior senator from Wiscoin," he declared, "by his reckless charges has so preyed upon the fears and hatred and prejudices of the American people that he has started a prairie fire which neither he nor anyone else may be able to control."

McCarthy entered the chamber for the first time at 4:18 p.m. while Mundt was speaking.

Eight minutes later the Wisconsin senator, his arm still heavily bandaged and in a sling, demanded a quorum call on the ground only three Democratic senators were present along with 15 or 20 Republicans.

Disgusting Spectacle

"This is the most disgusting spectacle I have ever seen," McCarthy said. Then, addressing

Baruch Challenges Churchill To Game In Birthday Greeting

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Bernard M. Baruch, 84, American advisor to presidents, wished his old friend Prime Minister Churchill a happy 80th birthday today by television. He added a gin rummy challenge.

Baruch recalled that in the years he has known Churchill, the Prime Minister has attained every success — except victory in gin rummy over Baruch.

However, said Baruch, "you are younger than I and youth will prevail."

Korean War Vets Suffered More Serious Mental Ills

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Psychiatric illnesses suffered by Korean War veterans were fewer but appear to be "more serious" than those of World War II men, Dr. Harvey J. Tompkins reported today.

Dr. Tompkins, chief psychiatrist for the Veterans Administration, offered no theories as to the reason, but said this suggestion arises from observation of Korean veterans seeking treatment. The average hospital stay is longer for the Korean men, he said.

He told the Assn. of Military Surgeons of the United States that actually the percentage of Korean veterans receiving compensation for "psychotic" (very serious mental illness) is much smaller than that for World War II veterans. But he implied that psychotic and lesser mental illnesses among Korean veterans is, on the average, more intense than that of the World War II men.

He indicated, however, that with respect at least to those susceptible to treatment on an out-patient basis, "the Korean veteran treatment possibilities are more favorable in some respects, such as their being younger and therefore having more flexibility and pliability."

New York Gets Church Council Headquarters

BOSTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—A long simmering dispute over locating headquarters of the National Council of Churches in New York City—or the Midwest—boiled over today, with the nod going to New York.

But a new showdown was predicted later.

Dr. Arthur C. McGiffert, a Chicago Congregationalist, said the plan to establish the headquarters in New York "caused a shiver of dismay and apprehension among the Christian people who live west of the Alleghanies."

"The decision suffers from a kind of nearsightedness," he said.

Peppery debate broke out on the floor of the council's biennial General Assembly when a special committee reported on action of the council's interim General Board in picking the New York location.

Site of the huge permanent center, embracing a network of 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with 35½ million members throughout the country, has been a seething issue in the council for several years.

The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, of Greenwich, Conn., presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, supported the New York location. He said a "key point" was to keep the center near main offices of member denominations.

The council—as an organization of denominations and not of local parishes—has "an absolute necessity of being in the neighborhood of the greater number of denominational headquarters and boards," he said.

Of the council's 30 denominations, headquarters of 15 are in a near radius of New York, nine in the city itself, five in Philadelphia and one in Pittsburgh. No other American city has more than three denominational headquarters.

French Assembly Changes Constitution

PARIS, Nov. 30 (AP)—The French National Assembly tonight voted to change the Constitution so new premiers can be voted into office more easily during the nation's frequent cabinet crises.

The deputies agreed to abolish the provision that a majority of all members of the Assembly must approve a new premier. Under the new constitutional provision, a simple plurality will be necessary.

British Storm Sinks Another Ship, 15 Dead

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The great storm sweeping Britain sank a 7,373-ton ship today and spread new floods and damage across the country.

Rescue ships plucked three bodies and 19 survivors from the boiling Irish Sea after the British freighter Tresillian foundered at dawn. Coastguards reported 12 other bodies were sighted in the area and six more crewmen were missing and believed lost.

That brought the death toll in five days of shipping disasters to 43. Two other ships are feared lost.

Winds up to 100 miles an hour brought torrential rain and rising floods to more than 20 counties. People in several south coast towns were flooded out for the second time in four days.

South Africans Name Minister

PRETORIA, South Africa, Nov. 30 (AP)—South Africa's governing Nationalist party today picked as new prime minister a man whose goal is to make the country a republic. He also wants the government to make an even sterner policy on racial segregation then it has now and to abandon use of the English language.

A party caucus named Lands Minister Johannes Gerhardus Strijdom, 61, who uses only the Afrikaans tongue in public and is known as the "Lion of the Transvaal," to succeed retiring Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan as Nationalist leader.

With the resignation of Malan effective at midnight, Gov. Gen. E. G. Jansen called on Strijdom to form a new government.

Strijdom has never yet said whether he wants to make South Africa a republic within the British commonwealth of nations or take it out of the commonwealth.

The new prime minister favors even stronger measures than Malan to implement the Nationalists' uncompromising policy of racial segregation and white supremacy.

Pope's Condition Remains Unchanged

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 30 (AP)—The condition of Pope Pius XII, beset by a recurrence of gastritis and hiccups that sapped his strength last winter, was described as little changed today.

A source close to the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church said the pontiff passed "a fairly tranquil night."

Since his return here Saturday from his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, the Pope has been confined to bed in his Vatican apartment except for brief periods. He has been placed on a strict diet by his private physician.

Wife's Blood On Sheppard's Wrist Watch

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30 (AP)—A blue-eyed woman who is a test tube wizard testified today that blood like Marilyn Sheppard's was caked on her husband's wrist watch after her murder.

But the expert, Mary Cowan, for nearly 16 years a medical technician in the county coroner's office, said there were no fingerprints to be found on the watch or other articles of Dr. Samuel Sheppard's personal jewelry—a signet ring and a key chain.

Testifying at Sheppard's first degree murder trial, Miss Cowan also said a green cloth bag in which the articles were later found in the osteopath's front yard bore no bloodstains.

Thus, she left the implication that the watch, ring and chain were placed in the bag after the blood had time to dry—a matter of 15 to 20 minutes.

Sheppard's defense includes a claim that a prowler stole the jewelry during a murderous foray into his home July 4, then abandoned it as the handsome osteopath pursued him from the house.

Sheppard, 30, claims this bushy haired marauder killed his pregnant, 31-year-old wife in her bed.

Through Miss Cowan, the state attempted to demonstrate that such a prowler took the jewelry without leaving his fingerprints on it, then dallied around the murder scene long enough for the blood to dry before he stuffed the watch into the green bag.

Miss Cowan testified on the delicately intricate tests she made for blood. To guide her, she had a sample of Marilyn's blood—type O-M.

She said she tested blood on the watch and was unable to type it in one direction. However, she added, a second test showed it contained the M factor.

Famed German Conductor Dies

BADEN BADEN, Germany, Nov. 30 (AP)—Wilhelm Furwaengler, 68, noted German orchestra conductor whose independence caused him trouble with both the Nazis and anti-Nazis, died of pneumonia tonight.

Death came as plans were pending to send him and his 110-member Berlin Symphony Orchestra next year to the United States, a country where he had not always been welcome because of the honors the Nazis heaped on him.

Ike Opposes Red China's Blockade

Fails To Back Knowland Proposal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Senate's Republican leader called again today for a blockade of Red China to force the release of American prisoners there, but the White House said President Eisenhower feels this would be "war action."

Eisenhower thus lined up solidly with Secretary of State Dulles against the proposal of Sen. Knowland of California.

In a major speech at Chicago last night, Dulles said the United States had agreed under the United Nations charter to try to settle international disputes in a manner which would not endanger world peace.

"Therefore," Dulles said, "our first duty is to exhaust peaceful means of sustaining our international rights and those of our citizens, rather than now resorting to war action such as a naval and air blockade of Red China."

Protest Is Rejected

A strong American protest against the imprisonment of 11 U. S. airmen and two civilians as "spies" has just been rejected by Red Chinese representatives in Geneva, Switzerland, the only point of direct diplomatic contact with the Peiping regime.

Knowland said there may be some other "effective alternative" to the blockade he advocates.

"If it is effective, it will have my full support," he added. "But personally, I don't believe either the Congress or the country will remain complacent month in and month out while Americans are in Communist jails."

Interviewed on a television program — (NBC's Dave Garroway show)—the Senate leader argued that a blockade of the Chinese coast would make things "so expensive" for the Communists that they would be forced to release the 13 Americans, whose prison sentences were announced last week, and a number of other U. S. citizens also being held.

The White House view of the situation was reported by James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary. Newsmen asked him whether the President agreed with Dulles that a blockade would amount to war action.

"Yes," Hagerty replied. He went on to say that Eisenhower "approved completely" of the secretary of state's speech.

Dulles had said "our nation will react, and react vigorously, but without allowing ourselves to be provoked into action which would be a violation of our international obligations."

Waiting To Hear

Knowland was asked by reporters whether he knew what Dulles had in mind when he spoke of "vigorous" reaction.

"I'm frankly waiting to hear," the senator said.

He expressed doubt that another diplomatic note to the Red Chinese would do any good and said he didn't think U. N. intervention would be effective if it "merely backed up our note."

Churchill Fails To Give Hint On Retirement Plan

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 80th birthday today with a tear and a smile — and nary a hint that he has any immediate intention of retiring. He said, in fact, "I hope I still have some services to render."

A surge of emotion swept Britain in tributes to the Prime Minister — even overshadowing the royal pageantry accompanying Queen Elizabeth's opening of a new session of Parliament which, by coincidence, fell on the same day.

And friends overseas, even some East of the Iron Curtain, poured in money for a birthday fund which officials said may well top two million dollars. Presented a check for 150,000 pounds ($420,000) as "a token on account," he announced the money will be used to found the "Winston Churchill Birthday Trust" for museum and charitable purposes.

Direction of the trust "will be an enduring pleasure in the months or years that remain to me," he said.

For the Old Man, who has gained many of the world's greatest honors, the day was "the most memorable occasion of my public life."

Everywhere Churchill went on his birthday rounds he was greeted by cheering crowds of various political feelings — many as visibly moved as himself.

At times the Churchill of the glib tongue was so overcome as to be almost speechless. Then he acknowledged well wishes only with a warm "thank you, thank you, thank you."

Among his colleagues in Parliament, where he has served 52 years, Churchill confessed "I am overwhelmed by two emotions—pride and humility — and I can't tell which dominates."

And as political friend and foe rose to wish him health and many more years, the old Conservative leader filled up and made one of his rare references to his age.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said with tears glistening in his blue eyes, "I am now nearing the end of my journey. I hope I still have some services to render. However that may be and whatever may befall, I am sure I shall never forget the emotion of this day."

Former Swim Star Succumbs

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (AP)—Former swimming champion Virginia Hopkins Watson, 32, died last night of peritonitis that followed an abortion, police reported today.

Officers quoted her husband, Arthur Watson, Hollywood, as saying she told him she was afraid that having a baby would interfere with her chance to break into the movies. Watson was quoted as saying he did not know his wife was pregnant until, just before she died, she told him about the operation.

Detective Sgt. Herman Zander said Watson told him: "I always wanted a family, but Virginia didn't. She was going to have a swimming part in a picture in two or three weeks and thought it was her big chance to get into the movies."

Detectives said they were looking for the doctor who performed the operation.

Miss Hopkins, her twin sister Marion, Eleanor Chamberlain and Esther Williams, who has since become a movie star, set a new national 400-meter relay record in the senior women's national AAU swimming meet at Des Moines, Iowa, July 28, 1939. Their time of 4 minutes, 46 seconds beat the previous mark by 8.8 seconds.

Abandon Rescue

ST. CLAIR, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP)—Rescue workers today abandoned hope of reaching a trapped coal miner alive.

Vote To Begin Today In Bitter M'Carthy Fight

Jenners And Flanders Clash; Talks Made To Near Empty Chamber

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The last full day of debate in the McCarthy censure row ended tonight with impassioned appeals and counterappeals in an all but empty Senate chamber.

Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) rang down the curtain with a declaration that Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) must be rebuked because "the tactics he has used are destructive of the very institutions of free government."

Lehman spoke after Sen. Mundt (R-SD), taking the opposite side, declared it would be a great day for the world-wide Communist propaganda mill if censure is voted for McCarthy. He said a censure vote would be viewed as a retreat in this country's fight against subversion.

More Speeches Due

There'll be a few more speeches tomorrow. Then, by unanimous consent, this special session of the Senate will start voting late in the afternoon on the question of whether or not to reprimand the junior senator from Wisconsin on charges of unbecoming conduct and contempt of the Senate.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said he expected the whole censure issue to be settled Thursday night. The extraordinary session then can end, he said, apart for possible later action on a few non-controversial nominations or other matters.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) drew today's biggest audience of senators and spectators with a speech accusing McCarthy of starting a "prairie fire" of fear and hatred which, he said, not even McCarthy may be able to put out.

He read aloud from a stack of letters from McCarthy supporters —reflecting, he said, race and religious bitterness, "unadulterated hatred, vituperation and abuse."

Calls For Rejection

Mundt then called for rejection of the McCarthy censure resolution, asking the Senate instead to change its rules and adopt a code of personal conduct ruling out such behavior as McCarthy's foes are complaining.

Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) took the floor briefly in defense of his amendment which would censure McCarthy for attacks on the Watkins Committee—the body which originally recommended censure on two other grounds.

Bennett urged that McCarthy—who spent only a half-hour in the chamber, during the late afternoon —take the floor and make an "affirmative case" for himself on the censure question. He said that so far the McCarthy camp seemed to be relying largely on putting questions to senators favoring censure.

Lehman, winding up the debate, declared the Senate itself—not McCarthy—is on trial "at the bar of public opinion in our own country and of world opinion, too."

Fulbright took after McCarthy in much the same vein.

"The junior senator from Wiscoin," he declared, "by his reckless charges has so preyed upon the fears and hatred and prejudices of the American people that he has started a prairie fire which neither he nor anyone else may be able to control."

McCarthy entered the chamber for the first time at 4:18 p.m. while Mundt was speaking.

Eight minutes later the Wisconsin senator, his arm still heavily bandaged and in a sling, demanded a quorum call on the ground only three Democratic senators were present along with 15 or 20 Republicans.

Disgusting Spectacle

"This is the most disgusting spectacle I have ever seen," McCarthy said. Then, addressing

Baruch Challenges Churchill To Game In Birthday Greeting

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Bernard M. Baruch, 84, American advisor to presidents, wished his old friend Prime Minister Churchill a happy 80th birthday today by television. He added a gin rummy challenge.

Baruch recalled that in the years he has known Churchill, the Prime Minister has attained every success — except victory in gin rummy over Baruch.

However, said Baruch, "you are younger than I and youth will prevail."

Korean War Vets Suffered More Serious Mental Ills

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Psychiatric illnesses suffered by Korean War veterans were fewer but appear to be "more serious" than those of World War II men, Dr. Harvey J. Tompkins reported today.

Dr. Tompkins, chief psychiatrist for the Veterans Administration, offered no theories as to the reason, but said this suggestion arises from observation of Korean veterans seeking treatment. The average hospital stay is longer for the Korean men, he said.

He told the Assn. of Military Surgeons of the United States that actually the percentage of Korean veterans receiving compensation for "psychotic" (very serious mental illness) is much smaller than that for World War II veterans. But he implied that psychotic and lesser mental illnesses among Korean veterans is, on the average, more intense than that of the World War II men.

He indicated, however, that with respect at least to those susceptible to treatment on an out-patient basis, "the Korean veteran treatment possibilities are more favorable in some respects, such as their being younger and therefore having more flexibility and pliability."

Wilson Seeks Boost In Servicemen Pay

Wants Draft Extended Four Years

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said today he will ask the next Congress to boost the pay in the armed services and extend the draft for four years.

He described the move as part of a program to strengthen the morale and effectiveness of both active and reserve forces.

Wilson estimated the pay raise, which would range from three to five per cent of current scales—with possibly greater increases for some key categories—would cost up to 600 million dollars yearly.

He also told a news conference that the military manpower program, which would spell out the long awaited military reserve system, is being given its finishing touches and probably will be included in the President's state of the union message to Congress in January.

Wilson said it had been decided to ask for an extension of the Selective Service Act for four years after the present law expires next June 30.

In addition to the regular two-year service for most draftees, there would be provision for training some 50,000 to 100,000 young men for a period of six months annually, after which they would go into the organized reserves.

Wilson said, in reply to questions, that the men who took only the six months basic training would be under some form of compulsion to continue active training in the National Guards or the organized reserves.

He also estimated that monthly draft calls would remain at about their current level of 23,000 for young men who would serve two years.

Plane Missing With 7 Aboard Feared Crashed

LACONIA, N. H., Nov. 30 (AP)—A Northeast Airlines plane, with seven persons aboard, was missing and probably down tonight in the rugged White Mountain area of New Hampshire.

The plane, which left Laconia at 10:37 a.m. for a 100-mile flight to Berlin was due to land 35 minutes later.

The airline, which hasn't had a fatal accident in its 21 years of existence, said the plane crew acknowledged receipt of Berlin weather conditions at 11:45 a.m.

Search planes from Grenier Air Force Base in Manchester, Westover Air Force Base in Chicopee, Mass., Coast Guard and Navy air crews which flew over the area in the afternoon reported finding no trace of the missing plane.

Two hunters who came out of the woods at North Conway, said they heard an explosion near Mt. Pequawket, near Kearsarge shortly before noon.

The temperature hovered around the freezing point in the area tonight. There is considerable snow on the ground in elevated regions, 12 to 14 inches deep on the mountains.

Aboard the plane were these passengers: James W. Harvey, Watertown, Mass.; W. Miller, Philadelphia, and D. A. Hall of Montclair, N. J. co-pilot George McCormick, 37, Boston; stewardess Mary McKettrick, 23, Dorchester, Mass., and flight superintendent John McNulty, 39, Boston.

Ohio Turnpike To Open Today

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 30 (AP)—Ohio plans elaborate ceremonies tomorrow marking a historic occasion in both state and interstate transportation.

The ceremonies will herald the opening of the first 22-mile section of the 241-mile northern Ohio Turnpike, called the Eastgate section. That section runs from the Pennsylvania border to a point west of Youngstown.

It will be an historic occasion because it will be the first physical joining of the toll roads of two major states, Ohio and Pennsylvania, and the beginning of the Eastern turnpike "system" which by 1957 will provide a limited-access, multiple-lane, divided expressway between New York and Chicago.

The remaining section of Ohio's super toll road, which will extend from the Pennsylvania border near Petersburg, Ohio, west to the Indiana border, is scheduled for completion Oct. 1, 1955.

Rev. Alexander Plans To Marry

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Rev. W. H. Alexander, former chaplain of the Republican National Committee and widely-known pastor of the First Christian Church, announced today he will marry Miss Mary Louise Rowsey, whose ex-husband is now married to Alexander's divorced wife.

Miss Rowsey, 30, is the former wife of Frederick Hulett, who married Mrs. Charlsie Alexander following her divorce in 1952. Hulett was active in Alexander's unsuccessful campaign for the U. S. Senate in 1950.

Dr. Elwood Rowsey, father of the bride, will perform the wedding Dec. 19 at Diamond Caverns, Ky. Dr. Rowsey, a retired Presbyterian minister, is owner of a resort center at which the wedding will take place. He is also a long-time friend of Alexander.

Jackson Convicted, Gets Three Years

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 30 (AP)—Arthur C. Jackson, 23, today was convicted of adultery with Mrs. Lorraine Eaton Clark, 28, who yesterday was sentenced to life imprisonment after pleading guilty to second degree murder of her husband, Melvin W. Clark Jr., 29.

Jackson, who pleaded innocent in a jury-waived session of Essex Superior Court, was sentenced to three years in the House of Correction by Judge Charles Fairhurst.

Jackson, separated from his wife, admitted on the stand that he had kissed the imprisoned widow but denied other intimacies.

Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg accused Jackson of numerous intimate trysts with Mrs. Clark, mother of three small children.

College Enrollment Highest Ever Noted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The U. S. Office of Education today estimated college and university enrollment this fall at 2,472,000 students, the highest ever recorded.

The total compared with the previous record of 2,457,000 in 1949 and a 1953 enrollment of 2,251,000.

J. Kenneth Little, deputy commissioner of education, commented:

"Except for the years immediately following World War II, when large numbers of veterans were attending college under the GI educational benefits, the 10 per cent increase in number of students this fall over last fall is the largest single-year increase percentage-wise since the mid-30s."

Heavy Snow Hits North And Central Parts Of Nation

[By The Associated Press]

Snow rolled up to depths of as much as a foot in western South Dakota Tuesday and from three to nine inches over parts of nearby states.

Nebraska and Kansas were penetrated by a deep storm center out of eastern Colorado. The snow developed on the northern sector, covering South Dakota, northern Nebraska, eastern Wyoming and northern Colorado.

On the Southern side of the storm, light showers were general through central Texas and northward through Oklahoma and into southern Missouri.

There were flurries of snow over the northern Great Lakes region, Montana and the mountain areas of Pennsylvania and New York but little accumulation developed on the ground. Extreme highs in the 70s and 80s were confined to southern Texas and southern Florida.

Vote To Begin

himself to the Democratic side, he went on:

"Perhaps you could consider preserving the dignity of the Senate."

Sen. Long (D-La) quickly protested that during most of the day at least half the Democrats were present — and McCarthy would have known that, he said, if McCarthy had been there himself. McCarthy replied he had been absent for good reason, but did not elaborate.

The Wisconsin senator's bid for a quorum call—in effect, a summons to absent senators—was squelched by the Republican leader, Sen. Knowland of California, on the ground that time was running out on those who still want to speak.

By a unanimous consent agreement the general debate on the McCarthy censure issue is scheduled to end and voting to begin late tomorrow. Senate leaders forecast the current special session will end Thursday or, at the latest, Friday.

Following Mundt's speech Sen. Martin (R-Pa) announced he would vote against censure. He praised McCarthy for "outstanding Americanism" and said censure would be a drastic action not warranted by the facts.

Fulbright, in reading the letters from McCarthy supporters, said they were only a few of thousands he had received, some of them "so vile" they could not be read in public.

One anonymous letter from Middle Village, L .I., N. Y., told Fulbright:

"I would spit on you if I could but you would not be worthy of my saliva."

Another, attributed by Fulbright to G. G. Gurley, president of Chemical Attraction Oil Corp., San Antonio, Tex., said Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) should be deported to Russia "or let Germany take him and give him the gas treatment."

Fulbright also read a large size leaflet signed by "the Christian Nationalist Crusade" saying 98 per cent of the Roman Catholic leadership supports McCarthy, and accusing "anti-Catholic bigots" of whipping up hatred against him.

This sort of thing, Fulbright said, is evidence of "a great sickness among our people," and declared McCarthy must shoulder a great responsibility for it.

"When a man causes a large number of people to lose confidence in their government, in their churches and in their schools," Fulbright said, "he has done a great disservice to this democracy."

Chrysler Strike Averted In Last Minute Consent

DETROIT, Nov. 30 (AP)—Chrysler Corp. narrowly averted a strike today to rush on without hindrance in the great 1955 car market battle.

Almost exactly 50 minutes before a 7 a.m. strike deadline, the company came to an agreement with the CIO United Auto Workers over an office workers' contract dispute.

The settlement, reached after marathon negotiations, kept Chrysler free to continue the battle for car buyers with its "Big Three" companions of the auto industry, Ford and General Motors.

In the 1955 model production and sales drive Chrysler will bid to recoup ground it lost in 1954.

Together, the "Big Three" have produced more than 90 per cent of all the nation's cars. In the last year, however, Chrysler's share slumped from an estimated 20 per cent down to about 12.

A strike, if prolonged, could have closed down Chrysler entirely, idling 150,000 workers.

The Chrysler-union dispute dealt with a contract for 850 salaried office workers of the Automotive Body Division, one of Chrysler's 19 plants.

Wages, except for work classification adjustments, were not at issue.

A union shop for the 850 office workers—among 5,000 such Chrysler employes — appeared the crux of the fight.

Chrysler Vice President Robert W. Conder, in charge of industrial relations, and Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, announced the settlement in a joint statement.

Their statement said the agreement "continues" the union shop along with other provisions of an engineers' contract which the union had demanded in duplicate for the office workers.

Spokesmen for both company and union later agreed this meant the union shop had been extended to the Automotive Body Division office help.

Montgomery Warns U.S. To Be Ready For Red Pressure

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery today warned the United States to be ready to 'take it' and strike back if it is to survive in the years of "co-existence with conflict" ahead.

"We must expect that the Communist powers will continue to use every means, short of world war, to penetrate, to disrupt and to dominate the other half of the world, probing the weak spots, and calling off the offensive in any particular place only if strong and effective resistance is offered," Montgomery said.

But the Western world can meet the challenge, he declared, by developing its ability to hit back even after nuclear attack. Major war is not so likely, he said, "if free nations maintain their strength and unity, and the leadership of the U.S.A. is convincing and is exercised with understanding."

He told the Los Angeles World Affairs Council:

"History will measure the success of the United States not so much by the quantity of your dollars as by the quality of your leadership."

The deputy commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said: "We are faced with the prospect of a 'peaceful coexistence' which means the absnece of both peace and war in the full sense of both words, and which may last for years — perhaps even for generations. It is better described as "coexistence with conflict."

Beefing up defenses with increased air power and use of nuclear weapons is necessary to deter the forces of aggressive communism, he said, adding:

"The essential point is that we ourselves should be able to receive a surprise nuclear attack, to absorb it, and to survive to hit back and continue the fight."

The British war hero cited NATO advances made in the last five years, but said: "I often think the next five years are going to prove far more difficult than the last five."

"The nations of the free world may begin to think they can do without your strong right arm beside them and your support behind them," he told his American listeners, but stressed: "They cannot possibly do so."

He then added, "and no more can you do without them, however strong you may be; you want to get that quite clear. If the alliance begins to crumble, that is the end for us all."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said today he will ask the next Congress to boost the pay in the armed services and extend the draft for four years.

He described the move as part of a program to strengthen the morale and effectiveness of both active and reserve forces.

Wilson estimated the pay raise, which would range from three to five per cent of current scales—with possibly greater increases for some key categories—would cost up to 600 million dollars yearly.

He also told a news conference that the military manpower program, which would spell out the long awaited military reserve system, is being given its finishing touches and probably will be included in the President's state of the union message to Congress in January.

Wilson said it had been decided to ask for an extension of the Selective Service Act for four years after the present law expires next June 30.

In addition to the regular two-year service for most draftees, there would be provision for training some 50,000 to 100,000 young men for a period of six months annually, after which they would go into the organized reserves.

Wilson said, in reply to questions, that the men who took only the six months basic training would be under some form of compulsion to continue active training in the National Guards or the organized reserves.

He also estimated that monthly draft calls would remain at about their current level of 23,000 for young men who would serve two years.

Plane Missing With 7 Aboard Feared Crashed

LACONIA, N. H., Nov. 30 (AP)—A Northeast Airlines plane, with seven persons aboard, was missing and probably down tonight in the rugged White Mountain area of New Hampshire.

The plane, which left Laconia at 10:37 a.m. for a 100-mile flight to Berlin was due to land 35 minutes later.

The airline, which hasn't had a fatal accident in its 21 years of existence, said the plane crew acknowledged receipt of Berlin weather conditions at 11:45 a.m.

Search planes from Grenier Air Force Base in Manchester, Westover Air Force Base in Chicopee, Mass., Coast Guard and Navy air crews which flew over the area in the afternoon reported finding no trace of the missing plane.

Two hunters who came out of the woods at North Conway, said they heard an explosion near Mt. Pequawket, near Kearsarge shortly before noon.

The temperature hovered around the freezing point in the area tonight. There is considerable snow on the ground in elevated regions, 12 to 14 inches deep on the mountains.

Aboard the plane were these passengers: James W. Harvey, Watertown, Mass.; W. Miller, Philadelphia, and D. A. Hall of Montclair, N. J. co-pilot George McCormick, 37, Boston; stewardess Mary McKettrick, 23, Dorchester, Mass., and flight superintendent John McNulty, 39, Boston.

Ohio Turnpike To Open Today

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 30 (AP)—Ohio plans elaborate ceremonies tomorrow marking a historic occasion in both state and interstate transportation.

The ceremonies will herald the opening of the first 22-mile section of the 241-mile northern Ohio Turnpike, called the Eastgate section. That section runs from the Pennsylvania border to a point west of Youngstown.

It will be an historic occasion because it will be the first physical joining of the toll roads of two major states, Ohio and Pennsylvania, and the beginning of the Eastern turnpike "system" which by 1957 will provide a limited-access, multiple-lane, divided expressway between New York and Chicago.

The remaining section of Ohio's super toll road, which will extend from the Pennsylvania border near Petersburg, Ohio, west to the Indiana border, is scheduled for completion Oct. 1, 1955.

Rev. Alexander Plans To Marry

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 30 (AP)—The Rev. W. H. Alexander, former chaplain of the Republican National Committee and widely-known pastor of the First Christian Church, announced today he will marry Miss Mary Louise Rowsey, whose ex-husband is now married to Alexander's divorced wife.

Miss Rowsey, 30, is the former wife of Frederick Hulett, who married Mrs. Charlsie Alexander following her divorce in 1952. Hulett was active in Alexander's unsuccessful campaign for the U. S. Senate in 1950.

Dr. Elwood Rowsey, father of the bride, will perform the wedding Dec. 19 at Diamond Caverns, Ky. Dr. Rowsey, a retired Presbyterian minister, is owner of a resort center at which the wedding will take place. He is also a long-time friend of Alexander.

Jackson Convicted, Gets Three Years

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 30 (AP)—Arthur C. Jackson, 23, today was convicted of adultery with Mrs. Lorraine Eaton Clark, 28, who yesterday was sentenced to life imprisonment after pleading guilty to second degree murder of her husband, Melvin W. Clark Jr., 29.

Jackson, who pleaded innocent in a jury-waived session of Essex Superior Court, was sentenced to three years in the House of Correction by Judge Charles Fairhurst.

Jackson, separated from his wife, admitted on the stand that he had kissed the imprisoned widow but denied other intimacies.

Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg accused Jackson of numerous intimate trysts with Mrs. Clark, mother of three small children.

College Enrollment Highest Ever Noted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—The U. S. Office of Education today estimated college and university enrollment this fall at 2,472,000 students, the highest ever recorded.

The total compared with the previous record of 2,457,000 in 1949 and a 1953 enrollment of 2,251,000.

J. Kenneth Little, deputy commissioner of education, commented:

"Except for the years immediately following World War II, when large numbers of veterans were attending college under the GI educational benefits, the 10 per cent increase in number of students this fall over last fall is the largest single-year increase percentage-wise since the mid-30s."

Heavy Snow Hits North And Central Parts Of Nation

[By The Associated Press]

Snow rolled up to depths of as much as a foot in western South Dakota Tuesday and from three to nine inches over parts of nearby states.

Nebraska and Kansas were penetrated by a deep storm center out of eastern Colorado. The snow developed on the northern sector, covering South Dakota, northern Nebraska, eastern Wyoming and northern Colorado.

On the Southern side of the storm, light showers were general through central Texas and northward through Oklahoma and into southern Missouri.

There were flurries of snow over the northern Great Lakes region, Montana and the mountain areas of Pennsylvania and New York but little accumulation developed on the ground. Extreme highs in the 70s and 80s were confined to southern Texas and southern Florida.

Vote To Begin

himself to the Democratic side, he went on:

"Perhaps you could consider preserving the dignity of the Senate."

Sen. Long (D-La) quickly protested that during most of the day at least half the Democrats were present — and McCarthy would have known that, he said, if McCarthy had been there himself. McCarthy replied he had been absent for good reason, but did not elaborate.

The Wisconsin senator's bid for a quorum call—in effect, a summons to absent senators—was squelched by the Republican leader, Sen. Knowland of California, on the ground that time was running out on those who still want to speak.

By a unanimous consent agreement the general debate on the McCarthy censure issue is scheduled to end and voting to begin late tomorrow. Senate leaders forecast the current special session will end Thursday or, at the latest, Friday.

Following Mundt's speech Sen. Martin (R-Pa) announced he would vote against censure. He praised McCarthy for "outstanding Americanism" and said censure would be a drastic action not warranted by the facts.

Fulbright, in reading the letters from McCarthy supporters, said they were only a few of thousands he had received, some of them "so vile" they could not be read in public.

One anonymous letter from Middle Village, L .I., N. Y., told Fulbright:

"I would spit on you if I could but you would not be worthy of my saliva."

Another, attributed by Fulbright to G. G. Gurley, president of Chemical Attraction Oil Corp., San Antonio, Tex., said Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) should be deported to Russia "or let Germany take him and give him the gas treatment."

Fulbright also read a large size leaflet signed by "the Christian Nationalist Crusade" saying 98 per cent of the Roman Catholic leadership supports McCarthy, and accusing "anti-Catholic bigots" of whipping up hatred against him.

This sort of thing, Fulbright said, is evidence of "a great sickness among our people," and declared McCarthy must shoulder a great responsibility for it.

"When a man causes a large number of people to lose confidence in their government, in their churches and in their schools," Fulbright said, "he has done a great disservice to this democracy."

Saved By Bulls

CALSTOCK, England, Nov. 30 (AP)—The flooding Tamar River suddenly swept over its banks today, sending an eight-foot wall of water over a meadow where farmer John Cole was working. He grasped the tails of two swimming bulls and was towed to high ground.

Chrysler Strike Averted In Last Minute Consent

DETROIT, Nov. 30 (AP)—Chrysler Corp. narrowly averted a strike today to rush on without hindrance in the great 1955 car market battle.

Almost exactly 50 minutes before a 7 a.m. strike deadline, the company came to an agreement with the CIO United Auto Workers over an office workers' contract dispute.

The settlement, reached after marathon negotiations, kept Chrysler free to continue the battle for car buyers with its "Big Three" companions of the auto industry, Ford and General Motors.

In the 1955 model production and sales drive Chrysler will bid to recoup ground it lost in 1954.

Together, the "Big Three" have produced more than 90 per cent of all the nation's cars. In the last year, however, Chrysler's share slumped from an estimated 20 per cent down to about 12.

A strike, if prolonged, could have closed down Chrysler entirely, idling 150,000 workers.

The Chrysler-union dispute dealt with a contract for 850 salaried office workers of the Automotive Body Division, one of Chrysler's 19 plants.

Wages, except for work classification adjustments, were not at issue.

A union shop for the 850 office workers—among 5,000 such Chrysler employes — appeared the crux of the fight.

Chrysler Vice President Robert W. Conder, in charge of industrial relations, and Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, announced the settlement in a joint statement.

Their statement said the agreement "continues" the union shop along with other provisions of an engineers' contract which the union had demanded in duplicate for the office workers.

Spokesmen for both company and union later agreed this meant the union shop had been extended to the Automotive Body Division office help.

Montgomery Warns U.S. To Be Ready For Red Pressure

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 30 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery today warned the United States to be ready to 'take it' and strike back if it is to survive in the years of "co-existence with conflict" ahead.

"We must expect that the Communist powers will continue to use every means, short of world war, to penetrate, to disrupt and to dominate the other half of the world, probing the weak spots, and calling off the offensive in any particular place only if strong and effective resistance is offered," Montgomery said.

But the Western world can meet the challenge, he declared, by developing its ability to hit back even after nuclear attack. Major war is not so likely, he said, "if free nations maintain their strength and unity, and the leadership of the U.S.A. is convincing and is exercised with understanding."

He told the Los Angeles World Affairs Council:

"History will measure the success of the United States not so much by the quantity of your dollars as by the quality of your leadership."

The deputy commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said: "We are faced with the prospect of a 'peaceful coexistence' which means the absnece of both peace and war in the full sense of both words, and which may last for years — perhaps even for generations. It is better described as "coexistence with conflict."

Beefing up defenses with increased air power and use of nuclear weapons is necessary to deter the forces of aggressive communism, he said, adding:

"The essential point is that we ourselves should be able to receive a surprise nuclear attack, to absorb it, and to survive to hit back and continue the fight."

The British war hero cited NATO advances made in the last five years, but said: "I often think the next five years are going to prove far more difficult than the last five."

"The nations of the free world may begin to think they can do without your strong right arm beside them and your support behind them," he told his American listeners, but stressed: "They cannot possibly do so."

He then added, "and no more can you do without them, however strong you may be; you want to get that quite clear. If the alliance begins to crumble, that is the end for us all."

State's Lawmakers Attend School For Instructions Prior To New Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 30 (AP)—Maryland's new legislators, and many of the older hands, went to school here today for a briefing on the ABC's of lawmaking before the 1955 Legislature convenes in January.

They also got in some politicking on the side. Veteran lawmakers milled around the cloakrooms and corridors lining up support for legislative offices which will be formalized at party caucuses just before the Jan. 5th opening.

A total of 115 out of 152 elected delegates registered for a day-long session of instruction at the Statehouse where they were given detailed explanations of legislative rules and procedures and even told how to throw switches on their desks to electrically record votes in the House of Delegates.

The school was the first of its kind for the General Assembly and was set in motion after the Legislature proposed it in a joint resolution at the 1954 session.

Dr. Carl N. Everstine, director of the Department of Legislature Reference, was in charge of the briefing which dealt with such topics as origin and development of the legislative process, organization of the executive department, the judiciary department and the General Assembly, legislative procedure and rules, the State budget system and how the legislator himself deals with the budget.

"It was a fine session," said Sen. Louis N. Goldstein (D-Calvert), a veteran legislator and chairman of the Senate's powerful Finance Committee.

"It gave newcomers a good overall picture of what to expect in January and also helped those of us who have been here before."

Most of the neophyte lawmakers also expressed hearty approval. The reaction of Mrs. Margaret M. Schewinhaut (D-Montgomery) was fairly typical: "It was very helpful. It will take some time to digest but all of the material presented should be of great benefit."

The instruction period, which is expected to be repeated each four years, began at an opportune time. The 1955 Legislature will find 15 new faces among the 29 members of the Senate, and 61 of the 123 delegates will be new.

The session began in the House chamber at 10:45 a.m. with a welcome by Republican Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, who will begin a second term in January. He told the legislators his office door would always be open "and senators and delegates have top priority." He expressed confidence they could work well together on the budget and other matters.

Speakers in addition to Everstine were John S. Shriver, director of the Fiscal Research Bureau; Chief Judge Frederick W. Brune of the Court of Appeals; Mrs. Janet Hoffman, administrative analyst for the Fiscal Research Bureau, and R. L. Benson Jr., research assistant for the Legislative Council.

A number of candidates were being mentioned in the hallway and cloakroom discussions for the Legislature's two top offices—speaker of the House and president of the Senate, both of which will be filled from the heavy Democratic majorities.

Among those expressing interest in the speakership were Dels. John C. Luber (Balto 4th), A. Gordon Boone (Baltimore County), Lloyd L. Simpkins (Somerset) and E. Homer White Jr. (Wicomico).

Candidates for the Senate presidency were expected to include George W. Della of Baltimore's 6th District, 1954 president who was not present today, Goldstein, Sens. Layman Redden of Carolina County and John Grason Turnbull of Baltimore County, and Perry O. Wilkinson (Prince Georges).

Thinks Policemen Salaries Too Low

ROCKVILLE, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—Councilman Robert T. Snure indicated today he thinks Montgomery County Police salaries are too low.

His comment came during a two-hour conference between the Council and Personnel Board, which worked out the salary scales for county workers.

"It amazes me," Snure said, "that so many policemen are working elsewhere in their off hours to support their families."

Mrs. Edith A. Dinwoodey, vice chairman of the board, replied, "You just can't stop people from doing that."

County privates start at $3,594 as against $3,900 in Washington and $3,300 in Prince Georges County.

Fall From Trestle Kills Railroad Man

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 30 (AP)—A 38-year-old West Virginian today fell to his death from a Chesapeake and Ohio Railway trestle here where he was working.

Railroad employes said the man, Emmett L. Bennett of Meadow Creek, W. Va., fell approximately 27 feet to the pavement and died almost instantly.

B25 Belly Lands Safely On Farm

WALDORF, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—A B25 bomber with both engines out belly-landed on a farm two miles northwest of here late today. One of the three men aboard was injured.

The plane took off this afternoon from nearby Andrews Air Force Base on a routine flight, base officials said, and made its emergency landing on the farm of P. T. Gates about 3:15 p.m.

The injured man, Capt. Lawrence F. Weyle, was taken to Bolling Air Force Base Hospital in Washington. The hospital said he suffered possible minor back injuries. He was the copilot.

Not injured in the crash landing were the pilot, Capt. R. J. Cameron, and the engineer, Airman 3. C. J. J. Rooney.

Andrews officials said Cameron, who is on leave to complete his education at the University of Maryland, took the bomber up on a routine mission designed to maintain his flight proficiency.

The plane's right engine went out of commission south of Quantico, Va., base officials reported, and Cameron headed back to Andrews. The left engine of the B25 cut out near Waldorf, they said, leaving the bomber powerless. Andrews authorities said this necessitated the emergency landing.

Young Housebreaker Is Saved From Death

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — A 16-year-old boy probably was saved from death but was arrested for housebreaking early today.

Answering a call from neighbors police went to a delicatessen in downtown Washington.

They found a boy outside a window from which iron bars had been sawed.

Inside the store they found another hiding in a small refrigerating compartment beneath a frozen counter. They said he had crawled in and pulled the door shut. There was no inside latch, and police said, the boy probably would have suffocated before the store's opening hour.

Cop Is Fired, He Never Made Arrest

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP)—Irving Schyan, 40-year-old Baltimore patrolman, was dismissed from the police force today.

Schyan had been on the force for 18 months; had never made an arrest.

Wright Co. Gets Bid To Construct Anacostia Bridges

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP)—The State Roads Commission got a low bid of $705,516.50 today for construction of two bridges that will take U. S. Routes 50 and Alternate 1 over the Anacostia River at Peace Cross.

The bridges represent Maryland's contribution to a joint federal-state effort to alleviate flood conditions at the intersection of the two routes at Bladensburg.

The low bidder among eight firms offering to build the bridges was the Wright Contracting Co. Inc. of Columbus, Ga.

Another Slaying Clue Is Worthless

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP)—Police reported today that stains on a bathing cap and facial tissues found near the Washington Boulevard were not human blood and discarded the items as possible evidence in the Carolyn Wasilewski murder case.

Police so far have questioned about 150 persons in their investigation into the slaying of the 14-year-old high school girl.

Carolyn's battered body was found on railroad tracks beneath a bridge near Pimlico race track the morning of Nov. 9. Many of those questioned were men known to have been friendly to the girl, who used adult talk and makeup to try to appear older than her 14 years.

Prefab Houses Flown To The West Indies

DONALDSON AIR FORCE BASE, S. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—Flying Boxcars, C119s, now are airlifting five-ton buildings.

Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, 18th Air Force commander, said today that 10 prefabricated buildings, each 20 by 48 feet, have been flown from Texas to Eleuthera Island in the British West Indies by Flying Boxcars of the 463rd Troop Carrier Wing from Ardmore Air Force Base, Okla.

A rotunda is a circular hall or interior space in a building, especially under a central dome.

Search Waters For Missing Man

DEAL ISLAND, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—Watermen and State skippers from the Tidewater Fisheries Commission today searched the shores and waters of Tangier Sound for some sign of 30-year-old Delmas Webster.

The missing man left here yesterday in the 40-foot Marvelo for Crocheron, on the other side of the Sound in lower Dorchester County. He was with 38-year-old Allison Webster, an employe of the Somerset Seafood Co., whose body was found this morning on the shore here.

Bits of board were found near Allison Webster's body. They could have been from the Marvelo, searchers said.

The two men are not related. Allison Webster had five daughters, including a set of twins. Delmas Webster has one child.

Stiff breezes had created rough water when the two men left here yesterday. Webster's body was encircled by a life preserver when found on the shore not more than a half mile from his home.

Officials said he apparently drowned in the rough Sound waters trying to fight his way to shore. His boots had been kicked off in the water.

Automobiles account for about 89 per cent of America's total gasoline consumption.

Three Persons Found Dead In Rural Home At Hundred

HUNDRED, W. Va. Nov. 30 (AP)—A young man and two children were found dead, apparently from asphyxiation, in a rural home today and a fourth occupant of the dwelling was taken to the hospital unconscious.

The dead were identified at the Garrett Hunt mortuary here as James Lindsay Ebert, 20, a recently discharged serviceman, his sister, Thelma Rose Ebert, 15, and Betty Tuttle, 6.

Still unconscious and in an oxygen tent at Wetzel County Hospital in New Martinsville tonight was Mrs. Margaret Ebert, about 50, a widow. She is the mother of James and Thelma Ebert and the grandmother of Betty Tuttle, who lived with her.

Sheriff J. Lee Francis said the deaths apparently — but not definitely — resulted from carbon monoxide fumes from a gas stove. He added, however, that there might be a possibility of food poisoning. Francis planned to confer with the Wetzel County prosecutor tonight about a possible autopsy.

The scene of the tragedy was the four - room Ebert home four miles west of Littleton in the northern end of Wetzel County. Littleton is six miles from here. The Ebert family had lived in the house only four weeks, having moved there from Littleton.

The deaths were discovered by John Ebert, 23, another son of Mrs. Ebert. He had left the house about 6:30 a. m. to go to his job on a nearby farm.

B25 Belly Lands Safely On Farm

WALDORF, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—A B25 bomber with both engines out belly-landed on a farm two miles northwest of here late today. One of the three men aboard was injured.

The plane took off this afternoon from nearby Andrews Air Force Base on a routine flight, base officials said, and made its emergency landing on the farm of P. T. Gates about 3:15 p.m.

The injured man, Capt. Lawrence F. Weyle, was taken to Bolling Air Force Base Hospital in Washington. The hospital said he suffered possible minor back injuries. He was the copilot.

Not injured in the crash landing were the pilot, Capt. R. J. Cameron, and the engineer, Airman 3. C. J. J. Rooney.

Andrews officials said Cameron, who is on leave to complete his education at the University of Maryland, took the bomber up on a routine mission designed to maintain his flight proficiency.

The plane's right engine went out of commission south of Quantico, Va., base officials reported, and Cameron headed back to Andrews. The left engine of the B25 cut out near Waldorf, they said, leaving the bomber powerless. Andrews authorities said this necessitated the emergency landing.

Young Housebreaker Is Saved From Death

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — A 16-year-old boy probably was saved from death but was arrested for housebreaking early today.

Answering a call from neighbors police went to a delicatessen in downtown Washington.

They found a boy outside a window from which iron bars had been sawed.

Inside the store they found another hiding in a small refrigerating compartment beneath a frozen counter. They said he had crawled in and pulled the door shut. There was no inside latch, and police said, the boy probably would have suffocated before the store's opening hour.

Cop Is Fired, He Never Made Arrest

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP)—Irving Schyan, 40-year-old Baltimore patrolman, was dismissed from the police force today.

Schyan had been on the force for 18 months; had never made an arrest.

Wright Co. Gets Bid To Construct Anacostia Bridges

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP)—The State Roads Commission got a low bid of $705,516.50 today for construction of two bridges that will take U. S. Routes 50 and Alternate 1 over the Anacostia River at Peace Cross.

The bridges represent Maryland's contribution to a joint federal-state effort to alleviate flood conditions at the intersection of the two routes at Bladensburg.

The low bidder among eight firms offering to build the bridges was the Wright Contracting Co. Inc. of Columbus, Ga.

Another Slaying Clue Is Worthless

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP)—Police reported today that stains on a bathing cap and facial tissues found near the Washington Boulevard were not human blood and discarded the items as possible evidence in the Carolyn Wasilewski murder case.

Police so far have questioned about 150 persons in their investigation into the slaying of the 14-year-old high school girl.

Carolyn's battered body was found on railroad tracks beneath a bridge near Pimlico race track the morning of Nov. 9. Many of those questioned were men known to have been friendly to the girl, who used adult talk and makeup to try to appear older than her 14 years.

Prefab Houses Flown To The West Indies

DONALDSON AIR FORCE BASE, S. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—Flying Boxcars, C119s, now are airlifting five-ton buildings.

Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, 18th Air Force commander, said today that 10 prefabricated buildings, each 20 by 48 feet, have been flown from Texas to Eleuthera Island in the British West Indies by Flying Boxcars of the 463rd Troop Carrier Wing from Ardmore Air Force Base, Okla.

A rotunda is a circular hall or interior space in a building, especially under a central dome.

Search Waters For Missing Man

DEAL ISLAND, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—Watermen and State skippers from the Tidewater Fisheries Commission today searched the shores and waters of Tangier Sound for some sign of 30-year-old Delmas Webster.

The missing man left here yesterday in the 40-foot Marvelo for Crocheron, on the other side of the Sound in lower Dorchester County. He was with 38-year-old Allison Webster, an employe of the Somerset Seafood Co., whose body was found this morning on the shore here.

Bits of board were found near Allison Webster's body. They could have been from the Marvelo, searchers said.

The two men are not related. Allison Webster had five daughters, including a set of twins. Delmas Webster has one child.

Stiff breezes had created rough water when the two men left here yesterday. Webster's body was encircled by a life preserver when found on the shore not more than a half mile from his home.

Officials said he apparently drowned in the rough Sound waters trying to fight his way to shore. His boots had been kicked off in the water.

Automobiles account for about 89 per cent of America's total gasoline consumption.

Three Persons Found Dead In Rural Home At Hundred

HUNDRED, W. Va. Nov. 30 (AP)—A young man and two children were found dead, apparently from asphyxiation, in a rural home today and a fourth occupant of the dwelling was taken to the hospital unconscious.

The dead were identified at the Garrett Hunt mortuary here as James Lindsay Ebert, 20, a recently discharged serviceman, his sister, Thelma Rose Ebert, 15, and Betty Tuttle, 6.

Still unconscious and in an oxygen tent at Wetzel County Hospital in New Martinsville tonight was Mrs. Margaret Ebert, about 50, a widow. She is the mother of James and Thelma Ebert and the grandmother of Betty Tuttle, who lived with her.

Sheriff J. Lee Francis said the deaths apparently — but not definitely — resulted from carbon monoxide fumes from a gas stove. He added, however, that there might be a possibility of food poisoning. Francis planned to confer with the Wetzel County prosecutor tonight about a possible autopsy.

The scene of the tragedy was the four - room Ebert home four miles west of Littleton in the northern end of Wetzel County. Littleton is six miles from here. The Ebert family had lived in the house only four weeks, having moved there from Littleton.

The deaths were discovered by John Ebert, 23, another son of Mrs. Ebert. He had left the house about 6:30 a. m. to go to his job on a nearby farm.

FDR Sought To Have Vatican Appoint Bishop Sheil As Head Of Chicago Archdiocese

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — A new installment of Harold L. Ickes' secret diary says President Franklin D. Roosevelt once intended to ask the Vatican "indirectly to put Bishop Bernard J. Sheil at the head of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago."

Ickes' diary says the late President considered approaching the Pope through the American ambassador in Rome, but apparently limited himself instead to "working" through Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York—now Cardinal Spellman—to have Sheil appointed as successor to Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago. Cardinal Mundelein died in 1939.

Writing in October 1939, the New Deal Cabinet member says Roosevelt—himself an Episcopalian—apparently was "working" through Spellman on behalf of Sheil "just as he worked through Cardinal Mundelein in support of this New York man (Spellman)."

The implication seemed to be Roosevelt had "worked" for the appointment of Spellman as archbishop of New York shortly before that. There is no elaboration of this point, however, in the portion of the newly released Ickes' diary material which appears in the current issue of Look magazine.

Volume III of the diary, which Ickes kept secretly throughout his 12 years as Roosevelt's secretary of the interior, will be published in full Dec. 3. The full version contains a more detailed account of Roosevelt's interest in getting Sheil—whom he regarded as a "liberal"—chosen as archbishop of Chicago.

As it turned out, Sheil did not get the office. The long-time head of Chicago's Catholic Youth Organization, Sheil has been in the news most recently for his attack on Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), earlier this year. He called McCarthy a phoney anti-Communist.

Spellman did become an archbishop, and then Cardinal. Later he and Roosevelt's widow fell into controversy over federal aid for education when, in 1949, she opposed use of tax money in support of parochial school education. The cardinal said newspaper columns she wrote on the subject were "anti-Catholic. . . unworthy of an American mother." Mrs. Roosevelt vigorously denied any anti-Catholic bias. She and the cardinal later smoothed over their dispute.

The third volume of the diary kept by Ickes, who died in 1952, is entitled "The Lowering Clouds" and covers World War II years up to Pearl Harbor. Among other things, the volume chronicles that:

1 Roosevelt had a "scarcely concealed desire" in April 1941, that Germany would commit some blunder "which would justify our declaring a state of war against Germany or at least providing convoys to merchantmen carrying supplies to Great Britain." At the same time Ickes wrote that Roosevelt was unwilling to be "aggressive" toward Japan as late as Nov. 30, 1941—a week before Pearl Harbor. He said FDR told him in a letter about that time: "I simply have not got enough Navy to go round—and every little episode in the Pacific means fewer ships in the Atlantic."

2. Roosevelt believed his 1940 presidential opponent, Wendell L. Willkie, offered the Republican vice presidential nomination to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover—and that Hoover refused. (Hoover, told of this passage in the diary, declined comment.)

3. Russia's ambassador to the United States in 1941, Constantine Oumansky, gave Ickes the impression the Soviet Union wouldn't lift a finger to help the then hard-pressed British in the war. This was before Germany's attack on Russia and Prime Minister Churchill's immediate offer of aid to the Russians.

The diary says Roosevelt was "concerned" about a successor to his friend and supporter Cardinal Mundelein, and goes on to say:

"He hopes very much that Bishop Bernard Sheil, who is able and apparently a liberal, and who was more in the confidence of Cardinal Mundelein than anyone else, will be appointed. He said that he could not make a direct suggestion to the Vatican, but he intended to do so indirectly."

"The new archbishop from New York, Francis J. Spellman, was to come down to see him and apparently the President is working through him, just as he worked through Mundelein in support of the New York man."

Ickes recorded that the late Frank Murphy, a Catholic and at that time attorney general, favored Roosevelt's sending direct word to the Vatican about the Chicago appointment. But he said the President didn't send such a message "because it might fall into wrong hands."

"Finally," the Ickes diary says, "the President said that he might write a letter to Ambassador William Phillips in Rome and have Phillips go and talk with the Pope."

As it turned out Sheil did not get the appointment. It went instead to Archbishop Samuel Stritch of Milwaukee.

Ickes set down that Roosevelt commented to him when Stritch's appointment was announced: "Well, you and I have had a pretty severe blow today in Chicago."

And he added: "I still do not believe that the President went very far in trying to bring about the Sheil appointment. I do not think that the Vatican would have dared to turn him down."

The diary says Roosevelt was "interested" in trying to get Sheil appointed later as archbishop of Washington but that Roosevelt "seems to be afraid of sticking his neck out."

Among other sidelights Ickes—who had some presidential hopes for himself — reported President Robert Hutchins of the University of Chicago approached him during the 1940 Democratic National Convention with the suggestion "either he or I ought to be nominated for vice president."

Snap Courses Berated By Professor

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—At a time when this country needs trained minds as never before, an educator said, more and more youngsters have been turning to what he thinks are snap courses in high schools.

Dr. John F. Latimer, professor of Greek and Latin at George Washington University, said it has been going on for 50 years. He says there has been a steady falling away from what he considers the hard—and more important—courses, mathematics, science and languages.

Latimer viewed this trend as "the most urgent educational problem of today . . . a threat to our democratic security."

For years now, Latimer has been distressed because of what is happening to his beloved Latin and Greek. He even wrote a couplet about it:

"Ill fares the land, to educational ills a prey, where Latin is de-emphasized and Greek is in decay."

During his laments, he noticed a curious thing. Science and math teachers were moaning, too. Could there be a connection?

So he began a study, including the inevitable questionnaire. Replies are now in from 104 public school systems in 44 states, and Latimer thinks they confirm his worst fears.

In 1900, almost three-fourths of all high school students took Latin, German, French or Spanish. Now only a fourth do. Latin took the worst licking, dropping from 50 to 7 per cent.

This is an atomic age, with physicists and mathematicians in demand.

Yet in placid 1900 some 19 per cent of all high school students took physics, compared with less than 5 per cent in hectic 1953-54.

Algebra has faded from 56 to 20 per cent, geometry from 27 to 12.

The only increases came in general mathematics and general science, subjects that were not even offered in 1900.

All right. What do the statistics mean?

Lattimer, who peps up his conversation with expressions like "You dern tootin'," a phrase never used by Cicero or Homer, started hunting through his files.

"I used a sentence in a speech once," he said, "that was strong, but not too strong. Oh, yes, here it is. I said:

" 'By permitting the high schools to become the vocational bargain basements of education, we have insulted our students' intelligence and encouraged mediocrity by prescribing mediocre subject matter as an incentive for mediocre minds.' "

Lattimer said he's afraid the so-called academic subjects are now stressed for those who will go to college. Actually, he said, the youngsters who aren't going past high school need science, mathematics and languages most since they must get it there or not at all.

"In this age they need training in how to think," Lattimer said, "the training that languages, mathematics and science will give them.

"I'd like to see leaders of industry, of government, the President himself take a strong stand in impressing a youngster and his parents of the value of getting the best education he can."

The summary by Latin's and Greek's good friend:

"We'll always need a man with a trained mind. By George, nothing is going to take the place of that."

VARY DECORATIONS FROM YEAR TO YEAR—Although the above pictures are of the same house, decorating themes can vary and use outside Christmas lights to frame your setting. Giant candles, life size three-dimensional Santas and snowmen of sturdy weatherproof plastic are only a few of the many lighted items which may be used for the familiar old St. Nick theme. If you choose a religious theme, lighted plaques depicting the Nativity scene can become the focal point of a giant "stained glass" window. Bits of colored paper and freezer tape were used for the "leaded glass" effect around the lighted Nativity scene. The plaque itself has its own stained glass background. Small lighted treetop angels and stars may be used in other windows.

VARY DECORATIONS FROM YEAR TO YEAR—Although the above pictures are of the same house, decorating themes can vary and use outside Christmas lights to frame your setting. Giant candles, life size three-dimensional Santas and snowmen of sturdy weatherproof plastic are only a few of the many lighted items which may be used for the familiar old St. Nick theme. If you choose a religious theme, lighted plaques depicting the Nativity scene can become the focal point of a giant "stained glass" window. Bits of colored paper and freezer tape were used for the "leaded glass" effect around the lighted Nativity scene. The plaque itself has its own stained glass background. Small lighted treetop angels and stars may be used in other windows.

County To Receive $38,058 From State Liquor Taxes

The anticipated revenue to Allegany County from the 50 cents per gallon tax on all alcoholic beverages except beer and wine for the nine-month period beginning July 1, 1955 should amount to $38,058, according to a report received by the state comptroller's office.

Records in the office of the comptroller indicate such revenue based on deliveries made to retailers in Allegany County during the nine-month period from January 1, 1954 to September 30, 1954. These deliveries totaled 76,115 gallons of distilled spirits.

The report from the state comptroller's office was sent so the county would have some idea of the revenue prior to the setting of the budget next spring for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The increase of the state tax on distilled spirits from $1.25 to $1.50 was passed during the February session of the General Assembly in 1954. The allotment of 50 cents per gallon the distilled spirits goes into effect next July 1.

The tax revenue is shared on the basis of deliveries to Allegany County retailers. The computation is received monthly from wholesalers who report to the state comptroller's office the amount sold in each county.

The state comptroller's office will distribute the tax revenue on a quarterly basis with only three quarters being distributed during the first fiscal year.

It was pointed out that economic changes could affect the amount of the tax revenue either upward or down, depending on the amount of distilled spirits sold in Allegany County. Local enforcement of the liquor laws can increase the revenue without stimulating the use of distilled spirits and at the same time curb anti-social practices and promote lawful sale of the products, it was added.

The ways to a trim waistline are worth taking!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The newest fashions do two things with the waistline: either they make it appear longer by fitting the torso smoothly; or they ease the waist, without defining it. Even if you prefer the undefined line, you'll be sorry if you let your own waist spread.

Reason one: no dress, whatever its silhouette completely conceals an obvious bulge. Reason two: the fashion cycle will sometime swing around again to the nipped-in look, and you'll wear it becomingly only if you still have a natural indentation.

Stick to your beauty diet for your figuer's sake. Then, since it takes exercise to adjust contours, give some slenderizing effort to the middle measure.

Slim Treatment

Here's a waistline whittler to include in your everyday diet of exercise. Stand with head high, stomach muscles pulled in, feet apart, toes turned in slightly. Stretch arms to the sides at shoulder level, and bend the elbows at a right angle. Now bend from your waist, as far as your can, to the right. Return to upright position and bend to the left. Do the same with elbows bent so your hands rest on your shoulders . . . this gives an even stronger waist-pull. Repeat the entire exercise six times.

A lithe waistline and trim hips are the dual intent of the next figure perfectioner. Lie on your back, with arms well out from your sides on the floor. Raise the left leg and swing it across your body to touch your right hand. Bring leg up straight again, and lower it slowly to the floor. Repeat, with right leg touching left hand. Four lefts, four rights at each trial.

These exercises are both preventives and cures. They'll help to maintain the trim waistline you now possess, or to restore the one you lost. Not overnight, of course. Miracles happen mostly because you cause them to happen!

Dress And Diet

Supplement exercise by putting a limit on calories (about 2,500 to stay the same, 1,200 a day to lose weight). By wearing a girdle that hugs the waistline. By pulling your diaphragm and waist up out of your hips when you stand, sit, or walk.

There's plenty of good figureing in these suggestions, particularly if you've determination to go with them.

W. A. Strother Resigns Tax Collection Post

Allegany County's assistant tax collector for District 1 yesterday announced his resignation, with his action resulting from "friendly understandings not being carried out."

W. A. Strother has been assistant tax collector under Ernest B. Treat since 1950. Prior to that, he served four years as tax collector for District 1 with Treat as his assistant.

The position of tax collector for this district is one of the choicest political plums in the county and the post is filled by appointment by the Allegany County Board of County Commissioners.

Specifically, Strother announced his resignation in a letter to the tax collector as follows:

"This is to inform you that I will terminate my employment in the tax office as of November 30, 1954.

"I regret very much to do this on such short notice but think it best under circumstances for all concerned. I feel sure you will have no trouble borrowing temporary help from one of the other departments until you make permanent adjustment.

"Thanking you for all past favors and wishing you a successful future, I am respectfully yours."

When asked reasons for his resignation, Strothers stated that friendly understandings were not being carried out. Further than that he would not comment.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29—(INS)—When Cleveland detectives Robert Schottke and Pat Gareau arrived at noon July 4 at the hospital where Dr. Sam Sheppard was bedded down, the only question they could ask was, "who killed your wife?"

The answer consumed 20 minutes. They then left Sam, had lunch, stopped by the Bay Village (O.) police station, returned to the scene of the murder of Marilyn Sheppard, and worked there for perhaps an hour.

When they returned to the hospital at 3 p.m., a remarkable change had taken place. They indicated by their questions that they knew all about Sam's other life with Susan Hayes in California, including his gift to her of a wristwatch. They knew about his occasional plans to ask Marilyn for a divorce. They knew other intimate phases of the doctor's life. They were so sure of their ground that Schottke, who looks like a walk-on in "Dragnet," stared Sam in the eye and said, "I think you did it."

Sam casually replied, "don't be ridiculous.")

Who blew the whistle on Sam in his own hometown? We asked one of his prosecutors this question but he only smiled and answered, "Whistle? Why don't you just say that Schottke and Gareau are a couple of good professionals?"

They may very well be. But Holmes himself, assisted by Ray Schindler and all the other great Hawkshaws of fiction and fact, could not have been able to ask those 3 p.m. questions without help from a person or persons who knew Sam like a book and wanted to turn him in.

Who in little Bay Village would have known that Sam was cozy with the Hayes girl for a couple of days last spring, 2,000 miles and more to the west? Who could have known Susan lost her wristwatch at a party she attended with Sam and that the ogling osteopath bought her a new one? The domestic discord was easier to ferret out, of course. Yet somebody had to supply even that information. Schottke and Gareau didn't know Sheppard existed until called into the case. But in a very short space of time they were quizzing him on what became the very core of the state's case—that Sam killed his wife to clear his path to Susan and/or other women.

The state has not presented a witness to testify directly on all these points. There has been testimony around the edges. But no person has said, "yeah, I saw them in California and was with them when he bought her the watch." Or, "sure, he talked to me a lot about unloading her."

Yet, to repeat, Schottke and Gareau found out these things pronto. Sam acknowledged most of this in his signed statement to the Cleveland police, made July 10. A neighbor supplied the divorce talk testimony.

Was there a dossier on Sam in the village where he was the most dashing young duke and one of its foremost do-gooders? There must have been. But it is surprising when one considers that he was regarded locally as a worker of medical miracles, was official police surgeon, patched up the padded warriors of the local high school football team, was interested in juvenile delinquency, was the village's champion waterskier; and certainly its most dashing figure when he would drive about town in his Jaguar, his black beret cocked rakishly. He was the envy of many a village benedict and buck.

But somebody was taking notes. Somebody was listening. Whoever it was passed the information along to Schottke and Gareau, and the whole case of the state of Ohio against this man began to take shape.

One of the Cleveland detectives' sources of information was John Eaton, the lumbering chief of police in Bay Village. Others hastily questioned by Schottke and Gareau included Mr. and Mrs. Don Ahern, guests of the Sheppards the night before the murder, and Mayor and Mrs. Spencer Houk, first persons summoned by Sheppard. Sheppard subsequently asked police to consider Houk, his best friend, as a suspect.

But we may never know just who was interested enough to learn about what made Sammy run around, and then spill it to the cops.

Washington Watching Wall Street Which Is Close To High Of 1929

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Official Washington is keeping a wary eye on the bull market in Wall St. but there is no indication as yet that the administration thinks it should try to clamp on a precautionary lid.

Prevailing opinion seems to be that the stock market, now close to the 1929 high, is reflecting spreading confidence in a business rise, and that such a rise will automatically prevent any dangerously steep speculative stock boom.

Blue-ribbon oil, steel and railroad stocks led the Associated Press 60-stock average up $1.20 Friday to $147.50, the highest point since Oct. 11, 1929 when it was $147.90. The all-time high for the average occurred Sept. 3, 1929, when it reached $157.70.

Administration experts have been watching the market intently ever since it started climbing right after the Nov. 2 elections. To put official sentiment mildly, there would be much unhappiness in this city if a speculative stock market wave should topple over and knock business off its stride just as a general recovery got under way.

So while the situation is getting a close watch here, a round of consultations with some top economic policymakers in the past 10 days disclosed the following opinions:

1. Credit conditions may have been eased over the past year to such an extent—as a stimulant to business — that speculators may now be able to borrow for stock market transactions at interest rates low enough to make borrowing for that purpose unusually attractive. This may have provided the wherewithal for some speculative bidding up of stocks.

2. But on the whole, the higher share prices are probably justified by the earning capacity of the productive plant, equipment and management the stocks represent.

3. A general, rapidly growing, and undisguised confidence in the business outlook among many businessmen who run the companies whose stocks are now rising is a big contributing factor. This has been underscored by good earnings reports during the past quarter, despite a year of economic downturn.

4. Government economists agree with business executives that the general level of economic activity is on the move upward—although in some government offices it is felt that businessmen now tend to be overconfident where they were overpessimistic a year ago.

5. If the government economists and businessmen are right in foreseeing a general economic upswing during the coming months, there will be a big increase in general business demand for credit. This will start interest rates upward, make credit harder and more expensive to get, and will put the squeeze on stock market speculation, without any overt move by the government.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29—(INS)—When Cleveland detectives Robert Schottke and Pat Gareau arrived at noon July 4 at the hospital where Dr. Sam Sheppard was bedded down, the only question they could ask was, "who killed your wife?"

The answer consumed 20 minutes. They then left Sam, had lunch, stopped by the Bay Village (O.) police station, returned to the scene of the murder of Marilyn Sheppard, and worked there for perhaps an hour.

When they returned to the hospital at 3 p.m., a remarkable change had taken place. They indicated by their questions that they knew all about Sam's other life with Susan Hayes in California, including his gift to her of a wristwatch. They knew about his occasional plans to ask Marilyn for a divorce. They knew other intimate phases of the doctor's life. They were so sure of their ground that Schottke, who looks like a walk-on in "Dragnet," stared Sam in the eye and said, "I think you did it."

Sam casually replied, "don't be ridiculous.")

Who blew the whistle on Sam in his own hometown? We asked one of his prosecutors this question but he only smiled and answered, "Whistle? Why don't you just say that Schottke and Gareau are a couple of good professionals?"

They may very well be. But Holmes himself, assisted by Ray Schindler and all the other great Hawkshaws of fiction and fact, could not have been able to ask those 3 p.m. questions without help from a person or persons who knew Sam like a book and wanted to turn him in.

Who in little Bay Village would have known that Sam was cozy with the Hayes girl for a couple of days last spring, 2,000 miles and more to the west? Who could have known Susan lost her wristwatch at a party she attended with Sam and that the ogling osteopath bought her a new one? The domestic discord was easier to ferret out, of course. Yet somebody had to supply even that information. Schottke and Gareau didn't know Sheppard existed until called into the case. But in a very short space of time they were quizzing him on what became the very core of the state's case—that Sam killed his wife to clear his path to Susan and/or other women.

The state has not presented a witness to testify directly on all these points. There has been testimony around the edges. But no person has said, "yeah, I saw them in California and was with them when he bought her the watch." Or, "sure, he talked to me a lot about unloading her."

Yet, to repeat, Schottke and Gareau found out these things pronto. Sam acknowledged most of this in his signed statement to the Cleveland police, made July 10. A neighbor supplied the divorce talk testimony.

Was there a dossier on Sam in the village where he was the most dashing young duke and one of its foremost do-gooders? There must have been. But it is surprising when one considers that he was regarded locally as a worker of medical miracles, was official police surgeon, patched up the padded warriors of the local high school football team, was interested in juvenile delinquency, was the village's champion waterskier; and certainly its most dashing figure when he would drive about town in his Jaguar, his black beret cocked rakishly. He was the envy of many a village benedict and buck.

But somebody was taking notes. Somebody was listening. Whoever it was passed the information along to Schottke and Gareau, and the whole case of the state of Ohio against this man began to take shape.

One of the Cleveland detectives' sources of information was John Eaton, the lumbering chief of police in Bay Village. Others hastily questioned by Schottke and Gareau included Mr. and Mrs. Don Ahern, guests of the Sheppards the night before the murder, and Mayor and Mrs. Spencer Houk, first persons summoned by Sheppard. Sheppard subsequently asked police to consider Houk, his best friend, as a suspect.

But we may never know just who was interested enough to learn about what made Sammy run around, and then spill it to the cops.

Washington Watching Wall Street Which Is Close To High Of 1929

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP) — Official Washington is keeping a wary eye on the bull market in Wall St. but there is no indication as yet that the administration thinks it should try to clamp on a precautionary lid.

Prevailing opinion seems to be that the stock market, now close to the 1929 high, is reflecting spreading confidence in a business rise, and that such a rise will automatically prevent any dangerously steep speculative stock boom.

Blue-ribbon oil, steel and railroad stocks led the Associated Press 60-stock average up $1.20 Friday to $147.50, the highest point since Oct. 11, 1929 when it was $147.90. The all-time high for the average occurred Sept. 3, 1929, when it reached $157.70.

Administration experts have been watching the market intently ever since it started climbing right after the Nov. 2 elections. To put official sentiment mildly, there would be much unhappiness in this city if a speculative stock market wave should topple over and knock business off its stride just as a general recovery got under way.

So while the situation is getting a close watch here, a round of consultations with some top economic policymakers in the past 10 days disclosed the following opinions:

1. Credit conditions may have been eased over the past year to such an extent—as a stimulant to business — that speculators may now be able to borrow for stock market transactions at interest rates low enough to make borrowing for that purpose unusually attractive. This may have provided the wherewithal for some speculative bidding up of stocks.

2. But on the whole, the higher share prices are probably justified by the earning capacity of the productive plant, equipment and management the stocks represent.

3. A general, rapidly growing, and undisguised confidence in the business outlook among many businessmen who run the companies whose stocks are now rising is a big contributing factor. This has been underscored by good earnings reports during the past quarter, despite a year of economic downturn.

4. Government economists agree with business executives that the general level of economic activity is on the move upward—although in some government offices it is felt that businessmen now tend to be overconfident where they were overpessimistic a year ago.

5. If the government economists and businessmen are right in foreseeing a general economic upswing during the coming months, there will be a big increase in general business demand for credit. This will start interest rates upward, make credit harder and more expensive to get, and will put the squeeze on stock market speculation, without any overt move by the government.

Police Probing Entry Of Three Gasoline Offices

Authorities are continuing a probe into the breaking and entering of the offices of three local gasoline bulk plants late Monday night or early yesterday morning.

The burglar got away with money from two establishments and failed to crack a safe in the third.

City Police Detective James E. Van said the unknown person broke into the Texaco, Betholine-Sinclair and Mobile bulk plants near the Western Maryland Railway in the Virginia-River Avenue and Potomac Street section.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya is also investigating with Van, who reported that the three places closed early Monday. He surmised the breaking and enterings occurred between 10 p. m. Monday and 5 a. m. yesterday.

Investigation led police to believe the burglaries were committed by the same person.

At the Texaco station, the intruder broke a pane of glass in a door, turned a lock and walked in. Crude tools in the place were used to demolish the front of a safe, but the strongbox was not opened.

Officials of the Betholine-Sinclair station said between $15 and $20 were missing. Entrance was gained by forcing a lock on the front door.

Van said a window at the Mobile bulk plant was jimmied. An undetermined amount of money in the cash register was taken.

In all three cases, he added, offices were ransacked.

Maryland's 4-H Dress Revue Champion Cheered As Model At National Meet

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 (AP)—Almyra Denny, Maryland's 4-H dress revue champion, earned cheers from a National 4-H dress revue audience today as she modeled a nile green embroidered organdy party dress.

The 17-year-old Wye Milles girl was one of 47 sewing champions to compete in the national "Fashion Treasures" phase of the competition here. Clothing was Almyr's first 4-H project. She started it when she was nine years old.

The Talbot County Miss has made more than 90 garments in her clothing project, including suits coats and dresses for every occasion. She claims she can have twice as many clothes for half the price by making her own.

Joe Zoller, 18-year-old Ellicott City youth, had a non-competitive part in the fashion show. He escorted Norma Nadeau of Idaho and Barbara Jane Holliday of Ohio to the stage. The Howard County farm boy is Maryland's farm and home electric winner.

Luncheon Guests

After the dress revue, the 4-H girls attending the national Congress boarded special motor coaches for the South Shore Country Club for a luncheon as guests of a mail order firm.

They were entertained by Fred Waring and his orchestra.

The boys went to a special luncheon as guests of the National Live Stock Producers Assn.

After lunch, 4-H youth toured the Chicago Museum of Natural History. Tonight they attended special dinners given in their honor by the sponsors of their trips.

Receive Scholarships

The Maryland 4-H champs received $300 scholarships with their awards.

Smith began operating the tractor on his father's 275-acre farm when he was only 10 years old. He enrolled this fall at the University of Maryland.

Miss Magaha is a Hood College junior. She has made 65 garments and remodeled two, baked 364 products, prepared 4,167 meals, canned 305 quarts, frozen 1,000 pounds of meat and 397 boxes of fruits and vegetables, cared for a three-quarter acre garden and raised 165 chickens. She has won county blue ribbons in 10 classifications.

Young Amos, who had been a 4-H member for eight years, helped his father build a large screened-in porch. Alone, he made a pergola to keep the wisteria and the hot afternoon sun off the porch.

He planted shrubs and trees (2,000 evergreens), shingled a garage and remodeled his father's shop. Davis is a high school senior.

Wins Scholarship

Norman Smith, 18, of RFD 1, Little Orleans, who represented Maryland as the 1954 4-H tractor winner, is congratulated by John J. Leu of New York, vice president of American Oil Company, on being awarded one of the 12 national college scholarships at the 33d National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago this week. West Virginia's winner was Donald H. Graham of Forman, Grant County.

Whitworth Says

Owens contended the report, although it may contain some information about the university's operations, also contains reports on individual faculty members and students and other matters not related to operations.

Whitworth made it clear he would make the report public if the court rules in his favor.

In an emotional final argument, the Western Maryland lawmaker pointed out that the university is a State agency, supported by public funds exceeding 18 million dollars annually and should withhold no information about its affairs from the public.

He denied that some information in the report might be harmful and said it has been his experience that an informed public would rise to correct faults in the university.

Whitworth likened the situation to an expose of conditions in the state's mental hospitals, which he said were improved when the public learned the truth.

Owens said he believed the legislator had a right to any specific information requested about the school's operations but not to a report that was submitted by an unofficial body.

He said the report is only a preliminary one, and a final report by the Middle States association may be different in many respects.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, new president of the university, testified the visiting accrediting group did not purport to say that it knows everything about the university, and also did not say that certain of its reported findings were in error.

Judge William P. Cole, president of the university's regents, emphasized that the inspection group repeatedly made it clear its findings were to be kept confidential.

He said a large portion of the report already is out of date because conditions referred to have been changed, and many of the findings are subject to controversy among educators.

Police Probing Entry Of Three Gasoline Offices

Authorities are continuing a probe into the breaking and entering of the offices of three local gasoline bulk plants late Monday night or early yesterday morning.

The burglar got away with money from two establishments and failed to crack a safe in the third.

City Police Detective James E. Van said the unknown person broke into the Texaco, Betholine-Sinclair and Mobile bulk plants near the Western Maryland Railway in the Virginia-River Avenue and Potomac Street section.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya is also investigating with Van, who reported that the three places closed early Monday. He surmised the breaking and enterings occurred between 10 p. m. Monday and 5 a. m. yesterday.

Investigation led police to believe the burglaries were committed by the same person.

At the Texaco station, the intruder broke a pane of glass in a door, turned a lock and walked in. Crude tools in the place were used to demolish the front of a safe, but the strongbox was not opened.

Officials of the Betholine-Sinclair station said between $15 and $20 were missing. Entrance was gained by forcing a lock on the front door.

Van said a window at the Mobile bulk plant was jimmied. An undetermined amount of money in the cash register was taken.

In all three cases, he added, offices were ransacked.

Maryland's 4-H Dress Revue Champion Cheered As Model At National Meet

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 (AP)—Almyra Denny, Maryland's 4-H dress revue champion, earned cheers from a National 4-H dress revue audience today as she modeled a nile green embroidered organdy party dress.

The 17-year-old Wye Milles girl was one of 47 sewing champions to compete in the national "Fashion Treasures" phase of the competition here. Clothing was Almyr's first 4-H project. She started it when she was nine years old.

The Talbot County Miss has made more than 90 garments in her clothing project, including suits coats and dresses for every occasion. She claims she can have twice as many clothes for half the price by making her own.

Joe Zoller, 18-year-old Ellicott City youth, had a non-competitive part in the fashion show. He escorted Norma Nadeau of Idaho and Barbara Jane Holliday of Ohio to the stage. The Howard County farm boy is Maryland's farm and home electric winner.

Luncheon Guests

After the dress revue, the 4-H girls attending the national Congress boarded special motor coaches for the South Shore Country Club for a luncheon as guests of a mail order firm.

They were entertained by Fred Waring and his orchestra.

The boys went to a special luncheon as guests of the National Live Stock Producers Assn.

After lunch, 4-H youth toured the Chicago Museum of Natural History. Tonight they attended special dinners given in their honor by the sponsors of their trips.

Receive Scholarships

The Maryland 4-H champs received $300 scholarships with their awards.

Smith began operating the tractor on his father's 275-acre farm when he was only 10 years old. He enrolled this fall at the University of Maryland.

Miss Magaha is a Hood College junior. She has made 65 garments and remodeled two, baked 364 products, prepared 4,167 meals, canned 305 quarts, frozen 1,000 pounds of meat and 397 boxes of fruits and vegetables, cared for a three-quarter acre garden and raised 165 chickens. She has won county blue ribbons in 10 classifications.

Young Amos, who had been a 4-H member for eight years, helped his father build a large screened-in porch. Alone, he made a pergola to keep the wisteria and the hot afternoon sun off the porch.

He planted shrubs and trees (2,000 evergreens), shingled a garage and remodeled his father's shop. Davis is a high school senior.

Wins Scholarship

Norman Smith, 18, of RFD 1, Little Orleans, who represented Maryland as the 1954 4-H tractor winner, is congratulated by John J. Leu of New York, vice president of American Oil Company, on being awarded one of the 12 national college scholarships at the 33d National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago this week. West Virginia's winner was Donald H. Graham of Forman, Grant County.

Owens contended the report, although it may contain some information about the university's operations, also contains reports on individual faculty members and students and other matters not related to operations.

Whitworth made it clear he would make the report public if the court rules in his favor.

In an emotional final argument, the Western Maryland lawmaker pointed out that the university is a State agency, supported by public funds exceeding 18 million dollars annually and should withhold no information about its affairs from the public.

He denied that some information in the report might be harmful and said it has been his experience that an informed public would rise to correct faults in the university.

Whitworth likened the situation to an expose of conditions in the state's mental hospitals, which he said were improved when the public learned the truth.

Owens said he believed the legislator had a right to any specific information requested about the school's operations but not to a report that was submitted by an unofficial body.

He said the report is only a preliminary one, and a final report by the Middle States association may be different in many respects.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, new president of the university, testified the visiting accrediting group did not purport to say that it knows everything about the university, and also did not say that certain of its reported findings were in error.

Judge William P. Cole, president of the university's regents, emphasized that the inspection group repeatedly made it clear its findings were to be kept confidential.

He said a large portion of the report already is out of date because conditions referred to have been changed, and many of the findings are subject to controversy among educators.

Distant Early Warning Costly But Necessary

It is true that enemy bombers approaching these shores from over the Atlantic Ocean could still get within a few minutes of a target area before the populace could be alerted. Even after the radar "Texas Towers" are standing like oil derricks 100 miles off shore, and despite whatever radar may operate in ships and aircraft farther out, there is no hermetic warning net that can catch every low as well as high-flying plane.

That is why the Ground Observer Corps will remain for a long time an essential instrument for the detection of possible enemy attack.

But as time goes on there is more and more use of electronic detection gear. The coastal radar of the 1940s is being supplemented, as noted by the Texas Towers at sea. Along the U. S.-Canadian border the so-called Pinetree Chain of radar stations is operating now.

Farther north, in the latitude of lower Hudson's Bay, the Mid-Canadian Line is under construction. But how about the Arctic Circle and beyond, in case of this possible assault over the ice cap?

This is the subject of the latest joint announcement on the top level by the governments of the U. S. and Canada. It concerns the "DEW Line," meaning distant early warning." Radar stations on this line from Alaska via the Arctic islands to Greenland will some day provide the northernmost warning net of fixed installations.

Some of these stations are already at work in Alaska. The cost will be huge, but so might be devastation in case of attack. A good radar net would seem to be a bargain at almost any price in dollars.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Nature Of Revolution

If Russia presented no other problem than a difference of social, political and economic techniques, there would be no impediment to what they call co-existence. The United States existed amicably with autocratic czarist Russia, with Confucian China of the Manchus, with the peculiarities of the Ottoman Turks, with all sorts of varieties of peoples. "Co-existence" is a normal state of mankind.

Russia, however, presents the broader problem of the Marxist Church which seeks to dominate the thinking of the entire human race in conformity with Marxism-Leninism, with what they regard as the science of history. In the economic field, they accept socialism which is not rejected in whole or in part by any nation in the Western world; but economics is a small part of the Marxist doctrine which proclaims itself a complete philosophy of life, touching man in all his activities.

The four phases of Marxism which have proved, during the past 37 years, to be most attractive to younger people and have won adherents in every country are:

1. The "scientific" approach to the position of man in the cosmos, namely, that man is a product of his environment, of the constant struggle for existence of everything that is upon this earth; that the habits of man are determined by the tools he uses to earn his keep, thus eliminating all absolutes in morals and ethics;

2. That religion per se is an opiate of the people, a device invented by the ruling classes for those who are to be subjected to their will, that mysticism is an evil because it deceives and that therefore a mystical God is a myth because its presence cannot be substantiated by the "scientific methods;" that varieties of religion are not permissible in a Communist society because in all such differences lie the seeds of war;

3. That race is "scientifically" unfounded; that varieties of color or hair structure, or skull measurements do not establish racial distinction that are of significance in a Marxist world; that racism has been employed by ruling powers to establish colonialism, that is, to make it possible for the Western Europeans to prevail over Asiatic, African, and American peoples;

4. That nationality is an evil because it makes for war; that whereas peoples do have different languages and customs, ultimately the whole of the human race will be one; that boundary lines will be eliminated and varieties of governmental processes will be no more. When this goal is reached, government itself will be unnecessary and will wither away.

Arnold Toynbee makes this point:

"Communism is politically formidable to us Westerners today because it is politically attractive to anyone who is being treated as a 'native.' Any human being will revolt against being treated as a 'native.' For the millions who are still being treated as 'natives' today, communism is an obvious remedy, because they have come to know that, if they go Communist, they will not be treated as 'natives' any longer."

That explains only one phase of the problem. It does not explain why so many among the intellectuals in the most advanced countries, France, Italy, Germany, the United States, are prepared to ally themselves with the Communists and to make sacrifices for this movement, sacrifices sometimes of their lives. The answer, of course, is that before they became Marxists, they had revolted against God; that race and nationality have lost all meaning for them; whereas the Marxist "scientific" approach to the question, "What is man?" satisfies their need for a unified system.

But above all else, they seek a society without war, having been affected in their own lives by the consequences of two wars in one generation. They are prepared to give up religion, race and nationality for peace.

As over-simplified as this explanation must be, it is nevertheless true. It is the problem of our day. Up to now, the West has not met this problem philosophically and therefore has not met it at all. Giving money to governments does not lessen Marxist influence, because money is not at issue; nor is a high standard of living. What is at issue is the Communist claim to a world without war because it is without religion, race or nationality.

If co-existence means the acceptance of Russia under any conditions, is it necessary to permit the indoctrination of our people by Marxism?

The Wild Blue Yonder's Getting Crowded

Harriman Faces Possible Censure In New York State

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Now that it has become fashionable to try to "censure public men for their spoken or written words, the New York State Legislature, which is Republican in both houses, may have on its hands from the very outset of its next session a proposal to censure the new Democratic governor, Averell Harriman, for conduct unbecoming a candidate for public office.

This situation might arise out of the fact that Mr. Harriman wrote during his campaign a letter, hitherto unpublished, which contains a secret pledge that he gave to a group of representative of railroad labor unions concerning future legislation to be enacted if he were elected. In that same letter Mr. Harriman coincidentally solicited the votes of the railroad labor men.

Agreement Or Not?

The penal laws of the State of New York, like the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, forbid an agreement to supply votes in exchange for any promises of legislation, and the legal question posed would be whether there was or was not in the Harriman letter an actual agreement or promise given in return for the votes solicited. Here is the text of the letter itself:

"16 East 81st Street
"New York 28, New York
"October 29, 1954

"Dear Fellow Railroadman:

"As an old railroadman, it was a pleasure for me to breakfast with representatives of railroad labor in our state at my home on Thursday, October 21, 1954. It provided an opportunity to discuss problems of mutual interest and concern.

"As I stated at our meeting, I support the basic railroad labor laws of our state, including the full crew law. This law not only benefits the employes of the railroads, but the public as well from the standpoint of safety.

"In addition, we must strive to extend the coverage of our sanitation, health and safety laws to include employes of the railroad and express industry. I can assure you also that a bill to provide for the weekly payment of wages of railroadmen and express employes will not meet with a veto as it did in 1949.

"I believe the state government should give special attention and technical assistance to the problem of unemployment in our railroad communities, resulting from dieselization.

"I earnestly solicit your vote on Tuesday, November 2, 1954.

"Sincerely,
"AVERELL HARRIMAN"

Photostatic copies of the letter have been in the hands of various persons in the railroad world since the election.

The New York State penal laws provide that any person is guilty of a felony and "in addition forfeits any office to which he may have been elected" if he makes any "gift, loan, promise, offer, procurement or agreement . . . to procure the election of any person, etc."

Politically Indiscreet

Still another provision makes it a felony for any candidate who "gives, offers or promises any office, place, appointment or valuable thing as inducement for any voter or other person to procure or aid in procuring either a large or a small vote, plurality or majority at any election district or other political division of the state or a candidate or candidates to be voted for at an election . . ."

Some lawyers might say the letter presents a borderline case, but this correspondent believes that Mr. Harriman did not violate the law. For it can be persuasively argued that he did not make a specific agreement to obtain a particular group of votes in exchange for his promise of action on future New York State laws and that what he did was more in the nature of a general campaign statement which, as a candidate, he was entitled to make. One wonders, however, how persuasive with the labor groups this line of reasoning would have been if Mr. Harriman's letter had been written to some of his friends in railroad management and if the promise given had reference to legislative benefits that the railroads might expect if the candidate were elected.

The letter, of course, reveals the customs and practices of modern politics. Mr. Harriman can rightly contend that other candidates have done virtually the same thing without being criticized for it. It is, to be sure, somewhat unusual for a candidate to make a pledge to any group in secret and then write a letter about it for limited circulation. Persons of long political experience would say that Mr. Harriman was at least politically indiscreet in putting on paper such a promise. What the New York State Legislature may do with the matter, either by way of tightening up its penal laws or by way of "censure," is something else again.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

All the returns are in from the outlying Univacs and the elite are the elect.

When the shouting and the tumult had been tuned down below neighbor-annoyance the mechanical calibrater stuck to its geared estimates.

In spite of the numerous protests by defeated candidates Univac stood mute. It has no reverse processes.

It counted out the high, the low and the middle. Governors went into its hamburgering gullet. Its digestive juices dissolved senators. Its insatiate appetite for correct figures swamped congressmen and sent mayors to the slag-heap of the limbo foundry.

Fiorello La Guardia said he didn't make many mistakes. But when he did make one it was a pip. Univac is as accurate as Jack Horner's thumb.

Among the extraneous clinkers shaken down into Univac's grate was young Franklin Roosevelt. The good-looking politico jettisoned his congressional seat to go for broke on attorney-general of New York State.

Univac took a special transfusion of red ink for Franklin Junior. At midnight it looked like Franklin was in like the hay crop.

At dawn Univac coughed up the end figures and Franklin the Twice was out like yesterday's egg shells.

The papers said the kid broke down and cried. This is the first intimation we had that Franklin Two took politics seriously. We always thought he was in there for laughs like a putty nose.

German Businessmen Are Undermining U. S. Trade With Latin Americans

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — U. S. bankers have a lot more at stake in the Rio de Janerio Economic Conference than most of them realize. So does the American public.

This was one reason why Congressman Jim Fulton of Pittsburgh tangled with his fellow Republican, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, for coming to the Rio conference with "an empty brief case."

Congressman Fulton not only knew Latin-American temperament regarding the Eisenhower administration's loan policy, but he also knew that both the President's brother Milton and U. S. Ambassador Merwin Bohan had stepped off the U. S. delegation because they opposed Humphrey's tight-fisted point of view.

What U. S. bankers face in Rio is a plan for a purely inter-Latin American bank put forward by Arturo Maschke, president of the Central Bank of Chile. This bank would be composed only of Latin-American nations. The United States would be barred. However—and here is where U. S. bankers would get caught in the middle—the capital for this bank would be drawn from Latin-American deposits now in U. S. banks.

As of today, Latin Americans have a total of $1,800,000,000 on deposit in North American banks. And under the Maschke plan, they would withdraw this money from U. S. banks and put it in their own bank as collateral against development loans to underdeveloped Latin-American countries.

Any withdrawal of nearly two billions from American banks, especially if done suddenly after the Rio conference, might have a discombobulating effect upon the American banking system.

Europe Invades Latin America

Meanwhile, what the American public doesn't realize is that German businessmen are descending on Latin America in increasing numbers, offering long-term credit and cheap prices. Thus, while the U.S.A. spends money building up Germany, Germany is indirectly using that money to unbuild American trade in Latin America.

Today, Latin America buys more from the U.S.A. than all of Europe and Asia combined. Ranking next to Canada—our best customer—come Brazil, Cuba, Mexico, Venezuela, all buying more than England, France, Germany.

And while Latin delegates at Rio learn that the U.S.A. is considering a two- to three-billion development fund for Asia, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey discusses a prospective bank which would take a year to organize and which would loan Latin America $100,000,000 sometime in the future.

That's why Congressman Fulton criticized his fellow Republican, Secretary Humphrey, for coming to Rio with "an empty brief case."

Democratic Go-Round

Harry Truman is sending his friend, Bill Boyle, to New Orleans to turn thumbs down on Paul Butler of Indiana as new Democratic chairman. Frank McKinney, also of Indiana, is down on Butler, which is one reason why Truman, always loyal to his friends, is opposing him . . . . Harry still carries a hefty veto in the party . . . . Steve Mitchell says he's staying neutral in the chairmanship, but approached Al Wheeler, District of Columbia Central Committee chairman, to vote for Butler . . . . Estes Kefauver's friends at New Orleans will vote for Mike Di Salle, former price administrator, or Jiggs Donohue, former D. C. commissioner . . . . Many Southerners favor Congressman Hale Boggs of Louisiana, a good man. However, there's a general thumbs down against any part-time chairman. . . . Boggs is a Catholic and there's also a strong sentiment for continuing the tradition of a Catholic as Democratic chairman. Only exception to this might be Oscar Chapman, the much-loved former secretary of the interior, who, unfortunately, is in poor health . . . . Ever since Jim Farley in 1932 there's been an unbroken chain of Irishmen as Democratic chairmen—Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Bob Hannegan of St. Louis, Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, Bill Boyle of Kansas City, Frank McKinney of Indianapolis, Steve Mitchell of Chicago. The idea is that the Irish are the world's best politicians and many of the above were . . . . If Mike Di Salle, a Catholic of Italian descent, should be tapped, he would be the first Italian-American to hold the chairmanship and many favor recognizing the growing influence of Italian-Americans in U. S. politics. Di Salle was mayor of Toledo and ran against Senator Bricker of Ohio in 1952 . . . . If there's a deadlock at New Orleans, watch Jiggs Donohue, considered the best commissioner the District of Columbia ever had.

What's In A Name?

Republicans are almost holding their breath to see whether Democrats at New Orleans walk into a trap.

What they're hoping is that the Democrats will elect as their new national chairman James Finnegan, chairman of the Philadelphia City Council.

The Republicans haven't anything against Mr. Finnegan personally, politically, or any other way. But they do have some interesting data on another James Finnegan. And they know that the American public, which reads in a hurry, is sure to get them mixed up.

The other Finnegan is the former collector of internal revenue in St. Louis, who went to jail for taking pay from people in tax trouble. Most of the public have now forgotten his name. But what the Democrats don't know is that the name James Finnegan is going to pop into the headlines fairly soon as a result of a federal grand jury now meeting in Omaha which has been trying to ascertain who originally whitewashed the Finnegan case.

At first the St. Louis Finnegan was completely exonerated by friends inside the Treasury Department and, based upon this whitewash, President Truman accepted his resignation. After this, however, persevering Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware brought out such damaging facts on Finnegan that he was sent to jail.

Senator Williams has now been demanding that the Justice Department investigate and prosecute those responsible for the whitewash, and a grand jury in Omaha has elicited some dynamite-laden statements from Frank Lohn, former chief of tax intelligence in Kansas City, one of the men who probed the Finnegan case.

All this has nothing to do with the Philadelphia Finnegan—except the name, which, unfortunately for James Finnegan of Philadelphia, is identical with that of James Finnegan of St. Louis.

So by the time the Justice Department finishes re-airing the St. Louis Finnegan scandals, the public will be vividly reminded of the old income-tax probe. And it won't do the Democratic National Committee a bit of good—especially if the new chairman's name is Finnegan.

Reaching For The Moon

By Bob Considine

CLEVELAND — (INS) — More Americans were killed last year in Automobile accidents than were killed in the war that created the country and in the costly conflict in Korea. Most of them died in pitiable vain.

The toll amounted to 38,300 dead, plus 1,350,000 injured and damage estimated at about $4,000,000,000. Those figures would wipe certain sovereign nations off the face of the world.

Just as U.N. and other agencies seek ways and means of stopping wars, serious men and women are now about the business of finding ways to cut down on the tragedies of our traffic. To dramatize that crusade for traffic safety, they have designated December 15 of this year as "S-Day"—before which they are imploring U.S. motorists to obey the laws so implicitly that we will have a day without a death or an accident.

Asked To Sign Pledge

That's a form of reaching for the moon, of course. There were 10,000,000 traffic accidents in the country last year. But stranger goals have been reached by moon-reachers. If December 15 adds its dreary "normal" figures to the annual ledgers of death and terrible hurt, it will not be because a lot of good and sincere people have failed to try to stop the mainly senseless slaughter.

The actors in this far-flung safety drama—you, to be specific—are asked to sign a pledge which reads:

"I personally pledge myself to drive and walk safely and think in terms of safety.

"I pledge myself to work through my church, civic, business, and labor groups to carry out the official action program for traffic safety.

"I give this pledge in seriousness and earnestness, having considered fully my obligation to protect my life and the lives of my family and my fellow men."

President Eisenhower has given the crusade its proper perspective. At the White House conference on highway safety he said, "When any particular activity in the United States takes 38,000 American lives in one year, it becomes a national problem of first importance. It is one of those problems which by their nature have no easy solution.

"But in a democracy, public opinion is everything. It is the force that brings about enforcement of the laws; it is the force that keeps the United States in being, and it runs in all its parts. So, if we can mobilize public opinion, this problem, like all of those to which free men fall heir, can be solved."

Takes a heap of doing, and a lot of it is being provided by Charles F. McCahill's media group of the President's Action Committee. Mr. McCahill is senior vice president of the Forest City Publishing Company, which publishes the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Cleveland News.

Personal Statistics

All 48 states have designated "S-D Day" directors, who in turn have asked the blizzards of motorists in their areas to 1) observe the letter and the spirit of all traffic regulations; 2) be courteous to every driver and pedestrian—practice sportsmanship; 3) give full attention to driving and walking.

Philip G. Reed of General Electric has a good point:

"The basic problem ahead of us now is to make everyone realize that he and you are in the front line of this fight. The problem is to make everyone realize that these stunning statistics of death and injury are personal tragedies and personal crises to each person involved.

"(These figures) are friends, relatives, the neighbor next door, sacrificed in a needless destruction of life and property right here at home.

Anti-Rabies Serum Affords Immediate Protection

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The anti-rabies serum is the first new agent to be offered in more than 25 years for the prevention and treatment of rabies. It will be employed as an adjunct to the old Pasteur treatment.

This serum was used experimentally for many years and when it proved safe, was offered for general usage. The product is refined and concentrated from the serum of horses that were previously inoculated against the disease. More than 200 persons, many of whom were bitten by dogs known to have rabies, have received the injections. There were no deaths from rabies in this group.

The success of the Pasteur vaccine is due to its ability to stimulate the system to produce protective antibodies against rabies. Several injections are given daily and weeks may elapse before complete protection develops. In contrast, the new serum—swarming with antibodies — affords immediate protection. The serum fills the gap between exposure and the time the Pasteur vaccine starts to work.

Rabies in man is preventable by attacking the problem at its source. The infection remains alive in foxes, bats, squirrels, and other animals that live in the forest and countryside. They transmit it to stray dogs which in turn give it to our pets. The logical solution is to inoculate all animals that live close to man and to eliminate stray dogs and cats. This is being done in many areas with satisfying results.

Most people have an inherent fear of rabies. A dog bite is a terrifying experience and for this reason alone, an attempt should be made to isolate the animal for observation. Anxiety is enhanced when the animal cannot be found. There is some consolation, however, in knowing that not all dogs that bite are rabid and even if they are, only 5 to 16 per cent of humans bitten acquire the disease.

Much depends upon the type and location of the lesion. The eyes, nose, and lips are the most dangerous sites and if there are multiple bites in these areas the chance of developing rabies may be as high as 60 per cent.

Antibiotics have no effect on the rabies virus, hence the best thing to do is to cleanse all dog bites with soap and water or a suitable detergent. Nitric acid is needed when the wounds are deep and cannot be cleansed thoroughly. These procedures are recommended to wash away the causative organisms before they can invade deeper tissues.

The Pasteur treatment is advocated whenever there is the slightest possibility of exposure to rabies. This vaccine is potent and reactions are not unusual. As a result, the physician does not recommend the injections unless he feels they are essential.

Distant Early Warning Costly But Necessary

It is true that enemy bombers approaching these shores from over the Atlantic Ocean could still get within a few minutes of a target area before the populace could be alerted. Even after the radar "Texas Towers" are standing like oil derricks 100 miles off shore, and despite whatever radar may operate in ships and aircraft farther out, there is no hermetic warning net that can catch every low as well as high-flying plane.

That is why the Ground Observer Corps will remain for a long time an essential instrument for the detection of possible enemy attack.

But as time goes on there is more and more use of electronic detection gear. The coastal radar of the 1940s is being supplemented, as noted by the Texas Towers at sea. Along the U. S.-Canadian border the so-called Pinetree Chain of radar stations is operating now.

Farther north, in the latitude of lower Hudson's Bay, the Mid-Canadian Line is under construction. But how about the Arctic Circle and beyond, in case of this possible assault over the ice cap?

This is the subject of the latest joint announcement on the top level by the governments of the U. S. and Canada. It concerns the "DEW Line," meaning distant early warning." Radar stations on this line from Alaska via the Arctic islands to Greenland will some day provide the northernmost warning net of fixed installations.

Some of these stations are already at work in Alaska. The cost will be huge, but so might be devastation in case of attack. A good radar net would seem to be a bargain at almost any price in dollars.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Nature Of Revolution

If Russia presented no other problem than a difference of social, political and economic techniques, there would be no impediment to what they call co-existence. The United States existed amicably with autocratic czarist Russia, with Confucian China of the Manchus, with the peculiarities of the Ottoman Turks, with all sorts of varieties of peoples. "Co-existence" is a normal state of mankind.

Russia, however, presents the broader problem of the Marxist Church which seeks to dominate the thinking of the entire human race in conformity with Marxism-Leninism, with what they regard as the science of history. In the economic field, they accept socialism which is not rejected in whole or in part by any nation in the Western world; but economics is a small part of the Marxist doctrine which proclaims itself a complete philosophy of life, touching man in all his activities.

The four phases of Marxism which have proved, during the past 37 years, to be most attractive to younger people and have won adherents in every country are:

1. The "scientific" approach to the position of man in the cosmos, namely, that man is a product of his environment, of the constant struggle for existence of everything that is upon this earth; that the habits of man are determined by the tools he uses to earn his keep, thus eliminating all absolutes in morals and ethics;

2. That religion per se is an opiate of the people, a device invented by the ruling classes for those who are to be subjected to their will, that mysticism is an evil because it deceives and that therefore a mystical God is a myth because its presence cannot be substantiated by the "scientific methods;" that varieties of religion are not permissible in a Communist society because in all such differences lie the seeds of war;

3. That race is "scientifically" unfounded; that varieties of color or hair structure, or skull measurements do not establish racial distinction that are of significance in a Marxist world; that racism has been employed by ruling powers to establish colonialism, that is, to make it possible for the Western Europeans to prevail over Asiatic, African, and American peoples;

4. That nationality is an evil because it makes for war; that whereas peoples do have different languages and customs, ultimately the whole of the human race will be one; that boundary lines will be eliminated and varieties of governmental processes will be no more. When this goal is reached, government itself will be unnecessary and will wither away.

Arnold Toynbee makes this point:

"Communism is politically formidable to us Westerners today because it is politically attractive to anyone who is being treated as a 'native.' Any human being will revolt against being treated as a 'native.' For the millions who are still being treated as 'natives' today, communism is an obvious remedy, because they have come to know that, if they go Communist, they will not be treated as 'natives' any longer."

That explains only one phase of the problem. It does not explain why so many among the intellectuals in the most advanced countries, France, Italy, Germany, the United States, are prepared to ally themselves with the Communists and to make sacrifices for this movement, sacrifices sometimes of their lives. The answer, of course, is that before they became Marxists, they had revolted against God; that race and nationality have lost all meaning for them; whereas the Marxist "scientific" approach to the question, "What is man?" satisfies their need for a unified system.

But above all else, they seek a society without war, having been affected in their own lives by the consequences of two wars in one generation. They are prepared to give up religion, race and nationality for peace.

As over-simplified as this explanation must be, it is nevertheless true. It is the problem of our day. Up to now, the West has not met this problem philosophically and therefore has not met it at all. Giving money to governments does not lessen Marxist influence, because money is not at issue; nor is a high standard of living. What is at issue is the Communist claim to a world without war because it is without religion, race or nationality.

If co-existence means the acceptance of Russia under any conditions, is it necessary to permit the indoctrination of our people by Marxism?

The Wild Blue Yonder's Getting Crowded

Harriman Faces Possible Censure In New York State

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Now that it has become fashionable to try to "censure public men for their spoken or written words, the New York State Legislature, which is Republican in both houses, may have on its hands from the very outset of its next session a proposal to censure the new Democratic governor, Averell Harriman, for conduct unbecoming a candidate for public office.

This situation might arise out of the fact that Mr. Harriman wrote during his campaign a letter, hitherto unpublished, which contains a secret pledge that he gave to a group of representative of railroad labor unions concerning future legislation to be enacted if he were elected. In that same letter Mr. Harriman coincidentally solicited the votes of the railroad labor men.

Agreement Or Not?

The penal laws of the State of New York, like the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, forbid an agreement to supply votes in exchange for any promises of legislation, and the legal question posed would be whether there was or was not in the Harriman letter an actual agreement or promise given in return for the votes solicited. Here is the text of the letter itself:

"16 East 81st Street
"New York 28, New York
"October 29, 1954

"Dear Fellow Railroadman:

"As an old railroadman, it was a pleasure for me to breakfast with representatives of railroad labor in our state at my home on Thursday, October 21, 1954. It provided an opportunity to discuss problems of mutual interest and concern.

"As I stated at our meeting, I support the basic railroad labor laws of our state, including the full crew law. This law not only benefits the employes of the railroads, but the public as well from the standpoint of safety.

"In addition, we must strive to extend the coverage of our sanitation, health and safety laws to include employes of the railroad and express industry. I can assure you also that a bill to provide for the weekly payment of wages of railroadmen and express employes will not meet with a veto as it did in 1949.

"I believe the state government should give special attention and technical assistance to the problem of unemployment in our railroad communities, resulting from dieselization.

"I earnestly solicit your vote on Tuesday, November 2, 1954.

"Sincerely,
"AVERELL HARRIMAN"

Photostatic copies of the letter have been in the hands of various persons in the railroad world since the election.

The New York State penal laws provide that any person is guilty of a felony and "in addition forfeits any office to which he may have been elected" if he makes any "gift, loan, promise, offer, procurement or agreement . . . to procure the election of any person, etc."

Politically Indiscreet

Still another provision makes it a felony for any candidate who "gives, offers or promises any office, place, appointment or valuable thing as inducement for any voter or other person to procure or aid in procuring either a large or a small vote, plurality or majority at any election district or other political division of the state or a candidate or candidates to be voted for at an election . . ."

Some lawyers might say the letter presents a borderline case, but this correspondent believes that Mr. Harriman did not violate the law. For it can be persuasively argued that he did not make a specific agreement to obtain a particular group of votes in exchange for his promise of action on future New York State laws and that what he did was more in the nature of a general campaign statement which, as a candidate, he was entitled to make. One wonders, however, how persuasive with the labor groups this line of reasoning would have been if Mr. Harriman's letter had been written to some of his friends in railroad management and if the promise given had reference to legislative benefits that the railroads might expect if the candidate were elected.

The letter, of course, reveals the customs and practices of modern politics. Mr. Harriman can rightly contend that other candidates have done virtually the same thing without being criticized for it. It is, to be sure, somewhat unusual for a candidate to make a pledge to any group in secret and then write a letter about it for limited circulation. Persons of long political experience would say that Mr. Harriman was at least politically indiscreet in putting on paper such a promise. What the New York State Legislature may do with the matter, either by way of tightening up its penal laws or by way of "censure," is something else again.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

All the returns are in from the outlying Univacs and the elite are the elect.

When the shouting and the tumult had been tuned down below neighbor-annoyance the mechanical calibrater stuck to its geared estimates.

In spite of the numerous protests by defeated candidates Univac stood mute. It has no reverse processes.

It counted out the high, the low and the middle. Governors went into its hamburgering gullet. Its digestive juices dissolved senators. Its insatiate appetite for correct figures swamped congressmen and sent mayors to the slag-heap of the limbo foundry.

Fiorello La Guardia said he didn't make many mistakes. But when he did make one it was a pip. Univac is as accurate as Jack Horner's thumb.

Among the extraneous clinkers shaken down into Univac's grate was young Franklin Roosevelt. The good-looking politico jettisoned his congressional seat to go for broke on attorney-general of New York State.

Univac took a special transfusion of red ink for Franklin Junior. At midnight it looked like Franklin was in like the hay crop.

At dawn Univac coughed up the end figures and Franklin the Twice was out like yesterday's egg shells.

The papers said the kid broke down and cried. This is the first intimation we had that Franklin Two took politics seriously. We always thought he was in there for laughs like a putty nose.

German Businessmen Are Undermining U. S. Trade With Latin Americans

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — U. S. bankers have a lot more at stake in the Rio de Janerio Economic Conference than most of them realize. So does the American public.

This was one reason why Congressman Jim Fulton of Pittsburgh tangled with his fellow Republican, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, for coming to the Rio conference with "an empty brief case."

Congressman Fulton not only knew Latin-American temperament regarding the Eisenhower administration's loan policy, but he also knew that both the President's brother Milton and U. S. Ambassador Merwin Bohan had stepped off the U. S. delegation because they opposed Humphrey's tight-fisted point of view.

What U. S. bankers face in Rio is a plan for a purely inter-Latin American bank put forward by Arturo Maschke, president of the Central Bank of Chile. This bank would be composed only of Latin-American nations. The United States would be barred. However—and here is where U. S. bankers would get caught in the middle—the capital for this bank would be drawn from Latin-American deposits now in U. S. banks.

As of today, Latin Americans have a total of $1,800,000,000 on deposit in North American banks. And under the Maschke plan, they would withdraw this money from U. S. banks and put it in their own bank as collateral against development loans to underdeveloped Latin-American countries.

Any withdrawal of nearly two billions from American banks, especially if done suddenly after the Rio conference, might have a discombobulating effect upon the American banking system.

Europe Invades Latin America

Meanwhile, what the American public doesn't realize is that German businessmen are descending on Latin America in increasing numbers, offering long-term credit and cheap prices. Thus, while the U.S.A. spends money building up Germany, Germany is indirectly using that money to unbuild American trade in Latin America.

Today, Latin America buys more from the U.S.A. than all of Europe and Asia combined. Ranking next to Canada—our best customer—come Brazil, Cuba, Mexico, Venezuela, all buying more than England, France, Germany.

And while Latin delegates at Rio learn that the U.S.A. is considering a two- to three-billion development fund for Asia, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey discusses a prospective bank which would take a year to organize and which would loan Latin America $100,000,000 sometime in the future.

That's why Congressman Fulton criticized his fellow Republican, Secretary Humphrey, for coming to Rio with "an empty brief case."

Democratic Go-Round

Harry Truman is sending his friend, Bill Boyle, to New Orleans to turn thumbs down on Paul Butler of Indiana as new Democratic chairman. Frank McKinney, also of Indiana, is down on Butler, which is one reason why Truman, always loyal to his friends, is opposing him . . . . Harry still carries a hefty veto in the party . . . . Steve Mitchell says he's staying neutral in the chairmanship, but approached Al Wheeler, District of Columbia Central Committee chairman, to vote for Butler . . . . Estes Kefauver's friends at New Orleans will vote for Mike Di Salle, former price administrator, or Jiggs Donohue, former D. C. commissioner . . . . Many Southerners favor Congressman Hale Boggs of Louisiana, a good man. However, there's a general thumbs down against any part-time chairman. . . . Boggs is a Catholic and there's also a strong sentiment for continuing the tradition of a Catholic as Democratic chairman. Only exception to this might be Oscar Chapman, the much-loved former secretary of the interior, who, unfortunately, is in poor health . . . . Ever since Jim Farley in 1932 there's been an unbroken chain of Irishmen as Democratic chairmen—Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Bob Hannegan of St. Louis, Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, Bill Boyle of Kansas City, Frank McKinney of Indianapolis, Steve Mitchell of Chicago. The idea is that the Irish are the world's best politicians and many of the above were . . . . If Mike Di Salle, a Catholic of Italian descent, should be tapped, he would be the first Italian-American to hold the chairmanship and many favor recognizing the growing influence of Italian-Americans in U. S. politics. Di Salle was mayor of Toledo and ran against Senator Bricker of Ohio in 1952 . . . . If there's a deadlock at New Orleans, watch Jiggs Donohue, considered the best commissioner the District of Columbia ever had.

What's In A Name?

Republicans are almost holding their breath to see whether Democrats at New Orleans walk into a trap.

What they're hoping is that the Democrats will elect as their new national chairman James Finnegan, chairman of the Philadelphia City Council.

The Republicans haven't anything against Mr. Finnegan personally, politically, or any other way. But they do have some interesting data on another James Finnegan. And they know that the American public, which reads in a hurry, is sure to get them mixed up.

The other Finnegan is the former collector of internal revenue in St. Louis, who went to jail for taking pay from people in tax trouble. Most of the public have now forgotten his name. But what the Democrats don't know is that the name James Finnegan is going to pop into the headlines fairly soon as a result of a federal grand jury now meeting in Omaha which has been trying to ascertain who originally whitewashed the Finnegan case.

At first the St. Louis Finnegan was completely exonerated by friends inside the Treasury Department and, based upon this whitewash, President Truman accepted his resignation. After this, however, persevering Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware brought out such damaging facts on Finnegan that he was sent to jail.

Senator Williams has now been demanding that the Justice Department investigate and prosecute those responsible for the whitewash, and a grand jury in Omaha has elicited some dynamite-laden statements from Frank Lohn, former chief of tax intelligence in Kansas City, one of the men who probed the Finnegan case.

All this has nothing to do with the Philadelphia Finnegan—except the name, which, unfortunately for James Finnegan of Philadelphia, is identical with that of James Finnegan of St. Louis.

So by the time the Justice Department finishes re-airing the St. Louis Finnegan scandals, the public will be vividly reminded of the old income-tax probe. And it won't do the Democratic National Committee a bit of good—especially if the new chairman's name is Finnegan.

Reaching For The Moon

By Bob Considine

CLEVELAND — (INS) — More Americans were killed last year in Automobile accidents than were killed in the war that created the country and in the costly conflict in Korea. Most of them died in pitiable vain.

The toll amounted to 38,300 dead, plus 1,350,000 injured and damage estimated at about $4,000,000,000. Those figures would wipe certain sovereign nations off the face of the world.

Just as U.N. and other agencies seek ways and means of stopping wars, serious men and women are now about the business of finding ways to cut down on the tragedies of our traffic. To dramatize that crusade for traffic safety, they have designated December 15 of this year as "S-Day"—before which they are imploring U.S. motorists to obey the laws so implicitly that we will have a day without a death or an accident.

Asked To Sign Pledge

That's a form of reaching for the moon, of course. There were 10,000,000 traffic accidents in the country last year. But stranger goals have been reached by moon-reachers. If December 15 adds its dreary "normal" figures to the annual ledgers of death and terrible hurt, it will not be because a lot of good and sincere people have failed to try to stop the mainly senseless slaughter.

The actors in this far-flung safety drama—you, to be specific—are asked to sign a pledge which reads:

"I personally pledge myself to drive and walk safely and think in terms of safety.

"I pledge myself to work through my church, civic, business, and labor groups to carry out the official action program for traffic safety.

"I give this pledge in seriousness and earnestness, having considered fully my obligation to protect my life and the lives of my family and my fellow men."

President Eisenhower has given the crusade its proper perspective. At the White House conference on highway safety he said, "When any particular activity in the United States takes 38,000 American lives in one year, it becomes a national problem of first importance. It is one of those problems which by their nature have no easy solution.

"But in a democracy, public opinion is everything. It is the force that brings about enforcement of the laws; it is the force that keeps the United States in being, and it runs in all its parts. So, if we can mobilize public opinion, this problem, like all of those to which free men fall heir, can be solved."

Takes a heap of doing, and a lot of it is being provided by Charles F. McCahill's media group of the President's Action Committee. Mr. McCahill is senior vice president of the Forest City Publishing Company, which publishes the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Cleveland News.

Personal Statistics

All 48 states have designated "S-D Day" directors, who in turn have asked the blizzards of motorists in their areas to 1) observe the letter and the spirit of all traffic regulations; 2) be courteous to every driver and pedestrian—practice sportsmanship; 3) give full attention to driving and walking.

Philip G. Reed of General Electric has a good point:

"The basic problem ahead of us now is to make everyone realize that he and you are in the front line of this fight. The problem is to make everyone realize that these stunning statistics of death and injury are personal tragedies and personal crises to each person involved.

"(These figures) are friends, relatives, the neighbor next door, sacrificed in a needless destruction of life and property right here at home.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30 (INS) — Landon, Air Force bombardier during World War II, has been bought by Columbia as a 1955 follow-up to "From Here To Eternity," "Caine Mutiny" and "The Long Gray Line."

"Flame Out," a novel by Joe

As the title suggests, "Flame Out" refers to the jet pilots' greatest problem, the sudden extinction of the flame in his engine, and his fight to re-light it before his craft goes into a dive.

Jerry Wald, the executive producer, says there's an important role for a young player and an older player. Wouldn't surprise me if the elder one is Humphrey Bogart. Producers Arthur Gardner and Jules Levy have received a promise of cooperation from the U. S. Air Force.

The dancer-actor almost sure to star in "The Life Of Nijinsky" is not known to American movie audiences. Charles Vidor says, "I believe I have found the perfect man for the part in Babilee (that's his name), the star of the Paris ballet.

"Babilee is just 24 years old, and oddly enough, bears a striking resemblance to the late Nijinsky, the greatest dancer of all time."

All I know about Babilee is that he has danced with Leslie Caron in both Paris and London and is rated among the greats of the ballet world in Europe.

Deborah Kerr writes me that she will get to Los Angeles with "Tea And Sympathy" and she's so thrilled. So are we all.

She says that she and Tony Bartley had a wonderful time in Baltimore and that my friend Buckley Dietrich was so nice to both of them — taking them to the races and showing them Baltimore and the surrounding country.

She has now opened in Detroit and she tells me she's lunching with Anne and Henry Ford and some other friends of hers are giving Tony and Debbie a party on their ninth wedding anniversary.

Excitement a'plenty in London since commercial television has been approved by the government. Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon favor a three-year contract offered them by BBC, up to now the only TV company in England. But they're waiting for their business manager, Harry Foster, to return from the states before making their final decision.

Bebe and Ben tell me that they've almost worn out their print of the "This Is Your Life" show which starred Bebe. They run it for all their friends in London. Now, if London could get a show like Ralph Edwards' they'd really have something. In my opinion it's one of the best of the TV shows.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Theda Bara and her husband, Charles Brabin, who both have suffered critical illnesses, have shown a remarkable recovery and are feeling much better.

Jose Ferrer's daughter, Letty, will spend Christmas with Jose and Rosemary Clooney. She will have the company of a girl her own age in Rosemary's 11-year-old sister, Gail, who lives with the Ferrers.

Katy Jurado writes from Mexico City that she and Rubirosa had dinner together. But Katy says, "eet ees not a romance. We are just friends." Lucky Katy!

Jacques Sernas is waiting right here in America until he gets a work permit visa from the state department. Warners are talking a new deal with him.

George M. Cohan's granddaughter, Marianne, will carry on the tradition of her famous grandfather in show business and become a TV actress.

Patrons at a shop in Studio City took a double take when they saw Aldo Ray and his bride, Jeff Donnell, working there. They were merely helping their friend, the owner, Mrs. Herbert Anderson.

Piper Laurie, who has been suffering with a bad case of the flu, keeps a vaporizer in her dressing room all day so that she can stay on the job in "Third Girl From The Right."

Although Henry Fonda was in the Broadway show, "Point Of No Return," he has not committed himself to the film version as yet. Leland Hayward will wait to see what the film concept of the leading character will be.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30 (INS) — "Flame Out," a novel by Joe Landon, Air Force bombardier during World War II, has been bought by Columbia as a 1955 follow-up to "From Here To Eternity," "Caine Mutiny" and "The Long Gray Line."

As the title suggests, "Flame Out" refers to the jet pilots' greatest problem, the sudden extinction of the flame in his engine, and his fight to re-light it before his craft goes into a dive.

Jerry Wald, the executive producer, says there's an important role for a young player and an older player. Wouldn't surprise me if the elder one is Humphrey Bogart. Producers Arthur Gardner and Jules Levy have received a promise of cooperation from the U. S. Air Force.

The dancer-actor almost sure to star in "The Life Of Nijinsky" is not known to American movie audiences. Charles Vidor says, "I believe I have found the perfect man for the part in Babilee (that's his name), the star of the Paris ballet.

"Babilee is just 24 years old, and oddly enough, bears a striking resemblance to the late Nijinsky, the greatest dancer of all time."

All I know about Babilee is that he has danced with Leslie Caron in both Paris and London and is rated among the greats of the ballet world in Europe.

Basketball Clinic Attracts 460 Persons

"Bunny" Levitt Demonstrates Cage Techniques At Fort Hill

Foul Shooting Champ Speaks 1½ Hours; Movies Are Shown

BY GEORGE ESKIN

Approximately 460 area basketball fans, players, coaches, and officials gathered in the Fort Hill Gymnasium last evening to hear "Bunny" Levitt conduct a clinic on basketball rules and techniques.

Introduced by Arthur G. Ramey, Coordinator of Interscholastic Athletics in Allegany County, the gravel-voiced hoop expert proceeded to speak for one and one-half hours on fundamentals, including offensive and defensive styles of play, rules and new rule changes, and foul shooting. "Bunny" is considered the world champion of this latter technique.

Fort Hill Cagers Assist

Assisted by eight Fort Hill basketball players, Levitt began with the importance of passing, showing the youngsters various styles.

Following his passing exhibition, he moved into shooting, explaining the two-hand set, one-hand shots, and the steps to follow upon receiving the ball. He made it clear that all passing and most shooting was done completely with the wrists.

"Bunny" then showed better dribbling habits, and stated that the hardest game to play is when you do not have the ball. He said that nine of ten basketball players, including the professionals, cannot play without the ball. He then showed the change of pace and direction and told the crowd that a player must never go into the corner.

His defensive talk included the stance, and procedure to follow in guarding men of different heights and abilities. In rebounding, players were told to get inside the taller man by switching.

Running Contest Held

Many new rules and rules in unusual circumstances were discussed. Then "Bunny" held two running contests among the Fort Hill boys, Dorcil Kline, Ed Parsons, Dick Harbaugh, "Poochie" Lewis, Galen McGregor, Jim Raines, Buddy Clarke, and Harold Malone. Kline and Lewis were awarded prizes.

Levitt asked two questions of the members of the audience about rules; the first went unanswered, but a student in the stands knew the second, and won a book, "The Harlem Globetrotters."

In conclusion, Dorcil Kline shot fouls, and removed one article of clothing for every shot missed. Finally, taking off his pants, Dorcil displayed yellow trunks with red lettering on back, "THE END."

A movie, "The Basketball Highlights of 1954" followed, and included films of the final N.C.A.A. and N.I.T. games, the College All-Star contest, the All-Star Pro game, and many other outstanding features.

Throughout the clinic "Bunny" sprinkled humorous anecdotes among his pointers, filled with the praise and explanatory features about the play and ability of the top professional and collegiate players.

Following his visit to Cumberland, Levitt moves on to Hagerstown, Md., where he will give his clinic this evening.

Coaches In Attendance

Area coaches in attendance last night were Walter L. Bowers, Allegany High; John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fort Hill; Edward Finzel, Beall; John Meyers, Valley; John Thomas, Mt. Savage; Walter Crawford, Carver; George Easterday, Hancock; Jonathan Paugh, Moorefield; Chester Payne, Ridgeley; Kenneth Babcock, Frostburg State Teachers College; Quentin Sayers, Fort Ashby; and "Chris" Stoner, Hyndman.

The clinic was held under the joint sponsorship of the Allegany Board of Education and the Sporting Goods Department of the Wilson Hardware Company. Levitt appeared here through the courtesy of the Converse Rubber Company, Malden, Mass.

Beard Captains Big Six Eleven

Dickie Wins Ground Gaining Championship

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 30 (AP)—Dickie Beard, Virginia Tech's handy-andy halfback, today was named captain of the 1954 Virginia All-Big Six college football team which was dominated by the unbeaten but once-tied Gobblers from Blacksburg.

Beard, a 170-pound junior who became the Tech troubleshooter when three other Gobbler backfield regulars were injured in mid-October, gained the honor team captaincy by polling the most votes in balloting by Big Six coaches, sports writers and Associated Press staff writers.

The native of Cumberland, Md., won the Southern Conference ground gaining championship with 647 yards in 128 carries. He was second in total offense and led the Gobblers in scoring with 39 points—15 of them on points after touchdowns.

Dodgers Sign Becker, Ted Lyons Released

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(INS)—The Brooklyn Dodgers tonight announced the release of Coach Ted Lyons and the appointment of Joe Becker to succeed him.

Becker, former Cleveland Indians catcher and Jersey City and Toronto manager, will coach the pitchers and handle the bullpen.

Billy Herman and Jake Pitler were retained as coaches.

Tommy Holmes, who managed Elmira last year, was named to pilot Fort Worth and Clay Bryant, St. Paul leader in 1954, was switched to Mobile. The St. Paul and Elmira vacancies will be filled later.

Melvin, Park Place, Calvary Chalk Up 5th Straight Wins

Presbyterians, U.B., LaVale Lose Sunday School Loop Games

Three of the five undefeated teams in the YMCA Sunday School Basketball League—Melvin Methodist, Calvary Methodist and Park Place Methodist—chalked up their fifth victories of the season yesterday in games played on the "Y" court.

Sparked by DeWarren O'Neal and Jerry Hammond, who registered 17 and 10 points, Melvin Methodist took First Presbyterian into camp by the score of 41-17. It was the fourth loss in five starts for the Presbyterians. John Chappell and John Stallings scored seven points each for the losers.

Park Place handed United Brethren its fifth consecutive defeat to the tune of 44-21. Bob Bennett and Charley Martin with 12 and 11 tallies paced the victors while Harold Miller dumped in 10 to top U.B.

Calvary Methodist racked up 20 field goals to trim LaVale Methodist by the score of 48-23. Dave Baker was the "big gun" for Calvary with 19 points while Darius Brant and John Teter had 13 and 12 markers. Charles Swanger was high man for LaVale with 12 points.

Two league games are on tap for today at the "Y" court. Cresaptown plays Living Stone Church of the Brethren at 5 o'clock and LaVale Baptist faces Holy Cross Episcopal an hour later. Yesterday's lineups:

Cubs Sell Baumholtz To White Sox

By JACK HAND

HOUSTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Bargain-hunting minor leaguers found little talent in the draft pool today with realignment and trade gossip stealing the play at the baseball winter meetings.

The Chicago Cubs and White Sox pulled the first deal of the meetings when the Cubs sold outfielder Frankie Baumholtz to the White Sox for an amount "slightly in excess" of the waiver price of $10,000. The 36-year-old veteran who hit .297 in 90 games with the Cubs probably will be the No. 1 lefthanded pinch hitter with the Sox.

Reports of a sweeping Chicago-Washington trade involving such big names as Minnie Minoso, George Kell and Eddie Yost were denied by Frank Lane, White Sox general manager.

Brooklyn took time out from its minor league operations to announce Manager Walter Alston's coaching staff for the '55 season. Billy Herman and Jake Pitler will return from last year's staff and Joe Becker, who managed Charleston, W. Va. in the American Association, will be added. Clay Bryant, St. Paul manager last season, will boss Mobile in the Southern Association. The Dodgers were to talk trade later with the Phils, Cards and Reds.

Final details of the New York-Baltimore deal, scheduled to be released, were held up until tomorrow pending any delayed drafts by minor league clubs of the men involved.

Although no official announcement has been made, the three additional men to go to Baltimore, along with the six already announced for Bob Turley, Don Larsen and Billy Hunter, will be infielder Kal Segrist, pitcher Bill Miller and infielder Don Leppert.

"Bunny" Levitt Demonstrates Cage Techniques At Fort Hill

Foul Shooting Champ Speaks 1½ Hours; Movies Are Shown

BY GEORGE ESKIN

Approximately 460 area basketball fans, players, coaches, and officials gathered in the Fort Hill Gymnasium last evening to hear "Bunny" Levitt conduct a clinic on basketball rules and techniques.

Introduced by Arthur G. Ramey, Coordinator of Interscholastic Athletics in Allegany County, the gravel-voiced hoop expert proceeded to speak for one and one-half hours on fundamentals, including offensive and defensive styles of play, rules and new rule changes, and foul shooting. "Bunny" is considered the world champion of this latter technique.

Fort Hill Cagers Assist

Assisted by eight Fort Hill basketball players, Levitt began with the importance of passing, showing the youngsters various styles.

Following his passing exhibition, he moved into shooting, explaining the two-hand set, one-hand shots, and the steps to follow upon receiving the ball. He made it clear that all passing and most shooting was done completely with the wrists.

"Bunny" then showed better dribbling habits, and stated that the hardest game to play is when you do not have the ball. He said that nine of ten basketball players, including the professionals, cannot play without the ball. He then showed the change of pace and direction and told the crowd that a player must never go into the corner.

His defensive talk included the stance, and procedure to follow in guarding men of different heights and abilities. In rebounding, players were told to get inside the taller man by switching.

Running Contest Held

Many new rules and rules in unusual circumstances were discussed. Then "Bunny" held two running contests among the Fort Hill boys, Dorcil Kline, Ed Parsons, Dick Harbaugh, "Poochie" Lewis, Galen McGregor, Jim Raines, Buddy Clarke, and Harold Malone. Kline and Lewis were awarded prizes.

Levitt asked two questions of the members of the audience about rules; the first went unanswered, but a student in the stands knew the second, and won a book, "The Harlem Globetrotters."

In conclusion, Dorcil Kline shot fouls, and removed one article of clothing for every shot missed. Finally, taking off his pants, Dorcil displayed yellow trunks with red lettering on back, "THE END."

A movie, "The Basketball Highlights of 1954" followed, and included films of the final N.C.A.A. and N.I.T. games, the College All-Star contest, the All-Star Pro game, and many other outstanding features.

Throughout the clinic "Bunny" sprinkled humorous anecdotes among his pointers, filled with the praise and explanatory features about the play and ability of the top professional and collegiate players.

Following his visit to Cumberland, Levitt moves on to Hagerstown, Md., where he will give his clinic this evening.

Coaches In Attendance

Area coaches in attendance last night were Walter L. Bowers, Allegany High; John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Fort Hill; Edward Finzel, Beall; John Meyers, Valley; John Thomas, Mt. Savage; Walter Crawford, Carver; George Easterday, Hancock; Jonathan Paugh, Moorefield; Chester Payne, Ridgeley; Kenneth Babcock, Frostburg State Teachers College; Quentin Sayers, Fort Ashby; and "Chris" Stoner, Hyndman.

The clinic was held under the joint sponsorship of the Allegany Board of Education and the Sporting Goods Department of the Wilson Hardware Company. Levitt appeared here through the courtesy of the Converse Rubber Company, Malden, Mass.

Beard Captains Big Six Eleven

Dickie Wins Ground Gaining Championship

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 30 (AP)—Dickie Beard, Virginia Tech's handy-andy halfback, today was named captain of the 1954 Virginia All-Big Six college football team which was dominated by the unbeaten but once-tied Gobblers from Blacksburg.

Beard, a 170-pound junior who became the Tech troubleshooter when three other Gobbler backfield regulars were injured in mid-October, gained the honor team captaincy by polling the most votes in balloting by Big Six coaches, sports writers and Associated Press staff writers.

The native of Cumberland, Md., won the Southern Conference ground gaining championship with 647 yards in 128 carries. He was second in total offense and led the Gobblers in scoring with 39 points —15 of them on points after touchdowns.

Dodgers Sign Becker, Ted Lyons Released

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(INS)—The Brooklyn Dodgers tonight announced the release of Coach Ted Lyons and the appointment of Joe Becker to succeed him.

Becker, former Cleveland Indians catcher and Jersey City and Toronto manager, will coach the pitchers and handle the bullpen.

Billy Herman and Jake Pitler were retained as coaches.

Tommy Holmes, who managed Elmira last year, was named to pilot Fort Worth and Clay Bryant, St. Paul leader in 1954, was switched to Mobile. The St. Paul and Elmira vacancies will be filled later.

Melvin, Park Place, Calvary Chalk Up 5th Straight Wins

Presbyterians, U.B., LaVale Lose Sunday School Loop Games

Three of the five undefeated teams in the YMCA Sunday School Basketball League—Melvin Methodist, Calvary Methodist and Park Place Methodist—chalked up their fifth victories of the season yesterday in games played on the "Y" court.

Sparked by DeWarren O'Neal and Jerry Hammond, who registered 17 and 10 points, Melvin Methodist took First Presbyterian into camp by the score of 41-17. It was the fourth loss in five starts for the Presbyterians. John Chappell and John Stallings scored seven points each for the losers.

Park Place handed United Brethren its fifth consecutive defeat to the tune of 44-21. Bob Bennett and Charley Martin with 12 and 11 tallies paced the victors while Harold Miller dumped in 10 to top U.B.

Calvary Methodist racked up 20 field goals to trim LaVale Methodist by the score of 48-23. Dave Baker was the "big gun" for Calvary with 19 points while Darius Brant and John Teter had 13 and 12 markers. Charles Swanger was high man for LaVale with 12 points.

Two league games are on tap for today at the "Y" court. Cresaptown plays Living Stone Church of the Brethren at 5 o'clock and LaVale Baptist faces Holy Cross Episcopal an hour later. Yesterday's lineups:

Cubs Sell Baumholtz To White Sox

By JACK HAND

HOUSTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Bargain-hunting minor leaguers found little talent in the draft pool today with realignment and trade gossip stealing the play at the baseball winter meetings.

The Chicago Cubs and White Sox pulled the first deal of the meetings when the Cubs sold outfielder Frankie Baumholtz to the White Sox for an amount "slightly in excess" of the waiver price of $10,000. The 36-year-old veteran who hit .297 in 90 games with the Cubs probably will be the No. 1 lefthanded pinch hitter with the Sox.

Reports of a sweeping Chicago-Washington trade involving such big names as Minnie Minoso, George Kell and Eddie Yost were denied by Frank Lane, White Sox general manager.

Brooklyn took time out from its minor league operations to announce Manager Walter Alston's coaching staff for the '55 season. Billy Herman and Jake Pitler will return from last year's staff and Joe Becker, who managed Charleston, W. Va. in the American Association, will be added. Clay Bryant, St. Paul manager last season, will boss Mobile in the Southern Association. The Dodgers were to talk trade later with the Phils, Cards and Reds.

Final details of the New York-Baltimore deal, scheduled to be released, were held up until tomorrow pending any delayed drafts by minor league clubs of the men involved.

Although no official announcement has been made, the three additional men to go to Baltimore, along with the six already announced for Bob Turley, Don Larsen and Billy Hunter, will be infielder Kal Segrist, pitcher Bill Miller and infielder Don Leppert.

The Yanks or their farms reportedly will get pitchers Mike Blyzka and Lou Kretlow, first baseman Dick Kryhoski, outfielder Jim Fridley, catcher Darrell Johnson and farm hand Ted Del Guercio from Wichita.

The nickname of the scarlet tanger is "Robin with a sore throat" because of its hoarse caroling.

Five Area Teams Will Open Basketball Season Tonight

Potomac State And Frostburg Play On Road

Cats Invade Altoona, Bobcats At Shepherd, Piedmont Hosts Elks

Three college teams and two high school quints of the tri-state area swing into action tonight in the opening games of the 1954-55 basketball season.

Potomac State College, of Keyser, Frostburg State Teachers College and Shepherd's Rams are the collegiate aggregations slated for action. The high school game will feature the Piedmont High Lions and the Elk Garden Elks.

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts invade Altoona, Pa., to do battle with the Altoona Center quint of Penn State College at the Altoona YMCA. Potomac State did not play the Keystone Staters last season but Coach Steve Adler's Altoona aggregation split a pair of games with the Frostburg Teachers.

Deahl, Kane On Squad

Potomac State's lone returning letterman is Eugene Becker, former Keyser High player. Among the newcomers on the State squad are Marion Deahl, of Moorefield, top scorers in the 1953-54 race; Charley "Chuck" Felton, former Rowlesburg High star; Paul "Doc" Kane, former scoring ace at Howard High School, Piedmont; and Glenn Smith, a product of Piedmont High's topnotch quints of the past several seasons. There is also Fred Irwin, Elkins High satellite, and a flock of others on the Potomac State roster who will be heard from this season. Potomac is listed to play 25 contests and will make its home debut with Westinghouse Apprentice of Pittsburgh on Thursday. Frostburg Teachers College will be met at Keyser Saturday night.

Coach Kenneth Babcock's Frostburg Teachers also open the season on the road tonight, meeting Don Fuoss' Shepherd College Rams at Shepherdstown.

Bob Kirk Heads Cast

The Bobcats player cast will be headed by Bob Kirk, ex-Bartonite, who hung up a school scoring record last season even though the Teachers won only six out of 20 contests. Among the other players on the squad are Dave Marple, Bruce High grad, who led the W.M.I. League scorers last year; George McGregor, a product of Fort Hill High School; Hugh Nolan, LaSalle Explorers' star and Mike Nofsinger, Bobby Wilson and Jim Cave, who starred for Augie Eichhorn's teams at Bruce High in recent seasons.

Frostburg has booked 21 games and opens its home season with Westinghouse Apprentice on Friday night.

Shepherd will swing into action with a veteran team, headed by John Poling, ex-Fort Hillian, and Roger Maphis, former Romney High luminary. Seven regulars are back in the fold at Shepherd for the coming campaign.

Piedmont Hosts Elks

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Piedmont Lions and Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden High Elks will launch the Potomac Valley Conference campaign tonight in Piedmont. The Lions won the P.V.C. title in a walk last season, posting a 14-0 record. This is also a Mineral County League game and Piedmont copped that title last season with eight wins and no losses. Piedmont went to the Class B state finals last year, losing out to Pax, 63-54. The Lions wound up the season with 26 wins, three losses. Capt. Bobby Niland, the team's high point man, is the only starter returning from last season. He has scored 595 points for Piedmont in the last two seasons.

Elk Garden, winner of 4 out of 22 games last season, lost its first five through graduation and will start from scratch tonight.

The suspension also applied to Robinson's manager, George Gainsford.

Robinson, who fought a six-round exhibition at Hamilton, Ont., last night, had discussed a Dec. 8 fight against Joe Rindone of Boston. Detroit matchmaker Nick Londes said he had received approval from Robinson and his camp for the fight, but Robinson subsequently said he had not signed.

Baylor Chosen To Play Auburn In Gator Bowl

Jacksonville Tilt Is Set For Dec. 31

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP)—Auburn and Baylor will meet in the Gator Bowl football game here Dec. 31.

The playing date was changed this spring from New Year's Day so as not to conflict with television broadcasts of other big games on Jan. 1. The game will be played on a Saturday the next two years. No TV arrangements have been made yet but Mutual will carry the game on radio.

The Gator Bowl Committee made the announcement after conferring with officials of Auburn and Baylor by telephone.

It is the first time for a Southwest Conference team in the Gator Bowl. Auburn played last year and lost to Texas Tech 35-13.

Both teams have 7-3 records for this season.

The final Associated Press poll rated Auburn No. 13 and Baylor No. 18.

Auburn dropped three of its first four games and then won the last six.

Potomac State's lone returning letterman is Eugene Becker, former Keyser High player. Among the newcomers on the State squad are Marion Deahl, of Moorefield, top scorers in the 1953-54 race; Charley "Chuck" Felton, former Rowlesburg High star; Paul "Doc" Kane, former scoring ace at Howard High School, Piedmont; and Glenn Smith, a product of Piedmont High's topnotch quints of the past several seasons. There is also Fred Irwin, Elkins High satellite, and a flock of others on the Potomac State roster who will be heard from this season. Potomac is listed to play 25 contests and will make its home debut with Westinghouse Apprentice of Pittsburgh on Thursday. Frostburg Teachers College will be met at Keyser Saturday night.

Among the other players on the squad are Dave Marple, Bruce High grad, who led the W.M.I. League scorers last year; George McGregor, a product of Fort Hill High School; Hugh Nolan, LaSalle Explorers' star and Mike Nofsinger, Bobby Wilson and Jim Cave, who starred for Augie Eichhorn's teams at Bruce High in recent seasons.

The award will be presented at a dinner here Dec. 9.

Michigan Suspends "Sugar" Robinson

The suspension also applied to Robinson's manager, George Gainsford.

Robinson, who fought a six-round exhibition at Hamilton, Ont., last night, had discussed a Dec. 8 fight against Joe Rindone of Boston. Detroit matchmaker Nick Londes said he had received approval from Robinson and his camp for the fight, but Robinson subsequently said he had not signed.

Seixas Whips Rose, Goes To Semi-Finals

MELBOURNE, Nov. 30 (INS)—Vic Seixas emerged Tuesday as the lone remaining U. S. threat in the Victorian tennis Championship.

Seixas, 31-year-old American national champion and No. 2 gun on uncle Sam's Davis cup team, reached the semi-finals by testing Australian national champ Mervyn Rose, 6-3, 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4, in a quarter final test.

Tony Trabert, expected to be the No. 1 singles man in the U. S. Davis Cup bid and team member Ham Richardson were eliminated in the quarters. Aussie Davis cupper Rex Hartwig ousted Trabert, 6-3, 6-3, 8-6.

Aussie cup whiz Ken Rosewall put out Richardson, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Baylor Chosen To Play Auburn In Gator Bowl

Jacksonville Tilt Is Set For Dec. 31

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP)—Auburn and Baylor will meet in the Gator Bowl football game here Dec. 31.

The playing date was changed this spring from New Year's Day so as not to conflict with television broadcasts of other big games on Jan. 1. The game will be played on a Saturday the next two years. No TV arrangements have been made yet but Mutual will carry the game on radio.

The Gator Bowl Committee made the announcement after conferring with officials of Auburn and Baylor by telephone.

It is the first time for a Southwest Conference team in the Gator Bowl. Auburn played last year and lost to Texas Tech 35-13.

Both teams have 7-3 records for this season.

The final Associated Press poll rated Auburn No. 13 and Baylor No. 18.

Auburn dropped three of its first four games and then won the last six.

Auburn has in Jim Pyburn a great offensive and defensive end, fifth in the nation in pass receiving, having caught 27 for 448 yards and four touchdowns.

Cleveland's Rocky Castellani, who tried unsuccessfully to lift Bobo Olson's middleweight title, goes against Moses Ward of Detroit in a 10-round 160-pound bout.

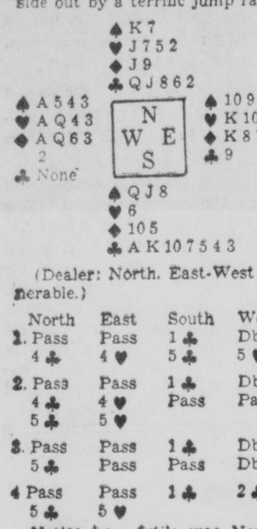
FORESTALL A SHUTOUT

KEEN carpenters will sometimes use their specialized tools for a purpose somewhat different from the usual. That is the case with an immediate bid of the opponents' suit, when your hand is not really strong enough to make a guarantee of enough power to justify your side reaching a game contract, even though your partner's hand be blank. It may be so strong, however, in all of the non-bid suits, that you take a risk in order to keep the partner of the first bidder from shutting your side out by a terrific jump raise.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

4 Pass	Pass	1 ♣	2 ♣
5 ♣	5 ♥

Notice how futile was North's effort to shut the vulnerable opponents out of a game at the first two tables, where a jump to only four was made over the double. Also see how successful was North's pre-emptive raise all the way to 5-Clubs at Table 3. Now note how West prevented any such shutout from working at Table 4, where instead of a take-out double a bid of the opponents' suit was made. East, knowing then about his partner's fine situation from the most powerful bid possible, 2-Clubs, bid 5-Hearts because his hand was far from worthless after that call.

As it happens, 5-Hearts cannot be stopped, as no tricks are lost except two in spades. The other side can make a profit by playing at 5-Clubs if it gets a chance to. Doubled, that gets set only two tricks for 300 points, much less than the cost of a vulnerable game. Why didn't somebody sacrifice against 5-Hearts at 6-Clubs? Nobody did.

Unusual Stories

General Electric Theater, which you'll find on CBS-TV 9 p. m. EST Sundays, is, for a half hour dramatic show, a very ambitions enterprise with a steep budget and many imposing Hollywood names. Of course, high budgets and film stars are a dime a dozen on television this year but GE Theater has also strained hard to achieve a degree of literacy in its scripts, which is fairly unusual.

The series has not always managed it, but the score has been pretty high and I don't hesitate to recommend it. There will be thirty-five different dramas in the series, twenty-two of them live—some of them originating in New York, others in Hollywood—and thirteen filmed in Hollywood. In other words, we'll get a nice mixture of Hollywood live techniques, Hollywood film techniques and New York live techniques—all of which are markedly different.

As a topnotch example of the Hollywood film technique, GE last week offered Jack Benny in a very amusing play called "The Face Is Familiar." In this one, Benny played the part of a waiter whose face is so extraordinarily ordinary that no one can remember him. A manicurist he'd once taken to the movies doesn't recall him at all.

"You remember?" says Benny. "We saw Gregory Peck."

"I remember Gregory Peck," she says.

Some mobsters decide to put the wonderfully anonymous face to use and employ him as an innocent stooge in robbing a bank. When he tries to proclaim his guilt, no one remembers him—neither the bank teller he robbed, nor the bank guard who let him in, nor anyone. Later the three robbers are arrested and are pressed for the name of the fourth accomplice. But they've forgotten his name and haven't the foggiest recollection of his face.

It's a funny idea, especially with Benny in it, and it was a good illustration of both the strong and weak points of Hollywood film. For one thing, Hollywood makeup men are good, perhaps a little too good. Benny looked about twenty-six and I prefer the plain, unretouched Benny. For another, Benny, a master of timing, needs an audience to play on. Still, it was a darned good half hour drama, expertly filmed.

Another one, quite a while ago, was "High Green Wall," a dramatization of the tail end of Evelyn Waugh's "Handful of Dust." It's the story of a man who is trapped in the middle of the jungle by an illiterate half caste who likes to have the works of Charles Dickens read to him. The trapped man, played by Joseph Cotton, is forced to read clear through the outpourings of Dickens, is foiled in a try at escape, and in the end faces the realization that he must spend the rest of his life reading and re-reading Dickens—a fate far more horrible than death. This is literary irony of a very high order but I'm not very sure it was good television. Still I'm happy they tried it. Off beat TV dramas, even when they're not altogether successful, stick in your mind a lot longer than the slick formula articles.

Not all of the GE series have been that successful. One drama, "The Long Way Round" starring Ronald Reagan, was about a man who just got out of a mental institution. The over-solicitude of his wife almost drives him right back to it. It was a grim, humorless story, sort of "The Shrike" with the talons removed. Within its strict confines, it was pretty well acted and very well filmed. But why, I kept asking myself, so much bother over that bit of deadly dullness?

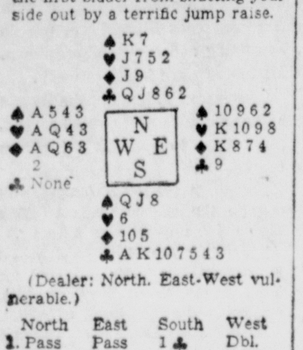
Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

FORESTALL A SHUTOUT

KEEN carpenters will sometimes use their specialized tools for a purpose somewhat different from the usual. That is the case with an immediate bid of the opponents' suit, when your hand is not really strong enough to make a guarantee of enough power to justify your side reaching a game contract, even though your partner's hand be blank. It may be so strong, however, in all of the non-bid suits, that you take a risk in order to keep the partner of the first bidder from shutting your side out by a terrific jump raise.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1. Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Dbl.
4 ♣	4 ♥	5 ♣	5 ♥
2. Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Dbl.
4 ♣	4 ♥	Pass	Pass
5 ♣	5 ♥
3. Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Dbl.
5 ♣	Pass	Pass	Dbl.
4 Pass	Pass	1 ♣	2 ♣
5 ♣	5 ♥

Notice how futile was North's effort to shut the vulnerable opponents out of a game at the first two tables, where a jump to only four was made over the double. Also see how successful was North's pre-emptive raise all the way to 5-Clubs at Table 3. Now note how West prevented any such shutout from working at Table 4, where instead of a take-out double a bid of the opponents' suit was made. East, knowing then about his partner's fine situation from the most powerful bid possible, 2-Clubs, bid 5-Hearts because his hand was far from worthless after that call.

As it happens, 5-Hearts cannot be stopped, as no tricks are lost except two in spades. The other side can make a profit by playing at 5-Clubs if it gets a chance to. Doubled, that gets set only two tricks for 300 points, much less than the cost of a vulnerable game. Why didn't somebody sacrifice against 5-Hearts at 6-Clubs? Nobody did.

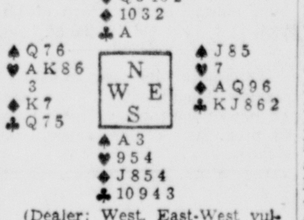
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

Unusual Stories

General Electric Theater, which you'll find on CBS-TV 9 p. m. EST Sundays, is, for a half hour dramatic show, a very ambitions enterprise with a steep budget and many imposing Hollywood names. Of course, high budgets and film stars are a dime a dozen on television this year but GE Theater has also strained hard to achieve a degree of literacy in its scripts, which is fairly unusual.

The series has not always managed it, but the score has been pretty high and I don't hesitate to recommend it. There will be thirty-five different dramas in the series, twenty-two of them live—some of them originating in New York, others in Hollywood—and thirteen filmed in Hollywood. In other words, we'll get a nice mixture of Hollywood live techniques, Hollywood film techniques and New York live techniques—all of which are markedly different.

As a topnotch example of the Hollywood film technique, GE last week offered Jack Benny in a very amusing play called "The Face Is Familiar." In this one, Benny played the part of a waiter whose face is so extraordinarily ordinary that no one can remember him. A manicurist he'd once taken to the movies doesn't recall him at all.

"You remember?" says Benny. "We saw Gregory Peck."

"I remember Gregory Peck," she says.

Some mobsters decide to put the wonderfully anonymous face to use and employ him as an innocent stooge in robbing a bank. When he tries to proclaim his guilt, no one remembers him—neither the bank teller he robbed, nor the bank guard who let him in, nor anyone. Later the three robbers are arrested and are pressed for the name of the fourth accomplice. But they've forgotten his name and haven't the foggiest recollection of his face.

It's a funny idea, especially with Benny in it, and it was a good illustration of both the strong and weak points of Hollywood film. For one thing, Hollywood makeup men are good, perhaps a little too good. Benny looked about twenty-six and I prefer the plain, unretouched Benny. For another, Benny, a master of timing, needs an audience to play on. Still, it was a darned good half hour drama, expertly filmed.

Another one, quite a while ago, was "High Green Wall," a dramatization of the tail end of Evelyn Waugh's "Handful of Dust." It's the story of a man who is trapped in the middle of the jungle by an illiterate half caste who likes to have the works of Charles Dickens read to him. The trapped man, played by Joseph Cotton, is forced to read clear through the outpourings of Dickens, is foiled in a try at escape, and in the end faces the realization that he must spend the rest of his life reading and re-reading Dickens—a fate far more horrible than death. This is literary irony of a very high order but I'm not very sure it was good television. Still I'm happy they tried it. Off beat TV dramas, even when they're not altogether successful, stick in your mind a lot longer than the slick formula articles.

Not all of the GE series have been that successful. One drama, "The Long Way Round" starring Ronald Reagan, was about a man who just got out of a mental institution. The over-solicitude of his wife almost drives him right back to it. It was a grim, humorless story, sort of "The Shrike" with the talons removed. Within its strict confines, it was pretty well acted and very well filmed. But why, I kept asking myself, so much bother over that bit of deadly dullness?

WIFE PRESERVERS

When you are hanging your laundry outdoors in a brisk wind, and have both hands full, try slipping the clothespins into your belt. You will then be able to hold the clothes in one hand, while the other is free to pull out and fasten the clothespins.

Intense Selling Hammers Back Stock Market Prices

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP) — The Stock Market ran into intense selling just before the close today, and prices were hammered back abruptly.

This is the fourth time the Stock Market had tripped into a reaction since the explosive bull market boom started after the national elections four weeks ago.

Railroads lagged from the start, and the final selling seemed concentrated in that group. Also lower were steels, oils, coppers, chemicals, rubbers, radio-televisions, electrical equipments, building materials, distillers, and utilities.

Aircrafts were ahead, and motors held higher with the exception of General Motors which lost 1⅛.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 90 cents at $147.20. Yesterday it gained 60 cents and stood at a level equal to Oct. 10, 1929.

The industrial component of the average today fell 80 cents, rails were off $1.50, and utilities declined 30 cents.

The list was composed of 1,253 individual issues traded of which 385 advanced and 626 declined.

Alleghany Corp. was the day's most active issue unchanged at 6 on 89,200 shares. It topped the most active list yesterday as well, up ½.

It was followed by New York Central off ¼ at 25⅝, Boeing up 1¾ at 64¾, Studebaker-Packard up ⅞ at 12¾, and American Motors up ½ at 10⅝.

Zenith Radio was hit hard by selling and lost 8 points at 863¾ after directors declared the usual dividend.

Firestone gained 2¼ at 102¼, and after the close directors proposed a two-for-one stock split and an increased dividend.

Among stocks losing ground were Royal Dutch Petroleum off 2⅝, Texas Gulf Producing 2¼, Alleghany Ludlum Steel 2¼, U.S. Steel ⅝, Goodrich 1, Caterpillar Tractor 2, Admiral Corp. 1⅜, American Telephone ⅛, Kennecott Copper 1, Union Carbide 1, Standard Oil (NJ) 1, Gulf Oil 1¼, Pan American World Airways ¼, and U.S. Gypsum 5.

Among stocks resisting the lower trend were Douglas Aircraft up ⅝, Northrop 1, Chrysler ⅞, American Hawaiian Steamship 3¾, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal 4, Commonwealth Edison ½, American Tobacco ½ and Chesapeake & Ohio ¼.

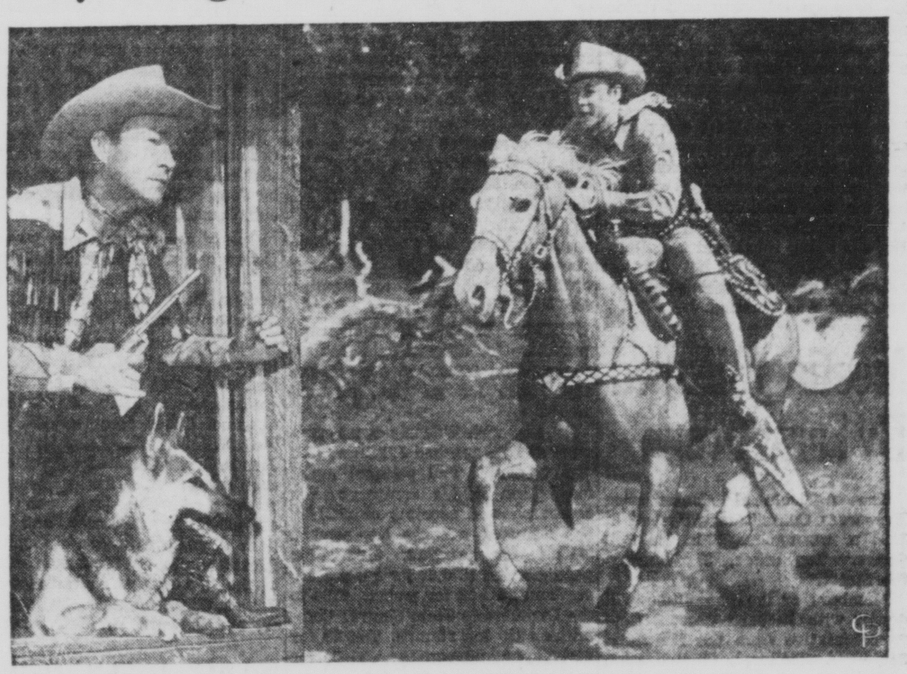
Good News for Many a Moppet; Roy Rogers to Make New Movies



Roy Rogers and Bullet stand guard for law and order (left). Rogers, astride the faithful Trigger (right), sets out in hot pursuit of a bunch of bad guys.

By FRED HIFT
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—The band in Madison Square Garden struck up a lively tune and the darkened house tensed in expectation. Then, as thousands of young voices roared out a delighted welcome, a silvery beam of light picked up the cowboy in his glittering costume, slowly riding into the arena.

Roy Rogers and Trigger, the two old faithfuls of innumerable western adventures in the movies and on television, were once again working the kind of magic that has kept them riding high despite the youthful fans' current preoccupation with interplanetary space travel.

Although movie houses are playing his films as they always have since he battled and sang himself into western fame back in the late 1930s, Roy actually hasn't made any theatrical pictures for three years. In part this was the result of his falling out with his home studio over their right to release his films to television without his permission. (The United States Supreme Court recently ruled in favor of the studio on that issue.)

IN HIS dressing room at the Garden here, Rogers recently showed this correspondent a stack of letters from all over the country and from abroad, asking him to start making new movies. "Dear Roy," read one in a child's labored scrawl, "I have seen Trail of Robinhood three times now and I would like very much to see you again in something else. Please send our theater one of your new movies."

Since the demand is obviously there, the "King of the Cowboys" has decided to start his own production unit and to make two films a year for the theaters. They'll follow the same successful formula of the Rogers westerns of years gone by, but something new will be added: Color and the wide-screen treatment.

Just how the Rogers family—Roy, Dale Evans, their five kids and Trigger—will be able to fit in this new activity is a puzzle, but they are willing to give it a try. Roy and Dale already are one of the busiest couples in the United States today.

They make some 65 TV films a year. Then there are the many time-consuming personal appearance tours. Roy has his fingers in so many pies, he barely remembers them all. There is his radio show, too, of course.

ROGERS' records and western sheet music are big sellers. His merchandising tieups run to something like $34 million a year. In addition, there are charity shows and many other activities, such as his safety awards program. Then there is his very popular comic strip that is syndicated to more than 200 newspapers throughout the world.

Although he is obviously a very wealthy man, Roy's success has never gone to his head. Like Dale, he is deeply religious, and this expresses itself in their family life. The Rogers' home is a nine-acre farm including a 12-room house and several guest houses. Whenever the working schedule allows, Roy and Dale spend their evenings at home and have dinner with their children—three girls and two boys.

Roy's mail runs to anywhere from 10,000 to 20,000 letters a week, an increasing number of them coming from abroad. In London there is a Roy Rogers Fan club numbering 50,000 in membership. Similar clubs are springing up in such far-away places as Indian, Japan and South Africa.

Unlike some other movie cowboys, Roy is the outdoor-action type in real life, too. He likes hunting and fishing and is mighty handy with a gun. Of late he has taken up golf and speedboat racing.

ROY LIKES to work with his hands and recently made a new cabinet for his fine gun collection which includes a long-barreled rifle once owned by Daniel Boone and one of Davy Crockett's pistols.

Roy was born Leonard Slye on a farm in Ohio and as a youngster idolized such early screen cowboys as Hoot Gibson and Buck Jones. Eventually he headed for Hollywood, but the movie pickings were mighty slim and he had to do farm work to keep body and soul together. His big break came when Sol Siegel, a Hollywood producer, became impressed by the guitar-strumming cowboy. Roy bought Trigger, a palomino horse, and together they made their first picture, Under Western Stars.

Despite some powerful competition, Roy and Trigger still are one of the screen's most popular teams. Actually, Trigger is being gradually retired and Rogers is increasingly relying on Trigger, Jr.

The Trigger trappings, using 136 ounces of gold, 1,400 ounces of silver and 1,500 rubies, are insured for $50,000. On the road, the horses travel in an elegantly-styled truck and trailer.

Roy's new companion on movie and TV screens is Bullet, a remarkably intelligent German shepherd. The dog was trained by Roy himself and the two are virtually inseparable.

Intense Selling Hammers Back Stock Market Prices

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP) — The Stock Market ran into intense selling just before the close today, and prices were hammered back abruptly.

This is the fourth time the Stock Market had tripped into a reaction since the explosive bull market boom started after the national elections four weeks ago.

Railroads lagged from the start, and the final selling seemed concentrated in that group. Also lower were steels, oils, coppers, chemicals, rubbers, radio-televisions, electrical equipments, building materials, distillers, and utilities.

Aircrafts were ahead, and motors held higher with the exception of General Motors which lost 1⅛.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 90 cents at $147.20. Yesterday it gained 60 cents and stood at a level equal to Oct. 10, 1929.

The industrial component of the average today fell 80 cents, rails were off $1.50, and utilities declined 30 cents.

The list was composed of 1,253 individual issues traded of which 385 advanced and 626 declined.

Alleghany Corp. was the day's most active issue unchanged at 6 on 89,200 shares. It topped the most active list yesterday as well, up ½.

It was followed by New York Central off ¼ at 25⅝, Boeing up 1¾ at 64¾, Studebaker-Packard up ⅞ at 12¾, and American Motors up ½ at 10⅝.

Zenith Radio was hit hard by selling and lost 8 points at 863/4 after directors declared the usual dividend.

Firestone gained 2¼ at 102¼, and after the close directors proposed a two-for-one stock split and an increased dividend.

Among stocks losing ground were Royal Dutch Petroleum off 2⅝, Texas Gulf Producing 2¼, Alleghany Ludlum Steel 2¼, U.S. Steel ⅝, Goodrich 1, Caterpillar Tractor 2, Admiral Corp. 1⅜, American Telephone ⅛, Kennecott Copper 1, Union Carbide 1, Standard Oil (NJ) 1, Gulf Oil 1¼, Pan American World Airways ¼, and U.S. Gypsum 5.

Among stocks resisting the lower trend were Douglas Aircraft up ⅝, Northrop 1, Chrysler ⅞, American Hawaiian Steamship 3¾, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal 4, Commonwealth Edison ½, American Tobacco ½ and Chesapeake & Ohio ¼.

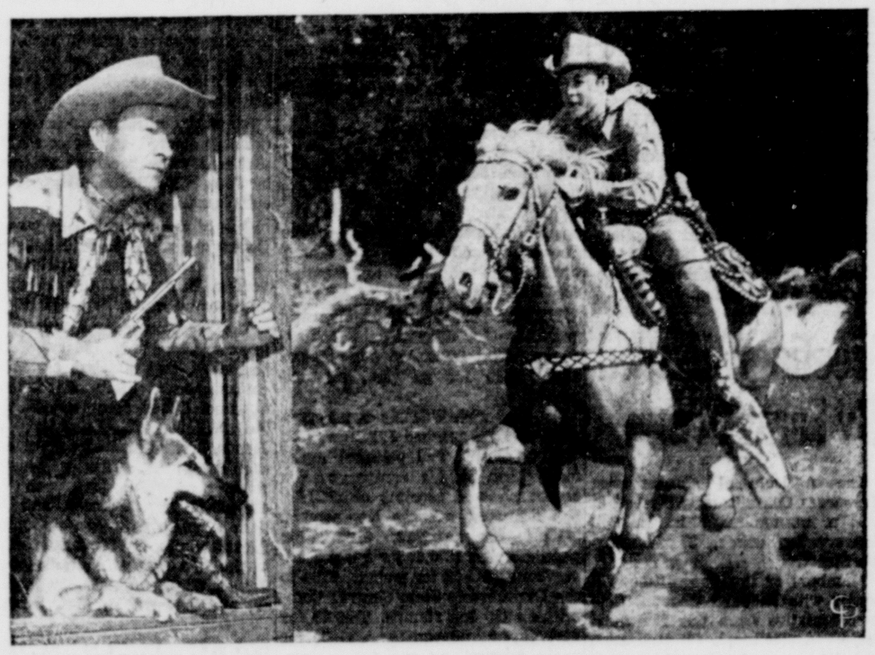
Good News for Many a Moppet; Roy Rogers to Make New Movies



Roy Rogers and Bullet stand guard for law and order (left). Rogers, astride the faithful Trigger (right), sets out in hot pursuit of a bunch of bad guys.

By FRED HIFT
Central Press Correspondent

NEW YORK—The band in Madison Square Garden struck up a lively tune and the darkened house tensed in expectation. Then, as thousands of young voices roared out a delighted welcome, a silvery beam of light picked up the cowboy in his glittering costume, slowly riding into the arena.

Roy Rogers and Trigger, the two old faithfuls of innumerable western adventures in the movies and on television, were once again working the kind of magic that has kept them riding high despite the youthful fans' current preoccupation with interplanetary space travel.

Although movie houses are playing his films as they always have since he battled and sang himself into western fame back in the late 1930s, Roy actually hasn't made any theatrical pictures for three years. In part this was the result of his falling out with his home studio over their right to release his films to television without his permission. (The United States Supreme Court recently ruled in favor of the studio on that issue.)

IN HIS dressing room at the Garden here, Rogers recently showed this correspondent a stack of letters from all over the country and from abroad, asking him to start making new movies. "Dear Roy," read one in a child's labored scrawl, "I have seen Trail of Robinhood three times now and I would like very much to see you again in something else. Please send our theater one of your new movies."

Since the demand is obviously there, the "King of the Cowboys" has decided to start his own production unit and to make two films a year for the theaters. They'll follow the same successful formula of the Rogers westerns of years gone by, but something new will be added: Color and the wide-screen treatment.

Just how the Rogers family—Roy, Dale Evans, their five kids and Trigger—will be able to fit in this new activity is a puzzle, but they are willing to give it a try. Roy and Dale already are one of the busiest couples in the United States today.

They make some 65 TV films a year. Then there are the many time-consuming personal appearance tours. Roy has his fingers in so many pies, he barely remembers them all. There is his radio show, too, of course.

ROGERS' records and western sheet music are big sellers. His merchandising tieups run to something like $34 million a year. In addition, there are charity shows and many other activities, such as his safety awards program. Then there is his very popular comic strip that is syndicated to more than 200 newspapers throughout the world.

Although he is obviously a very wealthy man, Roy's success has never gone to his head. Like Dale, he is deeply religious, and this expresses itself in their family life. The Rogers' home is a nine-acre farm including a 12-room house and several guest houses. Whenever the working schedule allows, Roy and Dale spend their evenings at home and have dinner with their children—three girls and two boys.

Roy's mail runs to anywhere from 10,000 to 20,000 letters a week, an increasing number of them coming from abroad. In London there is a Roy Rogers Fan club numbering 50,000 in membership. Similar clubs are springing up in such far-away places as Indian, Japan and South Africa.

Unlike some other movie cowboys, Roy is the outdoor-action type in real life, too. He likes hunting and fishing and is mighty handy with a gun. Of late he has taken up golf and speedboat racing.

ROY LIKES to work with his hands and recently made a new cabinet for his fine gun collection which includes a long-barreled rifle once owned by Daniel Boone and one of Davy Crockett's pistols.

Roy was born Leonard Slye on a farm in Ohio and as a youngster idolized such early screen cowboys as Hoot Gibson and Buck Jones. Eventually he headed for Hollywood, but the movie pickings were mighty slim and he had to do farm work to keep body and soul together. His big break came when Sol Siegel, a Hollywood producer, became impressed by the guitar-strumming cowboy. Roy bought Trigger, a palomino horse, and together they made their first picture, Under Western Stars.

Despite some powerful competition, Roy and Trigger still are one of the screen's most popular teams. Actually, Trigger is being gradually retired and Rogers is increasingly relying on Trigger, Jr.

The Trigger trappings, using 136 ounces of gold, 1,400 ounces of silver and 1,500 rubies, are insured for $50,000. On the road, the horses travel in an elegantly-styled truck and trailer.

Roy's new companion on movie and TV screens is Bullet, a remarkably intelligent German shepherd. The dog was trained by Roy himself and the two are virtually inseparable.

Railroad Cars Collide, Derail At Station

One Man Hurt As Switchman's Shanty Is Demolished

A 38-year-old local brakeman was injured yesterday afternoon when a postal car and an express car collided and derailed at the Williams Street crossing as one of the cars was being picked up by the Diesel locomotive of the Baltimore and Ohio Train No. 22.

The injured man, Harold K. Ritter, 521 Williams Street, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for observation and X-rays to determine the extent of possible injuries. He was treated for a number of minor cuts and complained of pains in his back. His condition was "good."

The crack Ambassador left the station at 3:55 p. m., 28 minutes late. Railroad officials reported early last night that the wrecked cars had been cleared from the right of way and that all operations on the division were back to normal.

Causes Derailment

Railroad officials said the derailment was caused by an "improperly held" switch.

Ritter and another brakeman, W. M. Elfritz, of 508 Bedford Street, were near a switchman's shanty at Williams Street when they saw the derailed car hurtling toward them.

Moving fast, Elfritz managed to escape injury as the mail car smashed into the shanty, reducing it virtually to kindling wood. His companion was knocked to his knees. His condition was not considered serious.

The Ambassador arrived at the Queen City station yesterday afternoon on time, and the Diesel locomotive, with one mail car, was detached from the passenger cars in order to pick up an express car, loaded with mail, which had been brought into the terminal a short time before.

Car Knocked Over

As the Diesel and mail car headed east to pick up the baggage car, the Diesel and the first truck of the mail car coupled to it cleared the switch. But the switch was prematurely thrown, allowing the car to sideswipe the mail-laden baggage car waiting on an adjoining track.

The force of the impact knocked the baggage car over on its side on top of the shanty.

Hundreds of spectators gathered at the scene within a few minutes after the unusual accident occurred.

Except for the slight delay, the accident did not affect passengers in cars stopped at the station platform while the locomotive was going for the Washington-bound car.

The derailed mail car blocked No. 2 running track and an adjoining switching track but did not affect the track on which the Ambassador was running.

Switching Mishap

Orphans Court Judges File Suit Over Pay Cut

Claim 1951 Law Unconstitutional

The three judges of Allegany County Orphans Court yesterday filed an equity suit in Circuit Court asking that the court declare unconstitutional an act of the General Assembly insofar as it would reduce their daily compensation from $15 to $12.

Attorney Earl E. Manges filed the suit for the three judges, William C. Abbott, J. French VanMeter and Hugh Stevenson, against the Board of County Commissioners because, he said, the commissioners are bound by the change and would be compelled to pay the Orphans Court judges $12 per day beginning with their qualification as a result of their re-election November 2.

Apparently the cut in pay for the Orphans Court judges is unintentional as it was involved in a measure submitted by the Baltimore County Delegation in order to increase the salary of Orphans Court judges in that county.

Baltimore County Bill

Manges explained that Chapter 636 of the 1951 Acts of the General Assembly, introduced as House Bill 274, was offered by the Baltimore County Delegation as a local bill designed to raise the pay of that county's Orphans Court judges from $10 to $15 per day, meeting five days a week.

At that time Sub-section J of Section 250 of Article 93 of the Annotated Code of Maryland read that each of the judges of the Allegany County Orphans Court should receive $15 for every day's attendance upon sessions of the court.

Because House Bill 274 would have raised the per diem compensation for the Baltimore County Orphans Court judges to $15, the same level as paid in Allegany County, the Baltimore County Delegation proposed that their bill amend Sub-section J of Section 250 so that both counties' Orphans Court judges would be included.

This was simply a local bill involving only Baltimore County, so the Allegany County Delegation had no part in its preparation, Manges explained.

However, when the bill reached the Senate, Senator John Grason Turnbull of Baltimore County opposed such a sizable increase for the Orphans Court judges from his county. He had it amended so that the increase was only to $12, Manges said.

Title Considered Faulty

Unintentionally, while increasing somewhat the pay for Orphans Court judges in Baltimore County, Senator Turnbull's action lowered the pay for the Allegany County Orphans Court judges because the amendment affected the subsection involving their compensation.

The petition filed for the three judges by Manges asserts that the title to Chapter 636 of the 1951 Acts of the General Assembly does not mention Allegany County nor is it asserted in the title that the per diem compensation of the judges of Allegany County Orphans Court shall be changed in any manner.

The three judges want a court declaration concerning the act before they qualify for their new terms to which they were elected November 2 because their salary cannot be increased or diminished during their terms of office, according to the Constitution of Maryland. Should they take office before questioning the validity of the statute, they would be compelled to receive only $12 per day in compensation.

Judges Abbott, VanMeter and Stevenson are holding over from the terms to which they were elected in November 1950. Their new commissions from Governor Theodore R. McKeldin for the new terms arrived at the Court House yesterday. They will refrain from taking their new oaths until the compensation question is settled.

County Soil Conservation Group Meets

Budget Prepared For Coming Year

The budget for the coming year was prepared at a meeting of the Allegany County Soil Conservation District Supervisors in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger at the Court House Monday.

Among other business, according to Martin M. Gordon, conservation aide with the Soil Conservation Service, it was decided to make plans to invest in a rotary cutter which would be used primarily for mowing rough pasture land and also to clear brush and brambles from pasture land.

The cutter will cost between $400 and $500. Since the last meeting in October, some 38 follow-up contacts have been made with Allegany County farmers.

Sub-soiling is continuing in the Branch watershed at Belle Grove where there are about 30 farms.

The sub-soil practice is being conducted on some 13 farms and includes approximately 150 acres of land.

Gordon pointed out there are five new district cooperators who live within the watershed including William Trail, John F. Cornwell, Stanley W. Golden, John Robboson and Floyd F. Joy.

The total acreage of the farms is 399 and it is hoped to get 100 per cent cooperation in the watershed. Attending the meeting besides Gordon were Floyd Buser, Charles Harvey, Wilbert Paul and James Weamert, assistant county agent.

Whitworth Says Autonomy Worst Md. Legislation

University Report Hearing Opens

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP) — Del. Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Allegany County Republican, today called the University of Maryland Autonomy Act passed in the 1952 General Assembly the "worst piece of legislation" that body enacted.

Whitworth expressed his views today in a mandamus action in Baltimore City Court. He is asking the court to force the University of Maryland Board of Regents to make a controversial accreditation report public.

The report, made by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, became an issue in the recent gubernatorial campaign.

Judge James K. Cullen, after hearing Whitworth and the State's lawyers, announced he would read the inch-thick report and decide whether Whitworth is entitled to see it.

H. C. Byrd, the defeated Democratic candidate, was president of the University over the period covered by the report.

A Republican congressional candidate from Baltimore, Arthur Sherwood, first made it known that the association was withholding accreditation of the university's school of medicine pending compliance with certain suggestions.

Whitworth said today his demand for inspection of the report was not "a political move."

"I think it is public matter and public business," Whitworth said in his oral argument.

He pointed out that the university is tax supported. The Allegany County legislator predicted the act which granted the university considerable control over its own affairs would be repealed at the session of the General Assembly which convenes in January.

He argued that the autonomy act, in any event, does provide that any member of the Legislature should have access to all matters concerning the operation of the University.

H. Clifton Owens, assistant attorney general who is counsel for the regents, contended the report is not the kind of information contemplated by the autonomy act. He said Whitworth wishes to inspect the report for personal rather than official reasons.

Lost Hunter Found, Dies Of Exposure

B. F. Sites Succumbs En Route To Hospital; Second Hunter Found

A 24-year-old Cabins, W. Va. hunter, who was lost overnight in the rugged mountainous area of Tucker County, was found yesterday about 9:30 a. m. by two other hunters, but died en route to the hospital.

The youth, Bryan Franklin Sites, was pronounced dead by Dr. Paul Healy, physician at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, and death was attributed to exposure.

He was reported to have suffered frozen hands and feet and other parts of the body.

The victim, who was last seen at 2 p. m. Monday in the Dolly Sods section of Grant County, was still alive but semiconscious when he was found by Paul Moss, of Bell, W. Va., and Emmett Valentine, of Yawkey, W. Va.

Snow Hampered Search

Sites was found at the head of Red Creek in Tucker County near the Grant County line. The two hunters went to a nearby camp for aid and Sites was taken to the hospital but died on the way.

A searching party which had combed the rough terrain for Sites was hampered by heavy snow flurries and temperatures of 19 above zero which hit the mountainous area during the night. Heading the searchers were Trooper John Leeson of the West Virginia State Police at Petersburg, and Harrison Shobe, conservation officer for Grant County.

Volunteer firemen of Petersburg and members of the National Guard at Moorefield were alerted to join in the search. After Sites was located yesterday, Glenn Tingle, Maysville, Ed Toney, Marmet, W. Va., and Glen Hartman, Gauley Bridge, carried him out of the woods.

During the night the searchers had built a large signal fire, but Sites apparently was unable to make his way to it. He was found not too far from where the huge fire had been built.

Elderly Hunter Returns

Meanwhile, another hunter, 72-year-old Alvin Harper of Kitts Hill, Ohio, who was lost overnight in the woods near Davis, W. Va., walked into town yesterday afternoon.

The Ohio man met a group of hunters yesterday morning and they directed him to Davis where he arrived at 12:30 p. m. He was last seen in the snow-covered woods at 4:10 p. m. Monday in the Lindy Run section near Davis.

A native of Pendleton County, W. Va., Sites was born July 1, 1933 and was a son of Mrs. Louis Lavinia (Kimmell) Sites and the late Roscoe Sites, who died in 1944.

The young hunter was employed by Harold D. Dettingburn, a poultry dealer of Petersburg. Surviving, besides his mother, are three sisters, Mrs. June Kile, Landis, W. Va.; Misses Shelve Jean and Shirley Mae Sites, and a brother, Gerald Roscoe Sites, all at home.

The body is at the Schaeffer Funeral Home in Petersburg.

William L. Wilson, Democratic candidate for State Senate, reported spending $60.50, $5 for postage and $55.50 for gasoline, oil and meals.

Coupled with Wilson's own report was one by Raymond J. Miller, who was treasurer and political agent for Wilson in his campaign. His report showed receipts of $927.60. His itemized expense list showed $116.54 for printing, $16.83 for photography, $378.68 for special advertising, $18.02 for freight, $100 to the Democratic State Central Committee, $25 for stamps, $142.20 for newspaper advertising, $100 for radio advertising and $30 in miscellaneous expenses.

James P. Russell, unsuccessful Democratic aspirant for county commissioner, reported spending $111.16. His list included $25.50 filing fee, $29.66 for cards, $4 for an engraving, $2 for a photograph, $25 for use of his automobile and $25 in miscellaneous expenses.

James G. Stevenson, Republican who was unopposed for re-election as clerk to the county commissioners, said he spent $64, $20 to the Republican State Central Committee and the rest for cars and workers.

The total expense of George R. Hughes Jr., newly elected member of the House of Delegates was $208.63. A breakdown of his statement shows that $45.14 was spent on printing and small cards, $15.70 for matches; printing and large

Number Changes Needed To Plan For Dial Phones

Rural Line Regrouping Slated After Jan. 1

A number of four-party telephone numbers have been changed here in recent months, and additional changes are planned early next year on rural lines in connection with line reorganization needed before Cumberland telephone service is converted from manual to dial operation.

C. Walter Haschert, local manager, said a number of four-party numbers in Cumberland have had to be changed in recent months during a re-grouping program.

He said almost all of these changes have been made, and that whenever possible, the company has arranged to have calls to these changed numbers handled by special operators to speed service.

Some time after January 1, Haschert said, the rural interim changes will be made, and customers will be given temporary numbers to use until their new Parkview dial numbers can be assigned.

Haschert said that at present, customers on rural lines hear as high as five rings, and that in the new dial system, they will hear either one or two rings.

To accomplish this, all rural lines must be reorganized to eliminate letters which call for more than two rings.

Rural lines, some of which are occasionally carrying as high as nine customers, must be reduced so they handle not more than eight.

Haschert said the company realizes the changed numbers are an inconvenience to customers, but said the switch must be made to prepare for dial operations.

Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will officiate and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park. The bodies were expected to arrive here last night and will be at the funeral home today.

One Man Hurt As Switchman's Shanty Is Demolished

A 38-year-old local brakeman was injured yesterday afternoon when a postal car and an express car collided and derailed at the Williams Street crossing as one of the cars was being picked up by the Diesel locomotive of the Baltimore and Ohio Train No. 22.

The injured man, Harold K. Ritter, 521 Williams Street, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for observation and X-rays to determine the extent of possible injuries. He was treated for a number of minor cuts and complained of pains in his back. His condition was "good."

The accident occurred at 3:20 p. m., a few minutes after the eastbound Cleveland-to-Baltimore passenger train had pulled into the Queen City Station.

The crack Ambassador left the station at 3:55 p. m., 28 minutes late. Railroad officials reported early last night that the wrecked cars had been cleared from the right of way and that all operations on the division were back to normal.

Causes Derailment

Railroad officials said the derailment was caused by an "improperly held" switch.

Ritter and another brakeman, W. M. Elfritz, of 508 Bedford Street, were near a switchman's shanty at Williams Street when they saw the derailed car hurtling toward them.

Moving fast, Elfritz managed to escape injury as the mail car smashed into the shanty, reducing it virtually to kindling wood. His companion was knocked to his knees. His condition was not considered serious.

The Ambassador arrived at the Queen City station yesterday afternoon on time, and the Diesel locomotive, with one mail car, was detached from the passenger cars in order to pick up an express car, loaded with mail, which had been brought into the terminal a short time before.

Car Knocked Over

As the Diesel and mail car headed east to pick up the baggage car, the Diesel and the first truck of the mail car coupled to it cleared the switch. But the switch was prematurely thrown, allowing the car to sideswipe the mail-laden baggage car waiting on an adjoining track.

The force of the impact knocked the baggage car over on its side on top of the shanty.

Hundreds of spectators gathered at the scene within a few minutes after the unusual accident occurred.

Except for the slight delay, the accident did not affect passengers in cars stopped at the station platform while the locomotive was going for the Washington-bound car.

The derailed mail car blocked No. 2 running track and an adjoining switching track but did not affect the track on which the Ambassador was running.

Switching Mishap

Orphans Court Judges File Suit Over Pay Cut

Claim 1951 Law Unconstitutional

The three judges of Allegany County Orphans Court yesterday filed an equity suit in Circuit Court asking that the court declare unconstitutional an act of the General Assembly insofar as it would reduce their daily compensation from $15 to $12.

Attorney Earl E. Manges filed the suit for the three judges, William C. Abbott, J. French VanMeter and Hugh Stevenson, against the Board of County Commissioners because, he said, the commissioners are bound by the change and would be compelled to pay the Orphans Court judges $12 per day beginning with their qualification as a result of their re-election November 2.

Apparently the cut in pay for the Orphans Court judges is unintentional as it was involved in a measure submitted by the Baltimore County Delegation in order to increase the salary of Orphans Court judges in that county.

Baltimore County Bill

Manges explained that Chapter 636 of the 1951 Acts of the General Assembly, introduced as House Bill 274, was offered by the Baltimore County Delegation as a local bill designed to raise the pay of that county's Orphans Court judges from $10 to $15 per day, meeting five days a week.

At that time Sub-section J of Section 250 of Article 93 of the Annotated Code of Maryland read that each of the judges of the Allegany County Orphans Court should receive $15 for every day's attendance upon sessions of the court.

Because House Bill 274 would have raised the per diem compensation for the Baltimore County Orphans Court judges to $15, the same level as paid in Allegany County, the Baltimore County Delegation proposed that their bill amend Sub-section J of Section 250 so that both counties' Orphans Court judges would be included.

This was simply a local bill involving only Baltimore County, so the Allegany County Delegation had no part in its preparation, Manges explained.

However, when the bill reached the Senate, Senator John Grason Turnbull of Baltimore County opposed such a sizable increase for the Orphans Court judges from his county. He had it amended so that the increase was only to $12, Manges said.

Title Considered Faulty

Unintentionally, while increasing somewhat the pay for Orphans Court judges in Baltimore County, Senator Turnbull's action lowered the pay for the Allegany County Orphans Court judges because the amendment affected the subsection involving their compensation.

The petition filed for the three judges by Manges asserts that the title to Chapter 636 of the 1951 Acts of the General Assembly does not mention Allegany County nor is it asserted in the title that the per diem compensation of the judges of Allegany County Orphans Court shall be changed in any manner.

The three judges want a court declaration concerning the act before they qualify for their new terms to which they were elected November 2 because their salary cannot be increased or diminished during their terms of office, according to the Constitution of Maryland. Should they take office before questioning the validity of the statute, they would be compelled to receive only $12 per day in compensation.

Judges Abbott, VanMeter and Stevenson are holding over from the terms to which they were elected in November 1950. Their new commissions from Governor Theodore R. McKeldin for the new terms arrived at the Court House yesterday. They will refrain from taking their new oaths until the compensation question is settled.

County Soil Conservation Group Meets

Budget Prepared For Coming Year

The budget for the coming year was prepared at a meeting of the Allegany County Soil Conservation District Supervisors in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger at the Court House Monday.

Among other business, according to Martin M. Gordon, conservation aide with the Soil Conservation Service, it was decided to make plans to invest in a rotary cutter which would be used primarily for mowing rough pasture land and also to clear brush and brambles from pasture land.

The cutter will cost between $400 and $500. Since the last meeting in October, some 38 follow-up contacts have been made with Allegany County farmers.

Sub-soiling is continuing in the Branch watershed at Belle Grove where there are about 30 farms.

The sub-soil practice is being conducted on some 13 farms and includes approximately 150 acres of land.

Gordon pointed out there are five new district cooperators who live within the watershed, including William Trail, John F. Cornwell, Stanley W. Golden, John Robboson and Floyd F. Joy.

The total acreage of the farms is 399 and it is hoped to get 100 per cent cooperation in the watershed. Attending the meeting besides Gordon were Floyd Buser, Charles Harvey, Wilbert Paul and James Weamert, assistant county agent.

Whitworth Says Autonomy Worst Md. Legislation

University Report Hearing Opens

BALTIMORE, Nov. 30 (AP) — Del. Horace P. Whitworth Jr., Allegany County Republican, today called the University of Maryland Autonomy Act passed in the 1952 General Assembly the "worst piece of legislation" that body enacted.

Whitworth expressed his views today in a mandamus action in Baltimore City Court. He is asking the court to force the University of Maryland Board of Regents to make a controversial accreditation report public.

The report, made by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, became an issue in the recent gubernatorial campaign.

Judge James K. Cullen, after hearing Whitworth and the State's lawyers, announced he would read the inch-thick report and decide whether Whitworth is entitled to see it.

H. C. Byrd, the defeated Democratic candidate, was president of the University over the period covered by the report.

A Republican congressional candidate from Baltimore, Arthur Sherwood, first made it known that the association was withholding accreditation of the university's school of medicine pending compliance with certain suggestions.

Whitworth said today his demand for inspection of the report was not "a political" move.

"I think it is public matter and public business," Whitworth said in his oral argument.

He pointed out that the university is tax supported. The Allegany County legislator predicted the act which granted the university considerable control over its own affairs would be repealed at the session of the General Assembly which convenes in January.

He argued that the autonomy act, in any event, does provide that any member of the Legislature should have access to all matters concerning the operation of the University.

H. Clifton Owens, assistant attorney general who is counsel for the regents, contended the report is not the kind of information contemplated by the autonomy act. He said Whitworth wishes to inspect the report for personal rather than official reasons.

Lost Hunter Found, Dies Of Exposure

B. F. Sites Succumbs En Route To Hospital; Second Hunter Found

A 24-year-old Cabins, W. Va. hunter, who was lost overnight in the rugged mountainous area of Tucker County, was found yesterday about 9:30 a. m. by two other hunters, but died en route to the hospital.

The youth, Bryan Franklin Sites, was pronounced dead by Dr. Paul Healy, physician at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, and death was attributed to exposure.

He was reported to have suffered frozen hands and feet and other parts of the body.

The victim, who was last seen at 2 p. m. Monday in the Dolly Sods section of Grant County, was still alive but semiconscious when he was found by Paul Moss, of Bell, W. Va., and Emmett Valentine, of Yawkey, W. Va.

Snow Hampered Search

Sites was found at the head of Red Creek in Tucker County near the Grant County line. The two hunters went to a nearby camp for aid and Sites was taken to the hospital but died on the way.

A searching party which had combed the rough terrain for Sites was hampered by heavy snow flurries and temperatures of 19 above zero which hit the mountainous area during the night. Heading the searchers were Trooper John Leeson of the West Virginia State Police at Petersburg, and Harrison Shobe, conservation officer for Grant County.

Volunteer firemen of Petersburg and members of the National Guard at Moorefield were alerted to join in the search. After Sites was located yesterday, Glenn Tingle, Maysville, Ed Toney, Marmet, W. Va., and Glen Hartman, Gauley Bridge, carried him out of the woods.

During the night the searchers had built a large signal fire, but Sites apparently was unable to make his way to it. He was found not too far from where the huge fire had been built.

Elderly Hunter Returns

Meanwhile, another hunter, 72-year-old Alvin Harper of Kitts Hill, Ohio, who was lost overnight in the woods near Davis, W. Va., walked into town yesterday afternoon.

The Ohio man met a group of hunters yesterday morning and they directed him to Davis where he arrived at 12:30 p. m. He was last seen in the snow-covered woods at 4:10 p. m. Monday in the Lindy Run section near Davis.

A native of Pendleton County, W. Va., Sites was born July 1, 1933 and was a son of Mrs. Louis Lavinia (Kimmell) Sites and the late Roscoe Sites, who died in 1944.

The young hunter was employed by Harold D. Dettingburn, a poultry dealer of Petersburg. Surviving, besides his mother, are three sisters, Mrs. June Kile, Landis, W. Va.; Misses Shelve Jean and Shirley Mae Sites, and a brother, Gerald Roscoe Sites, all at home.

The body is at the Schaeffer Funeral Home in Petersburg.

The total expense of George R. Hughes Jr., newly elected member of the House of Delegates was $208.63. A breakdown of his statement shows that $45.14 was spent on printing and small cards, $15.70 for matches; printing and large

Number Changes Needed To Plan For Dial Phones

Rural Line Regrouping Slated After Jan. 1

A number of four-party telephone numbers have been changed here in recent months, and additional changes are planned early next year on rural lines in connection with line reorganization needed before Cumberland telephone service is converted from manual to dial operation.

C. Walter Haschert, local manager, said a number of four-party numbers in Cumberland have had to be changed in recent months during a re-grouping program.

He said almost all of these changes have been made, and that whenever possible, the company has arranged to have calls to these changed numbers handled by special operators to speed service.

Some time after January 1, Haschert said, the rural interim changes will be made, and customers will be given temporary numbers to use until their new Parkview dial numbers can be assigned.

Haschert said that at present, customers on rural lines hear as high as five rings, and that in the new dial system, they will hear either one or two rings.

To accomplish this, all rural lines must be reorganized to eliminate letters which call for more than two rings.

Rural lines, some of which are occasionally carrying as high as nine customers, must be reduced so they handle not more than eight.

Haschert said the company realizes the changed numbers are an inconvenience to customers, but said the switch must be made to prepare for dial operations.
